NEW YORK HAS EASY SOLUTION OF CONTROVERSY

(Special To The News)

NEW YORK, April 5.—When anything happens in Washington, they call in the experts of that line to confer on it. Now, to get this vice presidential table manners controversy settled, I guess Secretary of State Stimson will go into a middle with Emily Post and decide how to put the place cards.

If this controversy is instead of being in political life, they would solve the problem very easily by having Curtis marry somebody. They marry for a lot less reasons than that here.

Certainly lucky for Lindy that Mr. Morrow is not ambassador to Chili, or the Argentine.

Yours, WILL.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Last night's rain seemed to have been accompanied by an avalanche of fishing worms, the ground and sidewalks being covered with the creatures this morning. Of course the worms came down from the sky being merely flooded out of their earthly homes by the water.

Signs along the hollow in Blaine and Mercer streets, recently placed there by the city and warning against dumping tin cans and other refuse in the street, were being torn down. Evidently the health department knew this in advance, because plenty of them were posted.

City firemen have had things pretty easy for the past week, not a single alarm having been rung in since last Friday. For one thing, the grass has been too wet to burn, 90 per cent of the alarms in the past two or three weeks having been from this cause.

There's going to be a hot time at the Legion Home this evening, when the U. S. Army band will play the war get together. A lot of the men are going to be shown what a fine institution the American Legion is, the officers of Perry S. Gaston post state.

Speaking about war veterans, one of Pa. News's assistants woke up about 2 o'clock this morning and thought the war was still on. The flashing of lightning and continuous roll of thunder made one think a real battle was on. Ma News thought so too, the way she buried her head beneath the pillow, while little Junior News just slept peacefully away through it all.

A lot of fine new lawns and terraces were ruined by the heavy rains last evening. Lots of old ones too. Pa. News saw places where the earth was washed right away from the roots of the grass.

Slayer Is Given Life Sentence

WILKES-BARE, Pa., April 5.—Theodore Federich, Pittsburgh, escaped the electric chair today when a jury in criminal court here returned a verdict of guilty of first degree murder in connection with the slaying of his sister-in-law Mrs. Carolina Beidron and her son John at their East End home.

The verdict of the jury fixed the penalty of Federich at life imprisonment.

When I Was 21

Captain Melvin L. Craig, who for three years has been in charge of the U. S. Army headquarters here, was working for the English Oil Company in Tampico, Mexico when he was 21 years of age.

Two years later he joined the United States Army and in addition to being in every state in the Union, he has been stationed in England, France, and a number of other European countries. Later he was sent to Honolulu where he remained for three years.

He has been in charge of the local unit for the past three years. He is married and lives on Elizabeth street.

Herrick's Body Now Enroute To United States

French Cruiser Tourville Steams Out Of Brest Today Bearing Flag-Draped Coffin

SHOULD ARRIVE IN AMERICA APRIL 13

Silent Thousands Pay Homage To Herrick As Funeral Train Goes From Paris To Brest

By GEORGE AXELSSON, International News Service Staff Correspondent

BREST, France, April 5.—Myron T. Herrick, late American ambassador to France, revered in death as deeply as he was beloved in life, is homeward bound this afternoon.

Just at 12 o'clock noon, the speedy French cruiser Tourville, with the body on board, weighed anchor and steamed for the United States.

It was regarded as fitting that the body should be taken from Brest, for it was through this port that the American soldiers poured in a steady stream after the United States entered the great war. It has long been a port of American associations.

Should Arrive April 13.

The destination of the Tourville is New York, where it should reach on or about April 13.

A squadron of seaplanes and three French destroyers formed an honorary escort as the gray, cruiser raced seaward. They accompanied the cruiser to the 12 mile shore limit, the destroyers steaming sedately about the Tourville while the seaplanes swept in wide circles through the misty, gray sky overhead.

The special train bearing Ambassador Herrick's body from Paris had arrived at 7:30 o'clock after its 400 mile journey through Brittany. At many stations quaintly garbed Brittany folk, men and women, had kept a long nightly vigil to pay their simple respects to the memory of the late envoy.

The dull, foggy dawn showed an enormous crowd gathered at the railway station. A large section of the population had turned out and there were detachments of sailors and marines in parade dress who later accompanied the coffin to Pont Gueydon for a brief ceremony before it was carried out to the Tourville from a tender.

Buildings Draped.

The railway station, public buildings and many other structures bore French and American flags which were at half mast and others bore bands of crepe to signify mourning.

Warcraft, merchantmen and other craft lined the harbor with flags half mast, the crowds pressed closer as the coffin was removed from the tender.

City To Seek Removal Of Dam

After council heard letters read from Pennsylvania Water Power and Resource board engineers today, Councilman D. O. Davies introduced a motion instructing the city engineer to make application to the state for the removal of the Rosena dam.

Solicitor White told colleagues that Contractor Byers, constructing the Neshaunook creek bridge, had informed him that every time a rain fell it raised the stream 18 inches.

South New Castle Teacher Injured

Auto Collision Occurs On Morris Street; Miss Pankratz Hurt

Automobiles of Miss Wanda Quigley and R. H. Saunders were damaged Thursday afternoon and Miss Thelma Pankratz was severely cut by glass from the broken windshield of Miss Quigley's car, when the machines were in collision on Morris street.

According to the reports made to the police, Miss Quigley and Miss Pankratz were enroute north on Morris street in the Quigley car, when R. H. Saunders, who was driving in the same direction went around the Quigley car.

As he was about past the Quigley car, his machine skidded and struck the Quigley machine, breaking the windshield of the latter machine and doing other damage. Miss Quigley escaped injury. The injuries of Miss Pankratz are now believed to be serious. The young ladies are teachers in the South New Castleboro schools.

Western Pennsylvania School Men Gather At Round Table Here

School men from all parts of Western Pennsylvania are in New Castle today attending the Principals and Superintendents Round Table which is in session today and tomorrow.

Among the guests are men known throughout the country for their outstanding school work, men who have been pioneers in education, and with them the younger executives who have come on in the past ten years.

The first session of the Round Table was held in the Teachers' room of the Washington Junior High school at 12:15 when the school men who had arrived at that hour held a luncheon.

For many the gathering was in the nature of a reunion as they had not seen each other since the meeting of a year ago.

Principal F. L. Orth in Charge

In the absence of Dr. C. C. Green, superintendent of schools, Principal Frank L. Orth of the Senior High school was in charge and after a formal word of greeting to the guests following the luncheon he introduced Dr. J. B. Ritchey, superintendent of the McKeesport, Pa. schools, and a leader in education in Pennsylvania.

Dr. Ritchey spoke on "The Superintendent As Face Two"

Secretary Of Agriculture Discontinues Stable Of Horses; Sent To Federal Farm

WASHINGTON, April 5.—President Hoover's ideas on economy which already have ditched the Presidential Yacht Mayflower and abolished the White House stables are recognized in some quarters as an "example" for his cabinet.

Today bright and early Secretary of Agriculture Hyde gave out an announcement that two saddle horses maintained for the pleasure of the Secretary of Agriculture at Government expense, will be no more. The thoroughbreds were trotted out to Beltsville, Md., to the agricultural experimental farm to be utilized.

Rainstorm Cripples Railroad Service At Oil City Is Report

(International News Service)

OIL CITY, Pa., April 5.—Rainfall of 1.38 inches overnight, one of the heaviest in this section for some time, sent streams upward today and caused minor landslides along railroad right of ways. Local offices of the Pennsylvania Railroad were advised of eighteen slides between here and Pittsburgh. Practically all were of minor nature.

The largest, a mile and a half south of Redbank, covered one track for thirty five feet to a depth of three feet, it was reported. Passenger trains were delayed only a few minutes, however.

PHILADELPHIA, April 5.—A sea tale as strange as ever spun by the ancient mariner was scheduled to be heard before a U. S. commissioner here today.

The three semi-conscious survivors of an 11-day battle with the sea aboard the schooner yacht Nomad were expected to crack the riddle of their captainless ship, found wallowing like a drunken sailor in the valley of the waves.

While Leland H. Ross, New York millionaire, owner of the Nomad, Richard J. French of Brooklyn, and Henry G. Bush of East Albany, Ga., freshwater sailor, were to be questioned concerning the missing captain, customs officials declined to state whether any charges would be lodged against any of the trio.

No. 2 Furnace To Be Started

Carnegie Steel Plant Soon To Be Operating At 100 Per cent

ABOUT HUNDRED MEN ARE AFFECTED

Business conditions at the New Castle works of the Carnegie Steel company are decidedly improved, according to the announcement made this morning by Robert J. Tully, general superintendent of the plant.

The No. 2 blast furnace of the plant, which has not been in operation recently, is to be placed in operation as soon as this can be done, he announced, which will place the New Castle works in operation at 100 per cent capacity.

This is due, Mr. Tully states, to the fact that there is a decided increase in demand for Bessemer steel. It will mean the employment of approximately 100 additional men, he states.

The operation of the New Castle Steel works at capacity is pleasing news to this city.

New Wilmington Mercer Highway Blocked By Water

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, April 5.—Entirely blocking the road to Mercer the water in the Little Neshaunook Creek here rose to an unprecedented height early this morning. Up until noon, the high water surrounded the first of the two bridges on the New Wilmington-Mercer road and rendered that route impassible.

At the lower New Wilmington bridge on the Volant road the water was also above the road at the side of the bridge and within a foot of covering the bridge. Below the bridge the swollen river widened to a width of almost 200 yards. In the opinion of Jack Hulme, who has been director of New Wilmington bathing pool for the last several years, the water in the little creek is the highest he has ever seen.

Besides carrying away fences, logs and movable lumber the spiced torrent rose high enough to carry away part of a hay stack in one place. The water of the bridge, however, were seriously threatened except a small culvert bridge on the football field which was partly carried away.

The water was starting to fall at noon today.

Mayor Asks Advice On Anti-Parking

Says Streets Are Not Being Swept And Ordinance May Be Attacked

Mayor William H. Gillespie today told council that he had been advised that automobile associations in various places proposed to attack the constitutionality of ordinances, similar to one here, by which parking of automobiles and towing to garages is ordered after certain hours.

He asked council their desire.

None of them would take a positive stand, according to remarks.

The ordinance was passed here a year ago so "the street department could sweep the streets."

It was stated in council today that the department had not been doing this.

Council will await the presence of Councilman Reeves before maintaining or repealing the ordinance.

Oil Permits Are Ordered Cancelled

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Continuing President Hoover's oil conservation program, the interior department cancelled 1,273 permits to prospect for oil and gas on the public domain, during the week ending April 4. Secretary Wilbur announced today.

In addition to this 1,250 holders of such permits were called upon to show cause why their permits should not be cancelled for failure to comply with the terms under which they were issued of pending applications for permits to prospect which had not been acted upon 2,600 have been finally rejected and the cases closed.

Wilbur said that 5,079 cases had been acted upon since the president announced his oil policy.

TERRIFIC DOWNPOUR IN EARLY MORNING CAUSES HEAVY LOSS

Washouts Halt Railway and Interurban Traffic For Hours — Streets Badly Damaged — Rivers at Near Flood Stage — Nearly 3 Inches of Rain Fall. Several Narrow Escapes From Death and Injury.

Streets were washed out, state highways covered with water, and train and street car service was interrupted early this morning by the most terrific electrical and rain storm which has swept the New Castle district in many years. Streams were over their banks in the lowlying districts and damage of a most extensive nature, difficult to estimate was inflicted by the fury of the elements.

A total rainfall of 2.82 inches was recorded during the 24-hour period ending at 9 o'clock this morning, practically all of which fell after midnight last night. It was the heaviest fall of rain recorded in many years, the nearest approach to last night's storm occurring in August, 1928, when 2.25 inches of rain fell in a 24-hour period.

Narrow Escapes Occur

Many narrow escapes from death and serious injury were reported, a Pennsylvania freight train having run into a washout a mile north of Pulaski. In New Castle, a little girl fell from a culvert along Neal street and narrowly escaped drowning. Report was made that the body of an infant was seen floating down the Mahoning river.

Both the Neshaunook creek and Shenango river are at a near flood stage, but at noon today, the water was stationary and would soon begin dropping, weather observer B. F. Johnson felt. The Shenango river rose 5.2 feet since 9 o'clock yesterday morning. Mr. Johnson reports the most rapid rise in recent years. This morning at 9 o'clock it stood at 12.4 feet and was rising at the rate of 0.4 inches an hour. The flood stage at the New Castle Water Works is 18 feet, but the Shenango river is over its banks in the low districts north of the Water Works.

Only the kindness of Providence prevented a serious flood in the city. Had the rain continued but another hour at the rate it fell towards the close of the storm, the downtown section of the city would have been under water and damage running into hundreds of thousands of dollars would have probably resulted.

Veritable Cloudburst

The storm broke shortly after midnight, several electrical storms seeming to circle over the district, gradually increasing in intensity. About 4 o'clock this morning, it was at its height, a veritable cloudburst occurring.

The lightning was almost continuous and was accompanied by a terrific bombardment of thunder. Hail accompanied the rain, while the wind also rose, adding to the fury of the storm. Then it gradually subsided.

Street Commissioner Harry Moore stated that it would probably require ten days to two weeks to repair the damage done to city streets. Every unpaved hillside street was badly washed, the most severe damage being reported on Hutchinson and Quest streets and Swansboro avenue, all of which have been roped off and closed to traffic. Deep fissures were worn into them by the rushing water.

Must Open All Water Courses

Council Moves At White's Dictation And Action May Result

EUCLID AVENUE IS FLOODED AGAIN

Council today instructed city solicitor to proceed against any person or persons who refuse to open water courses in the City of New Castle as a result of the flooding of property. The resolution passed by council provides that all must be opened within 30 days.

When solons met today Solicitor Robert White (who's own cellar was flooded again last night) called up the Euclid avenue situation before city council. He said:

"I realize it is bad. One man asked me to come over and he said he would like me. Not being one who seeks a beating I naturally did not go, because I know what the situation is."

"They want a remedy and I want one, also in that district. But," added White, "if we cannot do it for any other people we cannot do it for them."

White then explained that contractors build small sewers where there are water courses then expect the city to build a larger sewer at a big cost, to take care of the situation.

"Our sewer at Euclid avenue is not big enough. I cannot proceed against other persons if someone else has not got a sufficiently large sewer."

"Trees and other debris block the sewers. The houses are in the run of the stream. I'm going to notify all persons who have interfered with or obstructed waterways to clear them."

He then dictated to a stenographer a resolution which was presented by Tyler and passed. In substance it follows:

"The council recommends that the city solicitor is hereby instructed to notify every person and property owner who has closed or is keeping closed an ancient watercourse to open it immediately and if they do not within 30 days, action in the court of equity will start. Wherever the solicitor and city engineer believes the closing is endangering the streets, sewer and other property of the city or is causing property damage which might involve the city in action for damage."

TOPS THEM ALL

PHILADELPHIA, April 5.—Leland R. Ross, wealthy New York owner of the yacht Nomad, was formally arrested here this afternoon charged with unlawful transportation of intoxicating liquors and attempted smuggling by federal authorities.

Ross was specifically accused in the warrants of attempting "to smuggle 40 bottles of liquor and with unlawful fully transporting intoxicating liquor." He merely smiled when the warrants were served on him and apparently was inclined to take the matter good-naturedly.

Deposits in the saving banks of the country 100 years ago were not quite seven million dollars. Today it is over 10 billion dollars.

STAR LORE.

A MARVEL OF PHYSICS.

By Arthur Day, Carpenter.

One winds a watch and it continues to run until it has exhausted that energy imparted at the winding; then it stops—is run down as we say. A boy spins his top. It runs charmingly for a while then begins to wobble and finally it topples over. A gyroscope will run for an amazing long period of time but will ultimately slow down and come to a standstill when left to itself.

An atom is conceived to be a tiny solar system having almost infinitely small planetary electrons rotating round a minute nucleus of sun. But the atom never runs down. It is an immortal microcosm.

PHILADELPHIA, April 5.—Here is the story told today by Leland Hamilton Ross of the terrors which beset him and his crew aboard the private yacht Nomad, which limped into port in the small hours under the escort of coast guardsmen.

"I left New York on December 21st for a cruise to the West Indies. My wife and a crew other than the one with me now accompanied me. We went to Nassau and from there to Havana, then to Key West. We started for New York from Key West and stopped at Charleston, S. C., on March 24th. There we replaced the crew."

"After we had left Charleston, where Mrs. Ross left the ship we ran into a severe 'Easter' storm. Captain Schofield was a capable man and an old seaman. We would no sooner change our course to get out of the storm when we would encounter another from the northeast."

"If it had not been for our gasoline engine being out of commission we might have weathered the storm, but one night we shut the gas engine down because the vibration disturbed us in our sleep. We could not start it again. We were forced to go under sail."

"During the height of the storm, Capt. Schofield came below and said: 'I will take control of this boat. I got you into this mess and with the help of God will get you out of it.'"

Funniest Woman In the World At Capitol Monday

Margaret Lillie, one of the funniest women in America, will appear at the Capitol one week, commencing Monday, with a special matinee. She carries a company of 20, chorus of 10 and principals. The picture for Monday is "Seven Footprints to Satan", a First National release. Also The Collegians will be showing and the latest Pathe News and Ben Sjulansky's popular band will furnish the music and Hammond at the organ.

MODERN TRAVELING IS DE LUXE

Modern traveling is so easy and luxurious that milady may transport her own personal belongings, as well as her clothes, to make herself "at home" in train or hotel. Her pyjama or nightgown for the sleeping compartment may be crepe de chine, or, if she considers that too fragile, crepe satin or "toile de soie," checked or plaided, the background green or gray, striped with mauve, pink, blue or green. Her dressing gown may be of velvet, harmonizing with her gown. Two nightgowns are sketched, the one on the right covered with a chic bed jacket.

ATTRACTIVE DINNER BY JOINT SOCIETIES

To celebrate Founders Day the Woman's Foreign Missionary society and the Weaver Circle of the Epworth M. E. Church held a joint meeting on Thursday evening in the church dining room.

An elaborate dinner was served at 6:30 which was followed by a musical program. A duet number was given by Esther and Emily Reynolds and readings by Leone Sankey and Loretta Nicholson. Emily Reynolds gave a piano solo and a vocal solo was given by Mrs. Lillian Bornman.

An outstanding feature of the evening was a demonstration entitled "A Remembering Party." Those taking part were Mrs. Laura Edwards, Mrs. Ethel Johnson, Grace Stanger, Lorraine McCann, Mrs. Essie Morrison and Mrs. Ruth Wright.

Plans were made for a thank offering in May for both societies.

G. W. C. Club.

G. W. C. club associates were received as guests in the home of Mrs. Emma Graham, Chestnut street, on Thursday evening. Special guests were Mrs. W. C. Twaddle and son Peter of Beaver Falls. Kensington and games were in the club and Mrs. Marley Scott was the prize winner.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. H. N. Allen and Mrs. George Bleakley.

In two weeks Mrs. C. C. Coulthard, Morton street, will entertain.

B. D. T. Club.

Miss Gladys Gray of Adams street entertained the members of the B. D. T. club at her home Thursday evening. Games and contests were the amusement of the evening. Prizes were won by Gladys Irwin and Mrs. Lillian Edwards. Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by her mother.

Mrs. Blanche Canfield will entertain the club in two weeks at her home on East Washington street.

Ladies Scottish Club.

The hours were spent socially when Mrs. Emerson Chambers entertained the Ladies Scottish club members in the home of her mother Mrs. Anna Weale, Williams street, Thursday evening. Mrs. David Leishman was the prize winner.

Pink and white tones were carried out in the refreshments served by the hostess.

In two weeks Mrs. David Leishman, Reynolds street, will entertain.

Allegr Club.

Two tables of 500 were in play when Mrs. Marshall Curran, Lutton street, entertained the Allegr club associates Thursday evening. Favors for high scores were won by Mrs. Everett Brest and Mrs. Herbert Johnson.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Ralph Snyder.

In three weeks the members will have their annual dinner, the place to be announced later.

July 12 Club.

July 12 club associates were entertained in the home of Mrs. Charles Gardner of East Brook Thursday evening. Games and music were pastimes and Mrs. Taylor Andrews was the prize winner.

Missionary Meeting.

The April meeting of the Woman's Missionary society of the First Baptist church took place Thursday afternoon in the church with Section Seven in charge of the program. Mrs. C. R. Klingensmith was leader and conducted the devotional period. Prayer was offered by Mrs. Frank Jones.

Mrs. Nathan Joseph gave an interesting talk on Africa and reviewed two chapters of the study book. Mrs. W. O. Williams and Mrs. T. C. Post gave a report of visits made at the Al-mira Home. A card of thanks was read from the ladies of the home, thanking the society for the valentines sent on Valentine day.

Mrs. Perry McCune read a letter of thanks from Dr. Petrol of the Crow Indian mission for the gift of $50 sent to the mission at Christmas time. Mrs. George Fox gave an unusually interesting talk on the Holy Land from a chart made by herself.

Following the program a social time was enjoyed at which time refreshments were served by Section Five.

The president Mrs. W. H. Patterson presided during the meeting. Plans were completed for the annual dollar day luncheon which will be held on April 25.

Missionary Meeting.

The Women's Home Missionary society of the Reformed Presbyterian church met in the home of Mrs. Etna Chambers, Croton avenue, Thursday with 11 members present. Devotionals were in charge of Mrs. W. H. Patterson and following the business session Mrs. Ella Rote, mite box secretary, was in charge of the program. Twenty dollars and twenty-three cents was reported from the mite boxes. Mrs. Agnes Beatty was taken in as a new member.

Refreshments were served and the hostess was assisted by Mrs. Jack Griddle.

THE WAGES OF SIN

NEWSPAPER headlines of a day carry a striking emphasis of the fact that even in this fast living age, the "Wages of Sin is Death."

Take a look at several headlines culled from one edition:

"Man Kills Girl, 17, Then Ends His Life."
 "Find Auditor And Girl Slain In Car."
 "Bullet And Gas Kill Reading Women."
 The age old law is still inexorable! Beware!

DISCONTENT

DISCONTENT was long considered a sort of sin, not the unpardonable sin, but one of the numberless other lesser sins. In some quarters the dissatisfied-with-themselves are still preened at and pleaded with to follow the trail of complacency and contentedness.

Through the ages and for generation after generation the ignorant masses were kept in subjugation and want by this creed which considered ambition and evil and aspirations as temptations placed before the common people by the devil. Twentieth century commercialism and standards of living have broken down this creed in the United States and elsewhere to that degree where those without ambitions and the will to fulfill them are scornfully denounced by the more provident.

George Jean Nathan writes in a current magazine: "Happiness is ruinous to accomplishment. Few men can do first-rate work when they are bathed in a mood of expansive cheer. A touch of unhappiness, of concern, of discontent, is essential to vigorous enterprise and achievement. When everything is going with beautiful smoothness in a man's daily life, his work immediately shows the effects of it. He stacks up a trifle; he takes a bit too much for granted; he slides back, however imperceptibly. It is when things are not exactly hotsy-totsy with him that he produces the best that there is in him."

The men and women who are discontented with themselves, their business, their environment, their station in life, are the men and women who are accomplishing the things worth while.

AND THEN, ON SECOND THOUGHT—

A BILL to exempt washing machines from levy for distress on rent passed the senate at Harrisburg, 26 to 18, only to be reversed after the roll-call when enough changes of vote were recorded to kill the measure, 26 to 18.

A sentimental explanation of action is easy to find. The present generation of legislators passed its boyhood about the time when hand-operated washing machines first came into vogue. Perhaps among the Solon's chores was the job of churning or swinging the clumsy old mechanism before starting off for school on Monday mornings. He remembered it with no pleasure, (but possibly with a lingering sense of its disciplinary value, a system of training which today his descendants escape. So he felt that in allowing the rent collector to seize the machine the integrity of the home would be violated.

Then, on second thought, he recalled that the modern machine operates with a motor. It has no poetic claims to tender and painful memories of the past. It is only a household accessory without personality. With these recollections the judicial mind returned and the senators could see no reason for distinguishing the washing machine from other forms of the electrical conquest over drudgery.

MARRIAGE A FAILURE?

A COMMITTEE of the National Council of Federated Churches is in the process of investigating marriage. In a preliminary report recently this committee says that, so far, its investigation indicates that the church is guilty of neglect in pastoral oversight of the home, allowing it to be taken over to too large extent by physicians, lawyers, and the courts. In this there is undoubtedly considerable truth.

But there is another viewpoint. Marriage itself may not be a failure. It may merely show up human failures. Either husband or wife, or both, may be the real failures. Thus such failure becomes the fault of the individual rather than the institution.

Human failures always account for the so-called failure of all institutions and laws, however right in principle and equitable in application. It's human nature, however, to place responsibility on the institution or law, and that is what seems to be the case regarding marriage.

Trying to get even usually makes a man look odd.

The quickest thing some people can do is sit down.

Worst second-story men are those who tell the same story twice.

Some fellows work their way through school; others work their parents.

Little girls are punished for making faces. But not when they grow up!

Writer in a London magazine says that in America "the biggest business giant is as accessible as his office boy." It is only the small fry that are continually in conference.

"Some men will buy $1000 motor cars," says the Memphis Democrat, "and then kick if the washerwoman charges a quarter extra." Well, it put it to it, a lot of those chaps could prove they need the quarter to help out on the instalments.

Beer, Says Wisconsin.

New Engine, Big News.

Against Women Teachers.

Will Rogers understands public sentiment, expresses it tersely, and affects inaccurate use of English, despite his training at Eton and Oxford. He says "There is two things that can disrupt business in the country. One is war and the other is a meeting of the Federal Reserve Bank." War, fortunately, is suspended for the moment.

Wisconsin votes "wet" by a margin of 125,000. The proposition to repeal the Misconson law to enforce prohibition and to repeal penalties for "home brewing" were carried overwhelmingly.

Wisconsin says, "I want to be wet, I want beer." But the home brewer has still to deal with the United States government. That government doesn't want anybody to be wet, at least until the Volstead act is changed, or prohibition taken out of the Constitution. Prohibition will not be taken out of the Constitution during the life of any one now living.

Important news for railroad presidents, stockholders and oil companies. Denmark has produced a Diesel motor for locomotives operated for one-fifth the cost of steam locomotives.

That engine will send many locomotives to the scrap heap and save millions.

It will not help coal mine owners.

The British National Union of Schoolmasters asks legislation against women as teachers "in boys' schools." Previous evidently made a mistake when it located everybody, at birth, on the lap of some woman, a position which he usually retains, more or less, until he dies, often with his head in the same lap.

An intellectual Britisher named Freeborough says women manage boys by bribery and corruption. He notices that countries like the United States, where bribery is most rife, have the most women teachers. The British schoolmasters want to have all the jobs for themselves and drive the women out.

Rome announces a treaty with the Russian Soviet Republic, giving the Catholic Church liberty of action throughout Russia. The Pope, restored to temporal power, will recognize the Soviet government, and embark on an extensive religious campaign in Russia, with the consent of Russia's government.

The Bolsheviks are expected to send an ambassador to the Vatican.

Bolshevism, officially atheistic, believes that religion is the opium of the people, invented by the prospect "to keep the worker satisfied." But Russia wants to do business with other countries and, wisely, will allow the Catholic Church to do what it can to counteract Russian atheism.

Fifty-two thousand Britons demand abolition of capital punishment. In England criminals are hanged. They don't use fancy electric chairs reserving science for better things than killing men.

An end of capital punishment would be a step toward civilization. Meanwhile, British capital punishment shows common sense. When one Briton kills another, they hang him a few weeks later. No years of delay for appeals, delivery of bouquets and sympathetic letters from ladies.

British criminals, knowing this, rarely carry deadly weapons or burglar expeditions, since asking them to kill would mean hanging. Note it means hiring an able lawyer.

Mexico's war seems to turn out badly for the rebels. Calles is burning bridges to prevent the rebels' retreat. His aim is "to wipe out the rebel troops."

The Mexican government thinks it is not far from complete victory, for this time. Meanwhile bombs from Mexican airplanes have been dropped on American soil. Mexican shells cross the border and land on American territory. Uncle Sam says he is going to do something about that if it doesn't stop.

American Press Brushes Aside Alarmists In I'm Alone Affair

Divergent Views On Legality Of Rum-ship Sinking Do Not Affect General Assumption Of Amicable Settlement

Whatever disagreements exist over the right of Coast Guard cutters to fire on and sink the Canadian rum-runner, I'm Alone, after a chase far off the coast of the United States, the American press brushes aside "alarmist suggestions of grave complications" and assumes that the affair will be amicably settled after the facts have been established.

"What remains to be determined by careful investigation," says the WASHINGTON STAR, "is whether our Coast Guard was strictly within its rights in firing at the British rum-runner far beyond the so-called 'treaty waters.' These waters were defined in the special liquor treaty entered into between the United States and Great Britain in 1924 for the purpose of enabling this country more effectively to control smuggling operations adjacent to our coasts."

"There is no question of the character of the vessel that was sunk," the NEW YORK SUN points out. "There may be a question whether she was inside the 12-mile limit when first chased by the patrol boat Wolverine. There may be a question whether the pursuit, first by the Wolverine and then by the Dexter, was hot. But, assuming that Secretary Mellon is right, in his statement that the patrol officers are correct in both these respects, the fact remains that the British government never abandoned the principle of the three-mile limit and never acceded to the application of the right of hot pursuit in a case begun outside the three-mile limit. The Sun suggests the advisability of 'making it certain that no such incident shall occur again.'"

"Unquestionably the matter can be thrashed out amicably and with dignity," in the opinion of the BALTIMORE SUN, though it sees a "test of our international good citizenship." The INDIANAPOLIS NEWS sums up the case with the statement that "this government will do whatever is right, and we are sure that the British government will ask for nothing but what is right." The LYNCHBURG NEWS assumes that "if the United States Coast Guard violated British rights, acting in defiance of international law and of treaty, the United States owes an apology and reparations," and that if the question is not settled, "arbitration will have to be resorted to."

"If we have done wrong," in the opinion of the HUNTINGTON ADVERTISER, "it is urgent that we make prompt and proper amends to a nation that has manifested a friendly respect for American prohibition and has gone out of her way to see that none of her citizens violate our laws." The BIRMINGHAM NEWS takes the position that "in cases of this kind only expert judgment should be heeded."

"The 'I'm Alone' case has been handled by the government with remarkable prudence," as an illustration of the various diplomatic complications arising from the destruction of the ship, the SYRACUSE HERALD states: "The one hour's steaming distance 'proviso' offers a broad margin for dispute. On that and related points, the MANCHESTER GUARDIAN, a fair-minded British journal, maintains that the American case will be all the harder to prove, since the evidence which might have been afforded by the ship's papers and cargo lies buried at the bottom of the ocean."

"Great Britain is fair-minded in respecting the laws and regulations of other nations and certainly has manifested no disposition to countenance defiance on the part of her skipper with respect to United States regulations against liquor smuggling," says the NEW ORLEANS TIMES-PICAYUNE, emphasizing "accepted standards of international courtesy and respect at sea," makes the point that "England has demonstrated her sympathy with our problem of enforcement, and it would be little short of a calamity if this support should be withdrawn as a result of the I'm Alone incident."

"The smuggling crime is quite distinct from that against the liquor enforcement," maintains the PHILADELPHIA RECORD, emphasizing "the gravity of the offense of the I'm Alone." "Tariff laws and customs regulations existed long before prohibition went into effect. The offense is against them, against the sovereign."

SIGNBOARDS BILLBOARDS

In Massachusetts billboards may not be placed within 500 feet of the highway. Most other states have regulations for signboards of one kind or another. In all 41 states have laws governing these billboards on the landscape. Motoring is now too much like running past a painted wall with the beautiful country out.

JAZZ AND THE MONKEY

A chimpanzee, only recently from the forests of Africa, broke his chains the other day when he heard a jazz orchestra for the first time. He just "went off his head" and began to throw dishes. In certain respects the principal difference between the chimpanzee and some humans is that the latter only thinks about doing things.

A SENSIBLE PRINCE

The Prince of Wales will make a real contribution to the comfort and happiness of his fellow men if he will make formal dress less formal and more comfortable. The other night the prince showed up at an evening affair with a double-breasted tuxedo, a soft shirt and a soft collar. The imperial tailors are horrified. More cheers for the prince if he can put it over.

SCOUTS

From time to time the papers carry little articles announcing that a Boy Scout here of a Boy Scout there has won the prize for doing something or other useful and practical. Boy Scouts are courteous and kind. The rest of us ought deeply to appreciate the men who give so much time to scout mastering and to building character and efficiency in youngsters. The next generation is going to be immensely influenced by the kind of scouts we have today.

LAW AND LIBERTY

When we come to understand that happiness does not mean going the limit in anything, but that happiness comes more surely by moderation in all things, we have begun to be a little wiser. Law is much better than unrestricted liberty—it brings greater happiness.

MODERATION IS ONE OF THE GREAT WORDS OF THE WORLD.

Impeachment Of Governor Long Is Prolonged

BITTER FIGHT BEING STAGED

BATON ROUGE, La., April 5.—Indications that the house impeachment hearing of Gov. Huey P. Long may extend over a period of weeks was seen today as representatives gathered for another day's inquiry into the sensational charges against the 36 year old chief executive.

The clerk of the house told International News Service that subpoenas would be served on 181 additional witnesses today. The state's entire judiciary, numbering something over fifty, also have been subpoenaed to testify regarding one of the impeachment charges which concerns them.

Witnesses Summoned.

In addition to this there are scores of other witnesses who will testify in connection with one or more of the nineteen charges of indictment against the young governor, ranging from an alleged plot to murder to a maze of official irregularities.

This was taken by house attaches to mean that the executive hearing may extend over a month's time or more, unless the unexpected happens to put a sudden halt to the inquiry. At the present rate, only about half a dozen witnesses are being heard each day.

Thus far the hearing has been consumed almost entirely with testimony concerning charges of patronage and misappropriation of funds, two of the nineteen charges which were filed against the chief executive.

Disposition of $6,000 drawn from the bank by Governor Long for the entertainment of the governors' conference at New Orleans last fall was the subject of a long quiz in the house yesterday. And administration leaders charge that he diverted part of this fund for private use and that he never submitted an accounting to the state.

Will Wales Select Mate For Throne From These?

As rumors of the imminent appointment of the Prince of Wales as a regent to rule instead of his father, King George, who has failed to gain strength since his illness, persist, talk of his marriage is again heard. In recent years at various times he has been reported as about to announce his betrothal to each of the young women above. Three Feet More Goes On Top Of North St. Pier

Fact That It Was Submerged By High Water Today Cause Of Much Comment

Considerable comment was heard by crowds on the East Washington street bridge this morning when they looked up stream and found that the pier for the North street bridge was entirely submerged by the high waters.

A majority of those expressing opinions seemed to think that the pier represented the height of the bridge in the center of the stream.

Inquiry at the county commissioners' office developed the information that there will be three feet of iron work on top of the pier raising it to about the level of Croton avenue. The water appeared to be a foot or more over the present pier, which would only leave two feet of clearance for ice in case of high water like the present when the ice goes off in the spring.

There are many who believe that the bridge should have considerable elevation in the center in order to be safe from floods like the present.

Capt. M. L. Craig Is Speaker Before Sharon Officers On Thursday Night

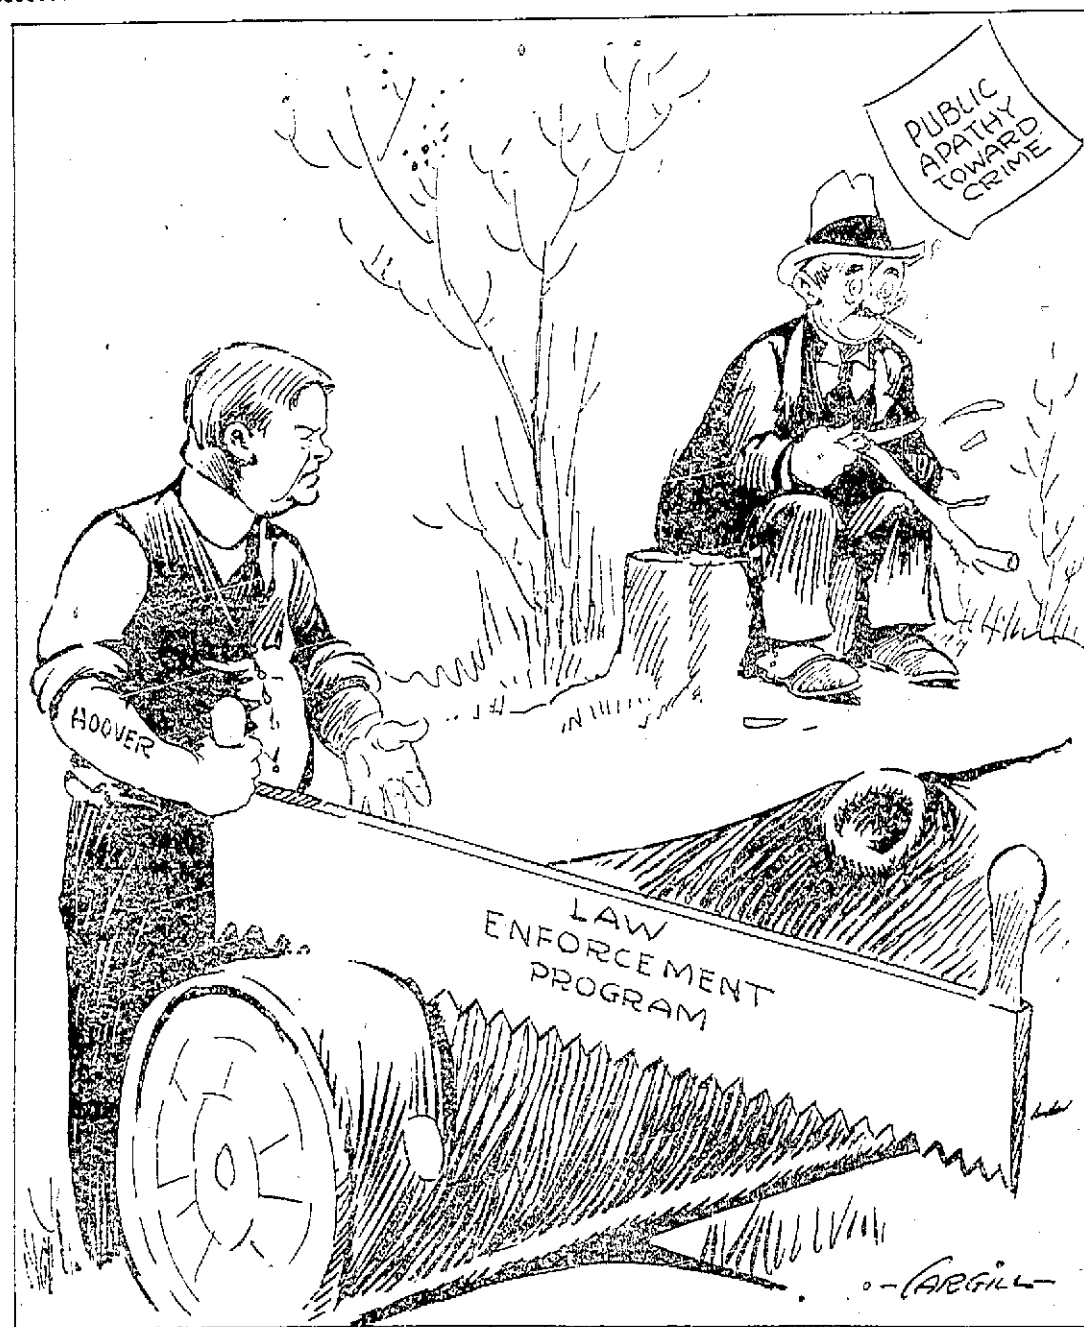

Capt. Melvin L. Craig, Capt. Herbert Peairs, Lieut. Carl Cleeland and Lieut. Pat J. Dempsey members of the Shenango Valley chapter of the Reserve Officers' Association attended the regular meeting of the Sharon sub-chapter at Sharon last night.

Capt. Craig made the main address of the evening speaking on the subject of "Organization of the Ground." He presented problems of military practice and the members were left to solve them.

SUGAR IN PHILIPPINES. Sugar cane has been grown in the Philippine island since time immemorial but it is considered probable that the sugar industry was introduced by the Chinese since many of the early implements used came from China.

Damage Heavy At Lakewood

Extensive Damage Is Reported; Dining Hall Is Washed Out

Damage done at Lakewood Beach, summer pleasure resort located near East Brook, by the severe rainstorm of last night was extensive according to John Rung, the proprietor, this morning.

Mr. Rung said that water is flooding the lowlands in the immediate vicinity of the lake. The dining hall has been washed out and at noon lay a heap of twisted lumber about the spot where it formerly stood. The dance hall was not damaged by the rain, due to the fact that it sits on higher ground than the dining hall did.

All night long the water poured over the dam at the place in great volume, but fortunately the heavy concrete stood the pressure and was not washed out.

At noon today Mr. Rung reported that the Neshaunock creek was rising at East Brook. The high waters of the creek had already commenced to back up the cutler through which water passes from Lakewood to the creek. Roads in the vicinity of Lakewood were washed out in many places. Early this morning work crews had commenced repair work where washouts occurred the heaviest.

Homesteaders Find More Fun; Hardships Pass

International News Service.
DENVER, April 5.—Loneliness and hardships of pioneer women on homesteads have been lightened by modern conveniences, culture and advancement, according to Dr. Edward L. Mead, national reclamation bureau commissioner, who recently visited Denver in the interest of undeveloped regions of the Rocky Mountain section.

"In the early days of homesteading, shortly after the Civil war, conditions were extremely severe," said Dr. Mead. "Many women deserted their families or committed suicide because they felt that poor shelter, grueling work, and worst of all, the unaccustomed isolation were driving them crazy; loved ones became hated through constant association."

Automobile Helps.
"In many sections, there were only four families to every square mile, therefore every family was a unit in itself. But the automobile has changed that. Now they can drive over to see neighbors in a few minutes. The population in the most sparsely settled neighborhoods has increased to about eight families to the square mile."

Women's clubs have also helped in relieving monotony of homestead life, according to Dr. Mead. In most every community exists a ladies' organization of some sort. In the older settlements, the clubs have gained much size, a few of them owning their own club houses, while many of them use church buildings or private homes for meeting places.

Blame for extreme hardships of pioneering was placed on the federal government. The United States system provides that a person must have $2,000 with which to get his start on the homestead.

Need For Loans.
This is not sufficient, according to Dr. Mead, for the man to build a comfortable home, but a work team and make the proper improvements on the piece of land prior to the time it becomes productive. Most countries, Dr. Mead said, make loans to homesteaders until their land becomes productive.

The average age of a man who applies for a homestead is between 40 and 45. They do not apply at younger ages because the average family does not have that much money saved until then. Never is an application granted until it is determined whether the wife is willing to endure the hardships of the homestead. It is almost impossible for either a man alone, or a woman alone, to prove up on land. It takes the combination of man and housekeeper, although rarely a man or woman does accomplish the task. Widows with a family of boys do better.

MOTHER WOOD DUCK CARRIES HER BABIES TO THE WATER

Remembering all that had happened in the last few hours, Duck began to grow excited and the boy spoke soothingly:

"Now don't peer about you like that, Duck," said he. "Everything is all right now! There is no Two-Legs, or anyone else, for that matter, in sight. You are safe now. I would be the first to warn you if I thought there was any danger; but I am sure there isn't. If thinking of your adventure makes you feel so upset, don't tell me about it."

"I want to talk, now that I have started," cried the duck. "You would be a bit nervous yourself, though, if you had been through all that I have today."

"Well, anyhow, to begin at the beginning, I am a stranger in this part of the country. My real home is in the far north, but once every year I come to make a short visit to my cousin, Wood Duck."

"Wood Duck isn't a very near relative and she does have queer habits—choosing a hollow hole in a willow tree for a nest, for instance, instead of making her home in the grasses. And maybe you'll not believe me, but she actually carries her babies in her mouth from the tree to the water when they are ready to take their first swim. I saw her do it last spring with my very own eyes."

"But Cousin Wood Duck has such a lovely disposition and is so beautiful to look upon that I put up with her strange ways just for a chance to be in her company once in a while. I generally stop off on my spring and autumn trips." At this point in Duck's story, Peter interrupted, crying:

"Who ever heard of a bird carrying her babies in her mouth! Why that is what a cat does! Tabby always carries her kittens around like that!" Duck, paying no attention to Peter, however, continued his story.

Next: "Off Before He Wears Out His Welcome."

Seemed a Miracle when

Eczema Was Healed

Barrington, R.I.—"I wish the whole world to know what Resinol Ointment has done for me. I had given up hope of ever finding anything to cure the eczema on my ears. I was troubled with it for two years without finding anything that gave really good results—then I tried Resinol and found it worked like a miracle. After the third day my ears were better and within a week my skin was its natural color again." (Signed)

Eiffel Tower May Heat All Paris

International News Service.
PARIS, April 5.—Eiffel Tower is destined to become the heating plant for the whole city, according to Professor Jacques Risler of the Sorbonne.

At present the giant structure is broadcasting radio entertainment, weather reports, and military signals twenty-four hours a day.

Professor Risler holds that it can broadcast heat by the more expedient of changing its wave lengths.

"Hertzian waves will solve the coal and steam pipe problems of Paris," he predicted. In the circuit of the receiving station is a small filament which becomes incandescent and throws off considerable heat upon reception of small wave lengths from the sender.

"There is no theoretical difficulty to the installation in an apartment of several receiving stations which would serve as radiators. Believe me, heat by wireless is the formula of the future."

French Politician

Drinks Only Water

International News Service.
PARIS, April 5.—"He only drinks water," is the political slur that may defeat Leon Blum, wealthiest Socialist in France, who is candidate for deputy in the Department of the Aude.

American prohibition is always considered a joke in France, but it is doubtful if the citizens of the Aude ever heard of prohibition or imagined it possible.

Blum was a little late in deciding to run and the Department of the Aude was all the party could offer him. Opposition cartoonists have fired their broadsides. One depicts Blum emerging from a bathtub, a bottle of mineral water in one hand and a stick of rouge in the other. With the rouge he is giving his nose a color that could never be acquired with drinking water.

Third Class City Annexation Bill Favored In State

Believe This Important Measure Will Be Passed By Legislature

Changes Are Provided In Method Of Annexation Of Suburban Property

While little has appeared in the press dispatches coming out of Harrisburg concerning the Weingartner Annexation Bill, there is little legislation before the present session more important to cities of the Third Class and the smaller boroughs and townships of the state.

When the League of Third Class Cities met in New Castle last fall, legislation of this type was urged and a joint conference resulted in a bill which would get away from the present unwieldy, unworkable annexation law, and allow the cities of the Third Class to expand and give boroughs and townships an opportunity to join with Third Class Cities when they so desired.

Senator George T. Weingartner was asked by the League of Third Class Cities to sponsor the legislation which he did and after several amendments had been added in the senate it passed by an unanimous vote.

When the bill came to the committee on Municipal Corporations in the House of Representatives it met with some opposition and was held up temporarily. After a short delay it was placed on the house calendar and after two readings there was recommended for the purpose of hearing. Opponents of the bill asserted that Lancaster county would send a large delegation to oppose the bill at the public hearing. Lancaster did send a large delegation but all of them were for the bill. Among them were Dr. Apple, president of the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce and also president of the Franklin and Marshall College, Mayor Musser of Lancaster, and about seventy-five representative business men.

Some slight amendments were made to the bill and it was again reported to the House of Representatives. It will be on final passage on Monday night, April 8, and if passed and signed by the governor will be the most important piece of Third Class City legislation passed in years.

For the terms of it, boroughs or townships or parts of townships can apply for admission to an adjoining Third Class City, if a petition is signed by three-fifths of the citizens in the district interested, representing a majority of ownership of property in the district. Upon presentation of this petition to the council of the city, the council can then pass an ordinance and the annexation will be completed.

SUIT IS BROUGHT TO COLLECT NOTE

The Home Trust Company has filed a suit against The Frew Company to secure payment of a note of $910. It is alleged that the note was given to the Frew Company by Ralph I. Orr, and that it was endorsed and guaranteed by the Frew Company to the Home Trust Company. It was given in September, 1928 for four months.

WRIT IS ISSUED FOR BEAUTY PARLOR OUTFIT

Minnie Warnock Spear has filed a writ in replevin at the prothonotary's office against Mrs. Ethel Miller, to secure possession of a permanent waving machine, a hair dryer, marcel waver, and other paraphernalia of a beauty parlor, the value of which is placed at $300.

Do You Know Little Fritzie Freese?

Seventh Ward Lad Ten Years Old Has Had His Share Of Trouble

Frederick Freese, Jr., better known in the neighborhood of Liberty street at his home in the seventh ward as "Fritzie," deserves a story.

He is a little lad just ten years old like a lot of other people have romping about their homes and certainly a lad who has had his share of the unlucky breaks.

It all started back about the first of December when a truck hit the little chap and both of his legs were broken. Santa Claus came while he was still in the hospital and his home was in the hospital until just two or three weeks ago.

He suffered the pain with a grin on his little face, and just within the last few days he has started to walk about a very little bit with the aid of crutches.

Several days ago Fritzie took sick and his illness was found to be scarlet fever. He is back in bed again. Another month of quarantine before the lad will be able to go out, but still not able to walk.

The entire winter without coasting, the entire spring without marbles and bare feet tracks in the sand, is a rather hard row for a little chap of 10 to hoe.

Fairchild Will Tell Everything In De King Case

"Dry Investigator" For County Prosecutor Is Tired Of Being "Goat"

INTENDS TO TELL ALL HE KNOWS

Denies Being Fugitive; Was Told To Sign Warrant; Blames County Officials

(International News Service) GENEVA, April 5.—Eugene Boyd Fairchild, under arrest for perjury in connection with the trial and slaying of Mrs. William De King of Aurora, was to be arraigned in court today for the purpose of fixing the amount of bond.

Fairchild admitted before a coroner's jury here last Tuesday that he had sworn to false statements in the affidavit that prompted the fatal raid on the De King home. He dropped from sight several hours before the warrant was issued charging him with perjury.

Denies Being Fugitive. Arrested yesterday at his father's home in Odell, Ill., Fairchild denied that he was a "fugitive from justice," and issued a lengthy statement placing the blame for his predicament on George Carbery, Kane county state's attorney, and his assistants. He accused Walker Miller, chief investigator for Carbery, and Charles Shultz, an assistant state's attorney, with preparing the false affidavit and "ordering" him to sign it. He further charged that the officials had persuaded him to leave the country, thus making it appear that all the blame was his.

Intends To Fight. "Now I'm back," said the dry investigator, "and I'm going to fight to restore my good name and to place the blame for this thing on the De King where it belongs."

"After this unfortunate thing happened it was agreed that I was to make the blame and that the authorities would stand by me. But I have been double-crossed and now I'm going to tell everything I know."

Fairchild said he told the truth at the inquest. He said his friend, Philip Johnson, bought liquor "near" the De King house and told him that the purchase was made "38," the home, and "from a woman."

"That is exactly what I told Miller," Fairchild continued. "I didn't tell him I bought the liquor personally."

"They made out the affidavit and told me to sign it. I didn't even read it. I didn't know that I was swearing that I had purchased liquor in the De King home."

It is believed Fairchild's bond will be set at $2,000. Sheriff Leslie Urch went to St. Joseph's hospital, Elgin, yesterday and formally served the coroner's nuntium on his deputy, Roy Smith, who shot Mrs. De King, charging him with manslaughter. He is in the hospital recovering from a bullet wound inflicted by Gerald De King, 12, son of the dead woman.

The discerning have discovered that it is easiest to gauge the prosperity of any given time by the difficulty experienced in finding the reading matter in magazines.

It is doubtless too utopian to hope that traffic manipulators will ever follow the telephone girl's example and thank you sweetly when taking your number.

Among the things that give a new and broader vision are travel, religion and a charge account.

Assistance Fund Plan Is Outlined

Aims and Objects of Mother's Assistance Fund Presented

The aims and objects of the mother's assistance fund of Lawrence county were presented to representatives of local service organizations when they met at the Associated Charities headquarters at 10:00 p.m. Thursday for their regular weekly round table.

Mrs. Charles H. Young, secretary of the organization, presented a complete outline of the work done and the administration of relief in connection with the fund. She gave the report of the work on the invitation of the round table.

In speaking of the purpose of the fund Mrs. Young said that it is one supported by state and county funds. Each county in the state must appropriate an amount equal to that allowed by the state. The state bases its appropriation on the population of the county.

"Our county gets $15,000 from the state," continued the speaker. "Another $15,000 is supplied by the state, making the total amount on which to base our work just $30,000. Ours does not compare well with the Beaver county appropriation, for the state allows $45,000 to that county and they supply $45,000 of their own. They can meet their requirements, while we cannot."

"At the present time there are 23 cases on the Lawrence county waiting list. At one time 13 cases were held up for two years because of insufficient funds. At the present time 23 cases are being taken care of, representing an expenditure of approximately $1,400 a month."

Mrs. Young stated that while the fund is termed the mother's assistance fund, it is nevertheless not operated for mothers alone. The mothers derive benefits from the money in the fund.

"Payments are made to children only," the secretary explained. "There must be more than one child in the family and neither of them can be over 16 years of age. The mother is allowed to own property valued at no more than $1,700 and is permitted to

LOVE'S DEMANDS - - - By Laird

What should one demand of love? When love first comes the loved one is adored. He is quite perfect. Not one little flaw in him. Write it all down, on Cupid, his manly form, his winning smile, his tenderness, his gallantry, his protectiveness, his cleverness.

But later, when a closer view is had of the idol. When you see him, not just when he is at his very best, but as he really is, at breakfast, home for dinner, tired and hungry, in the evening, when he is "too tired" to go out, but wants to read and smoke and be "let alone," what then, should love demand that he still be the gallant lover, the perfect one, with a visible halo?

Dry those tears, little girl. His halo may have vanished. He may seem indifferent to your charms, your cooking may appeal to him more than your looks, but, if you really love, you will like him better than you did during those hero worshipping days of courtship. He's real, not a saint. He may sweat a bit in your presence, once in awhile, and upset you dreadfully by not noticing that you are looking your very prettiest in a new dress, but he's your lover still. You can laugh at him as well as idolize him. He is your little boy in need of scolding and comfort, as well as your manly husband to admire and look up to, and he is your Pal.

Suit Of Guest In Auto Next On List For Trial At Court

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Campbell Are Asking $20,000 From Dan V. Cunningham

The next case to be taken up before Judge Chambers at court is that of Gertrude E. Campbell and Fred Campbell against Dan V. Cunningham, in which the former is asking for $15,000 and the latter for $5,000 as the result of injuries sustained while Mrs. Campbell was a guest in the Cunningham automobile.

It is claimed that Mrs. Campbell was asked to ride from Pittsburgh to New Castle in the Cunningham machine. Others in the machine were Fred Flynn, Mrs. E. P. Flynn, and Mrs. Dan Cunningham, wife of the driver.

When coming down a grade on the New Castle and Butler road, it is claimed that Cunningham attempted to pass a car ahead. The road was slippery and he skidded into a ditch. Mrs. Campbell was thrown violently against one side of the car, sustaining injuries which kept her in the hospital for some time and from which she had never fully recovered. It is claimed that the accident was due to the carelessness of the machine.

Davis Succeeds Before Council

Solons Act To Discover
Where Surface Water Enters Sanitary Sewers

SAYS SEWERAGE FILLS CELLARS TOO OFTEN

"I'm getting tired of paying taxes and all I get is a cellar filled with sewerage. It has occurred four times this year. It is occurring so often it is time the city council is doing something."

So spoke Attorney Charles Davies to council today and other remarks he imparted to solons left no doubt in their minds as to what he thought of the situation.

He said further that roof water is being trained into sanitary sewers and the city officials knew of it. He said the city engineer had given him the information. State law prohibits this practice.

Council immediately ordered Engineer Miller to conduct an investigation through a motion picture by Tyler. The engineer can employ extra assistants if he finds such necessary.

Davies said the city knew the sewer system is inadequate and said that "if it is necessary to get money through a bond issue the city should do something."

He also stated that as an attorney for the New Castle Construction company he plans to present a bill to the city for damage to the property of the company.

Davies charged that the Grant street sewer which comes through McCleary run had clogged at both ends. He also charged the water company had a main through the line which impeded the flow.

Oakland district were washed out, while North Liberty street into Mahoningtown has been closed to traffic, having been covered with tons of mud washed down from the hillsides above. The street commissioner's clerk was kept busy all morning receiving reports of damage done to property and streets in various sections of the city. John C. Hanrahan, an official of the Pennsylvania R. R. Co., reported that considerable damage had been done to the lines out of New Castle on the Erie & Pittsburgh division north of New Castle and also on the New Castle branch to Stoneboro.

Both lines were tied up, a freight train having struck a washout a mile north of Pulaski on the E. & P. division, the engine and seven cars being derailed. Fortunately the crew escaped injury, but the lines were tied up. At noon, traffic was resumed over the New Castle branch, the Stoneboro train, due to leave New Castle at 9:05 being able to proceed on its way slowly. The eastbound track on the E. & P. division was cleared about 1 o'clock this afternoon, permitting a resumption of traffic.

Re-route Traffic.
When the road between New Castle and Sharon became blocked an attempt was made to run busses through to carry passengers between New Castle and Sharon, but they were forced to abandon the attempt because of the high water around West Middlesex and Pulaski.

Passenger traffic between New Castle and Sharon was re-routed by way of Youngstown, the trains traveling over the P. Y. & A. tracks to Youngstown and thence into Sharon over the Erie R. R.

The principal damage on the New Castle branch was caused by landslides, a great quantity of earth having slid down onto the tracks a short distance above the paper mill. At Millburn, the tracks were washed out. Mr. Hanrahan stated.

Marooned at Pulaski.

Charles E. Donaldson, yardmaster of the P. & L. E. railroad, reported that a P. & L. E. crew was marooned on the Erie R. R. near Pulaski by the high water. Traffic over the Erie branch between New Castle and Sharon was interrupted by the high water, but no serious washouts were reported, the water merely rising over the tops of the tracks in several places.

Mr. Hanrahan stated that the storm seemed to be local in its nature, reports of damage to their trackage extended as far west as Niles and Warren, O., and north to Shenango and Stoneboro.

The Wallford branch of the Pennsylvania between Covert's Station and Bessemer was also washed out.

John R. Dunfee, manager of the Bell Telephone Co., stated that considerable damage was done to telephone systems in and near the city.

All available men were at work early this morning, repairing the damage caused to their lines by the storm.

Approximately 25 toll lines were out of order at 8 o'clock this morning.

Interurban Lines Tied Up.

The most serious damage resulted near Hubbard, O., along the Sharon-Youngstown route, where the wires of the Pennsylvania Power Co. came down onto the telephone company lines, burning them up.

About 200 customers were affected in New Castle. Mr. Dunfee reported, the lines being placed out of service by the rain, wind and hail. By noon 100 of these had been placed back in service, and it is believed the remainder will be back in service by nightfall.

Several small bridges over streets in the Snake's Rest district were washed out by the water of the run, and some of the streets in the Snake's Rest area were badly washed.

Downtown streets were covered with a layer of mud and debris, the water having been up over the curb at Mill and Washington streets during the height of the storm. Croton avenue was covered with almost three inches of mud.

The rising water in the Neshannock entered cellars along Neshannock and Croton avenues and some of the stores along Washington street in the immediate vicinity of the river were filled with several inches of water.

The water backed up into Apple Alley from the Neshannock, which at flood stage is higher than the street.

Frank Wert of the Pennsylvania and Ohio System stated that considerable damage was done all over the system, both in Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio.

It was impossible to operate the cars through to Mahoningtown over the local lines early this morning, because of a heavy layer of mud and water which covered the tracks on South Mill street. This situation was cleared up in a few hours, however.

Mr. Wert stated that the damage to their traction lines was the worst since the big flood of 1913. It was impossible to operate over the lines between New Castle and Youngstown because of washouts. Cars out of New Castle were unable to get as far as Edinburg, while coming from Youngstown, they could not get to Lowellville.

The carbarns at Hazelton, between Lowellville and Youngstown were flooded with several feet of water, making it difficult to get the cars out of the barn. Buses were used for transportation as much as possible during the emergency.

Service between Youngstown and Sharon was interrupted when Yankee Run, near Masury, O., overflowed its banks and covered the tracks under several feet of water. Washouts were also reported near Hubbard, O. Niles and Warren, O. were not as hard hit by the storm, apparently, the trouble in those districts being of a lesser nature.

Streams High.
Louis B. Round, superintendent of the Pennsylvania Power Co., here stated that electric service in New Castle was not affected much by the storm, there being several small interruptions which were but momentary. Some damage was done to the lines and system in the Ellwood City district, however.

Big Run overflowed its banks along the Butler Road near the home of Senator George T. Weingartner and for several hours, the road was covered with water, making auto travel precarious.

The Mahoning River also overflowed its banks in the low districts south of the city. At Willow Grove, the water was just level with the top of the house and ruining his radio set.

Another bolt is reported to have struck in the woods near the end of Delaware avenue.

While the hail which accompanied the storm was unusually severe, County Farm Agent McCulloch stated this morning that he did not believe the fruit crop has been damaged, the hail having not advanced far enough as yet to be much affected.

Girl Falls Into Stream.
Police received a call last night to Neal street saying the pulmotor was needed for use in reviving a girl who had fallen from a bridge into the water and was unconscious. Shortly afterward a physician called and stated the girl was in the New Castle hospital and the pulmotor was not needed.

The girl who fell into the water was Margaret Trubshaw of 1001 Lutton street. She was unconscious when taken to the hospital but revived under treatment there and was reported this morning as being somewhat improved.

Mrs. Ennis of Willow Grove notified Sergeant D. T. Nelson at police headquarters this morning about 8:25 o'clock that she had seen the body of a boy or girl, presumably made efforts to remedy the situation. Among the things reported were the

Theft Reported In Croton Avenue Home

Detective C. G. Logan and Officer Charles Longstreth this morning investigated the report of a theft at the home of Mrs. Bertha Eakin, 1208 Croton avenue, over the Lorenzo store.

They found that Mrs. Eakin had missed her watch and a ring, between last Sunday and Thursday. Her pocketbook escaped the notice of the thief, because of the fact that it was hidden.

The ring is valued very highly by Mrs. Eakin because of the fact that it was made by her husband. It bears the initials B. M. E. The police are investigating a number of clues.

down the Mahoning river at the bridge near Willow Grove.

Sergeant Nelson notified the Pennsylvania railroad authorities also the authorities at Wampum of the situation and these authorities promised to do what they could in rescuing the body.

Mails Delayed.

At the postoffice this morning it was stated that all Pittsburgh mails due out of this city on the early morning train of the Pennsylvania railroad were still in the city because the train could not reach here because of a washout along the lines above this city. The mail left the city early this afternoon on the P. and L. E.

Bad conditions resulting from the storm of last night were reported from all parts of the city to the police this morning. The police in turn notified the street department which made efforts to remedy the situation.

Among the things reported were the following: Breaking of the sewer at Belmont avenue; the water running over Grant street at Bell avenue. Grant street was covered as a result of the passageway under a bridge over a nearby run being clogged up with debris washed in during the night; the storm sewer at Meyer avenue clogged up and water backing into the cellars of homes in that district; Hutchison street washout; and in dangerous condition; Quest street washed out at both ends; bridge at Snake's Rest washed out and railing at Big Run bridge gone.

See Benefit Lawrence County Will Receive From 4 Cent Gas Tax

With the four cent gas tax passed by the House of Representatives, in Harrisburg, and apparently in shape to be passed by the State Senate, it seems relevant to inquire into the net result for Lawrence County, providing the bill is signed by Governor Fisher.

The tax will be in effect for 12 months only starting on July 1, 1929, and ending June 30, 1930. By no possible means can the four cent tax be continued past the latter date until a new session of the Legislature has met, nor can the governor himself continue it a day after June 30, 1930.

Means A Four For One Return
At first glance the four cent tax appears to be an additional outlay for the citizens of Lawrence County. Actually the outlay will be returned to this county about four fold. In other words, for every dollar paid in additional gas tax, this county will receive about four dollars in return for new roads.

There are a number of returns for the county, they being provided in the road program of seven laws which have passed the House and are now in the Senate.

A sum of $23,500,000.00 is specifically set aside to be allocated to the counties of the state upon a basis of the present unimproved mileage of state highways in the state. For Lawrence County this will mean about $300,000.00, exclusive of the half cent return which has been in effect for several years. This amount will approximate $48,000, being an addition to the $300,000.00 above.

All of the bridges on state highways in the county will be taken over by the state for maintenance and repairs. This means that fourteen bridges will be taken off the county's hands. This alone represents considerable, for in one year the cost of repainting one of these bridges was $4500.00. Further, two of the bridges must be rebuilt within a short time, one at Willow Grove and one at Edenburg. This county.

Aid For City Streets
For the assistance of cities in maintaining streets over which main highways pass in cities of the second class, second class A and third class cities, a sum of $2,000,000.00 is specifically appropriated for allocation. An exact figure on New Castle's share of this is not obtainable at this time but an estimate would be about $15,000.00 or more. This will aid the city in repaving Grant street, Jefferson street, Wilmington avenue, Croton avenue and East Washington street.

All state aid roads are to be taken over for maintenance entirely by the state. This means that the townships will be relieved of their fifty per cent share of the upkeep of such roads as the one running from Croton towards Eastbrook, which has been an expensive project for years for the Hickory township supervisors. All township reward roads will be maintained by the state on a fifty-fifty basis up to a maximum cost to the state of $100.00 per mile. This is also a boon to the townships in the county.

A specific appropriation of $6,000,000.00 is made for the building of Township Reward Roads, which is an increase of 100 per cent over the amount allotted heretofore. This will give Lawrence County townships just double the state money they have received for building township reward roads.

Opposed In The East
Much opposition has been heard to the road program and the four cent gas tax, but this opposition has been more pronounced in the eastern counties. The fact that these counties have had their roads built for them in years past, and for which Lawrence County helped to pay may have some bearing upon this. This time, the western counties will be benefited and the eastern counties will help pay for their roads.

As an example of what the members in the counties of Crawford, Butler, Mercer, Beaver and Lawrence think of the proposed legislation which gives their counties long delayed recognition, it is interesting to note that of the ten members from the counties listed, nine of them voted for the one year increase in gas tax.

Lawrence County citizens are more interested in results for their county than they are in tables of statistics for the entire state and accordingly a thumb nail sketch of the cost and benefits of the new legislation is set down herewith.

The increase of one cent in tax will apply for one year only, and will cost

Lawrence County approximately $86,235.00.

The return to this county as projected will be as follows:

In cash for the building of roads in this county, approximately $340,000.00.
In assistance for the streets of New Castle, between $15,000.00 and $20,000.00.

In the maintenance of bridges in the county, fourteen in number about $10,000.00 per year. In addition, the cost of building the new bridges must be borne by the state.

Add to this, the fact that the townships will not have to help pay for the upkeep of state aid roads, and also the fact that all state roads and concrete township reward roads hereafter built will be taken over by the state for maintenance.

U. S. SIGN IDEA IN FRANCE

To keep down speeding, Frenchmen are copying the ideas of "snappy" road signs used in this country. An adaptation of an American sign recently appeared at the borders of Arclesac, in the Department of Cantal. It reads: "If you drive slowly you will see our village; it is very pretty. If you drive quickly you will see our prison; it is very damp."

Movie Fashions

Uniforms for women are largely out of date. But the smart sweater and separate skirt might be termed a uniform for the college and business girls as well as for sports, if the models were not so diversified. Alice Adair, from Oklahoma, now in the movies, is "easy to look at" in this chic suit.

"WONDERFUL" IS WHAT I SAY OF NEW KONJOLA

Famous Medicine Benefited Man And His Family. Was First To Help Them.

MR. JOHN MULLIGAN

"Wonderful—that is what I say about this new Konjola—the medicine that brought me health after all else had failed," said Mr. John Mulligan, Route No. 6, Beaverville, Oklahoma. "Indeed, a family medicine, for it benefited my family as well as myself. I took this medicine for stomach trouble, cramping, gas, bloating and severe indigestion pains followed every meal. Often I was afflicted with severe headaches. I tried everything recommended, but each attempt failed and I was left with a lost faith and hope; it seemed that I was doomed to a life of constant suffering.

"One day I decided to try Konjola as a last chance, little expecting much relief. Well, I was surprised. Konjola went right to the source of my trouble, and before I knew what was happening it had cleansed, strengthened and invigorated my entire system. A warm surge of restoring health filled my body. My digestion was restored and my appetite increased. My family has been using this medicine ever since and all have benefited. Konjola is the best medicine of them all."

Konjola is sold in New Castle at Love & Meason drug store and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout the entire section.

Valentine Seaver

2 pc. "Car-vel Mohair" Living-room Suites

$184

This is the Lowest Price a Valentine — Seaver Suite Ever Sold

$250 Construction, $350 Mohair, $350 Value Through and Through

New Decorators Colors

In a month of unusual values, this value is outstanding. Outstanding in the quality of "Car-vel" 12 grade mohair that is used—outstanding in the beauty and variety of new colorings (even the new decorators green is here)—outstanding in grace and simplicity of design. The sofa is large and comfortable but its lowness prevents any massive appearance, even in a small room it will not appear to crowd. The large matching chair gives a like appearance.

A Budget Plan That Costs Nothing

Frews invite, in fact urge you to compare their furniture and the low coming anniversary sale prices with any other store. Increased volume has resulted in lowered prices and reduced carrying charges. Frews credit system is the easiest possible without necessitating premium prices. Remember you are buying furniture, not credit. Pay cash if you can, but most of us cannot pay spot cash for the many important things needed in our homes. That is no reflection upon us. Neither should it expose us to the penalty of paying more than cash prices. Buy from a store that prices its merchandise for cash selling and yet big and strong, and responsible enough to accommodate you with liberal terms. Frews is such a store.

The Frew Decorating Service Costs You Nothing

It is just as cheap to furnish a home or a room in good taste as it is in poor taste. Beauty in the home is a question of judgment, not dollars. Frews are the only store in New Castle who render an interior decorating service. This service is free. If you will but telephone we would be pleased to have a member of our Decorating Staff call. Show her the room or rooms you wish redecorated, state the amount you wish to spend, then in a day or two in the Frew Store we will arrange many settings within your budget. This service costs you nothing, nor will it obligate you in any way.

See Our Anniversary Windows

See the Frew Anniversary windows, see portrayed in them typical anniversary values. Each day a new window will be decorated in an endeavor to show you the many new things procured especially for the 31st Frew Anniversary.

Why There Are No Pictures In This Advertisement

Was it Mark Twain who said that you could prove anything with figures? Certainly, today, he would say you can prove anything with pictures!

From a living room suite illustration, for instance, it is impossible to tell whether a suite is worth one hundred dollars or five hundred! And in these days of modernistic and impressionistic drawing, the cheapest living room suites become veritable works of art.

and so, rather than depend on illustrations, must we depend on our reputation. Hoping our quality and taste, our materials and construction are taken for granted to be the best. We have to believe that thirty-one years of keeping faith have won a trust no artist can ever create with a pen or brush.

Valentine-Seaver Construction

The Living Room Suites are built as only Valentine-Seaver can and do. Embodied there-in is every known construction feature. Everything that can be done to make them last a life-time has been done. The reversible cushions are coil spring centered and the springs are hand tied as closely together as is possible. Let us not go into construction technicalities further. To say they are Valentine-Seaver built and-labeled is to say everything that can be said about quality furniture. The cheapest suites Valentine-Seaver ever built sold for $225.00. These were intended to sell for $250.

Radio Legislation Is Given Runaround

Powerful Electric Lobby At Harrisburg Causes Defeat
Of Turner Bill

Radio Fans Can Expect Little In Way Of Relief From Present Session

By ROBERT F. GORMAN
International News Service Staff
Correspondent
HARRISBURG, April 5.—Radio fans in Pennsylvania who are troubled by electrical disturbances can expect no relief from the present session of the legislature.

The Turner bill, which would have permitted the filing of complaints with the public service commission against offending utilities has been practically killed.

Measure Disliked
The powerful electric lobby at work here throughout legislative sessions took a dislike to the measure immediately upon its introduction and so informed Representative L. Stanley Welty, league chairman, and certain members of his committee on corporations, who let this fact become known and at the same time announced that action on committee on the measure had been indefinitely postponed.

Explanations given by the power lobby to Welty and certain members of his committee were to the effect that power companies on their own initiative are spending sums of money to correct radio interference. Persons familiar with the bill point out that the present method of eliminating radio interference is acceptable, but that if power companies decide to stop checking interference the Welty committee by its attitude has left radio listeners without redress.

Several weeks ago the Dauphin county court, in an opinion, held that it was without jurisdiction in a case brought before it by a group of local radio fans and that the case should be carried to the public service commission. At the offices of the public service commission it was held that the public service act is not broad enough to permit the filing of radio complaints in that the act confines deliberations largely to rates, service and safety, and that radio interference by electric companies cannot be included in these classes.

Interference Cleared
On the other hand the commission, in a number of instances, has used its good offices in requesting public utilities to correct interference. The requests, however, contained nothing in the shape of a demand or an order because the public service act at present does not cover radio.

As a result of the court decision
Representative Ellwood J. Turner, Delaware, presented House bill No.
2897, which amends the public service act so as to give the commission authority to regulate public utilities in such a way "as shall be necessary to eliminate so far as may be reasonably possible interference with radio transmission and reception."

The 20-word amendment brought the power lobby hurriedly to the front and opposition from that source was reaching Welty and certain members of his committee almost from the time of the introduction of the bill on March 27.

Pressure Needed
Unless radio listeners throughout the state can bring pressure upon Chairman Welty and his corporations committee, the 1929 session of the legislature will not offer any relief from electrical interference. The power lobby, long considered one of the strongest maintained here during legislative sessions, has apparently succeeded in burying the Turner bill.

Welty may call his committee together again early in the week, but if he should allow the bill to get to the floor of the House it would not likely be reported in time to be acted upon by both branches of the legislature this session. Eight legislative days remain of the present session and six would be required to get the Turner bill through both branches.

Manufacturing industries contribute more than one-third of our national income, agriculture about 14 per cent and mercantile business about 12 per cent.

Dr. H. P. Almon Abbot, rector of St. Chrysostom's church, Chicago, surrenders a position with salary and perquisites amounting to $20,000 a year, to assume leadership of one of the poorest districts of the Episcopal church, that of Lexington, Ky., at an annual stipend of $5,000.

Stock Market Featureless

By W. S. COUSINS,
International News Service
Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, April 5.—Thursday's closing rally in the steel and motor stocks was carried into today's session of an irregular and featureless market, and prices early this afternoon, of a dozen or more of the market favorites moved up a point or two. The reserve board's threat of further action against the speculative loan situation chilled the enthusiasm of outside traders, but the professionals were generally on the side of rising prices, and were not slow in boosting a few of their favorites.

After opening at 3 per cent, the call loan rate dropped to 5 per cent in the early afternoon.
United States Steel and Bethlehem constituted the strongest team in the stock market today. Bethlehem sold above 112 for the first time and United States Steel was carried along on an aggressive buying wave to 189 for a 3-point gain. National Cash Register, Radio, American Can, General Motors, Royal Baking Powder and other industrial favorites moved up about 2 points on the average.
Erie and New Haven led the move in the rails, though trading in that section of the market was considerably below the average.

Rumors of the formation of powerful Wall Street pools to "handle the market" for Bethlehem Steel and General Motors flitted through the financial district as these and other stocks gained momentum upward. A price of 150 was set in these rumors for Bethlehem and above par for General Motors, while extravagant predictions were circulated about the soaring possibilities of "Big Steel," based on the large increase in earnings and the beneficial effects of 26 new financing policies.

Strength in these so-called pivotal stocks was communicated to the balance of the list and the whole market swung into a vigorous forward move in the fourth hour. Though the decline in the volume of brokers' loans was smaller than expected and money remains comparatively "tight," there has been such a strengthening of margin accounts in the brokerage houses that there is little or no weak-kneed stock holdings overhanging the market.

The public debt of Great Britain is more than twice that of the United States, reaching the staggering figure of 38 billion dollars.

An average of about 300 ships a year are still lost at sea despite all our modern improvements.

PRISONER PANS GOLD DUST IN CELL

Going to jail didn't stop Emmett T. Eckel from panning gold in Seattle, Wash. He took a sack of what looked like dirt to the jail with him, and the superintendent, an old "sourdough," allowed him to pan. Eckel washed out three ounces of gold, claiming it was from property in Alaska from which his enemies are trying to dispossess him.

Dinner Club To Meet April 19

Next Gathering Being Arranged For Consistory Dinner Club Members

Next dinner party to be held by the New Castle Consistory will take place Friday evening, April 19. There is much interest being centered in the event as it will be the last dinner held by the organization before the Spring Reunion, which will be held May 22, 23 and 24. A big dinner party will be held the last night of the reunion in May. This affair will include all those attending the reunion and will no doubt be the largest in the history of such affairs.

General Chairman W. J. Moffatt is looking forward to a wonderful event on April 19th as an extensive program is being arranged and it promises to be one of the most interesting yet held. Dr. H. E. Zerber has been appointed chairman of the entertainment for the evening.

He promises to put on a program that will be long remembered.

He has a program already outlined which gives every indication of being a scream from the start to the fin-

No Street Cars During Early Hours; Other News Notes Of Seventh Ward

During the early morning hours buses and taxis were used to carry seventh ward people to the center of the city and railroad and other workmen to the seventh ward. There was no street car service in the ward on account of cars not being able to get through on South Mill street. The severe storm early this morning caused so much mud to be washed on South Mill street as to block the street car track.

The first street car passing through the debris on South Mill street reached the ward about 7:55. Until then taxis and buses carried the people over this line. Some of the school pupils rode on buses this morning and were, of course, more than glad to do so.

All over the seventh ward there are mud and stones washed onto the paved street at crossings of unpaved streets, particularly on North Cedar street and North Liberty street at Mahoning avenue and Swansea avenue, and also on Mahoning avenue.

IN QUARANTINE
Mr. and Mrs. Fred Prese and family of North Liberty street are in quarantine for scarlet fever. Two of the children are ill, Dorothy and Fred Jr., both having scarlet fever.

Fred Prese Jr. just came home from the New Castle hospital a couple of weeks or so ago, where he had been confined with both legs broken, having been injured in an automobile accident about the middle of December. He was just able to get about his home a little on crutches. Now he is down in bed with scarlet fever.

Special Revival Services For Week End This Evening

"The Mearest Man in Mahoning-town" was the theme of the sermon preached Thursday evening by Rev. David Dave Sleppy in the Mahoning M. E. church. The evangelistic services are nearing the close. This is the third week evangelistic services have been conducted in the Mahoning M. E. church.

"A Sermon Preached in Hell" will be the subject of the sermon this evening. The revival service this evening in the church will conclude the special services for this week. There will be no services on Saturday evening.

Mahoning Book Club Entertained

Mrs. M. L. Wallace was pleasing hostess to the members of the Mahoning Book Club Thursday afternoon in her home on Highland avenue. Thirteen members were present and three special guests. Guests were Miss Nellie Brothers, Miss Douglas, Mrs. Noggle.

During the afternoon the hours were spent in social chat, music and the exchange of books. At a seasonable hour delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Wallace, assisted by Miss Brothers and Jean Young. The luncheon table was centered with a bouquet of pink roses and pink sweet peas.

Mrs. W. L. Jenkins will be club hostess in her home on Sheridan avenue in three weeks, April 25.

LOYAL WOMEN CLASS
The monthly social meeting of the Loyal Women's Bible class of the Madison Avenue Christian church was held Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Adela Robinson of Sunny Side. There was a good attendance of members. Miss Thelma Bumbaugh was a special guest.

During the evening there was a brief business meeting, after which the evening was spent socially in chat. At a seasonable hour delicious refreshments were served by the associate hostesses, Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. J. W. Unangst and Mrs. R. G. Clark.

O. R. C. LODGE
The Ladies' Auxiliary to Order of Railroad Conductors had their lodge meeting Thursday afternoon in the Clendenin hall. There was a good attendance of lodge members. During the afternoon the routine lodge meeting was conducted and lodge business transacted.

At the next meeting of the lodge in two weeks there will be a tureen dinner preceding the lodge meeting. Committee in charge of this dinner will be announced later.

You cannot hope to "make good" under these circumstances. Nobody can. You must have rest, a clear brain, and every organ in perfect working order to do justice to yourself.

After a hard cold or an attack of the grip or flu, your kidneys are apt to be affected. Storm Severe In Mercer County

Quite a number of small bridges and culverts were washed out in the storm this morning in Mercer county, according to the statement of H. W. OLD CUSTOMS ARE OFTEN BEST

Wisdom of Nations Applied in World's Tonic

Old things are often best. Nations have vast amounts of wisdom stored up in the simple customs of the plain people. For instance, over across the water many an old housewife has a simple mixture of herbs, a wonderful medicine, handed down from generation to generation, that makes the neighbors for miles around depend on her when they are run down and feeling sick. Experience has taught several generations what these medicines will do. Probably Old World people who come to America miss nothing as much as they do these simple means of keeping well.

A few years ago a great research was made to find a real tonic for America, one that would combine the wisdom of Europe with the learning of the new country. The value of these Old World remedies was recognized, and they were carefully studied. The world was made to contribute toward the marvel that has proved such a wonderful help to thousands—World's Tonic. Many of the people who use it now say that it even makes like the remedies they used to get when they were boys and girls at home.

This thing is sure—this remedy has brought hundreds of people right in this neighborhood into better health. Living here in such different surroundings, with differences in air and water and food, and with work habits and times that are quite a change from the healthful Old World surroundings, many a man or woman has lost all run down, and who has suffered from the catarrh that is so common in America, has found in World's Tonic just what was needed to bring back health and strength to clean up the system and help church the blood, and to make life ever so much happier. Many of your neighbors have used it, and you have seen the change in them. There is no reason for you to go on suffering from catarrh and its results—indigestion, sleeplessness, weakness and weariness—when you can obtain World's Tonic from McKee's Kidney Store, Beekmantown of New Castle, or Folsley's Smith's or any other first class drug store. Diary Of Southern Trip Of Assistant Fire Chief Is Full Of Interest

H. Clare Stockman, assistant fire chief of this city who returned a few days ago from an extended vacation spent in Florida, the land of sunshine, with his wife, went there for the benefit of his health and also to enjoy the hunting and fishing, where both game and fish are plentiful.

Returning, both Mr. and Mrs. Stockman report having had a wonderful time and the former resumes his duties as assistant fire chief, very much improved in health.

Mr. and Mrs. Stockman had some unusually interesting experiences during their trip to and from Florida and also while there. The former kept a daily diary of everything of any consequence that occurred or was seen and some part of it is being published here, that others may have the benefit of their experiences.

The first date in this interesting diary is January 3, 1929. It records the fact that Charles Miller, L. C. John and Mr. and Mrs. Stockman left New Castle at 8:30 a. m. on that date with an automobile and trailer for Keystone Heights, Florida. They went from here to Butler, then to New Kensington, then over the Williams Penn Highway to Greensburg. From that point they went over the Allegheny mountains to Woodstock, Va. They had dinner at Winchester, Va. at 6 p. m., then drove to Woodstock and stopped at a private house for the night. The trip over the mountains was fine with plenty of sunshine and dry roads. A total of 309 miles was made the first day and they were in for the night at 9:30 p. m.

On January 4, they left Woodstock at 7 a. m. and went to Harrisonburg, Va., seeing several gangs of convicts in stripes at work on the road while enroute. They had lunch at Staunton, Va., where Ray Johns is attending school. They then crossed the Blue Ridge Mountains, the trip being wonderful on the way down. The road stretched before them like a ribbon. Coming to Lynchburg, they continued down this valley to Rockingham, spending the night in the Richmond Hotel. The distance traveled the second day was 368 miles.

January 5, they left Rockingham, N. C. at 7:30 a. m. and drove to Camden, N. C. where they missed the road they had mapped out. This proved fortunate, as they saved over a hundred miles. They had 89 miles of dirt road but it was red clay and better than some paved roads. The James river was crossed at a toll bridge to Columbia and went on to Blackville where they lunched. They then went from there to Danville and on to Greensboro, N. C. and Sumner, S. C., and finally into Savannah, Ga. They found Savannah a wonderful old town, with wonderful buildings and parks and the roadway lined for miles with palms, flowers in bloom in yards and parks. They also saw their first turpentine camps. The ground all the way was red as blood. They stopped for the night at a road house about 45 miles out of Savannah. It rained all day and night.

Sunday, January 6, the sun was out and it was warm. Leaving the road house about 6:45 that morning, they drove to Brunswick for breakfast, then went on to Jacksonville, Florida. Here they saw their first oranges and the roses and poinsettia in bloom. There were also ripe strawberries in the fields. This they found to be a fine old town. They went on to Stark for dinner, then on to Keystone Heights, a distance of 86 miles. Up to that time 1,200 miles had been made in 31 days, an average of 16 miles to the gallon of gas.

Keystone Heights looked good with a nice lake in front of the house, which was modern in every detail. On their arrival they made application for their hunting and fish license. Everything is in readiness for a good time.

The first day in camp, Mr. Stockman did some casting in the lake and did not get a strike. The bass did not appear to like the artificial bait. He made a resolve that they would before he left. Later the same day, he and Mrs. Stockman went to an orange grove and picked their first ripe oranges. They secured a hundred oranges and twenty-five grapefruit for fifty cents.

The hunting and fishing license was received costing $31. They immediately went quail hunting, found one small covey and Stockman secured three birds.

Another day found them at the Miller farm five miles from town. No quail were found but Stockman again secured a fine rabbit and they saw a large gray fox. The found that the vermin such as hawks, owls and foxes keep the quail on the jump and kill more of them than the hunters. Mr. Stockman then went fishing in Lake Geneva, a lake of considerable size and cast for three hours without getting a strike.

This same day, a lot of ducks were seen on the water.

Wednesday January 9 dawned bright and fair and the party included four men and two setters and two pointer dogs and a negro guide won ten miles in search of quail and only found one small covey. The dogs treed a large gray fox (they climb trees like a coon down there) and a shot by one of the party knocked it out of the tree and to quote Stockman, "the fox lit running, came past Johns who hit him but he only waved his tail and came on to me and gave him a load of No. 10 in the head and he came down, end over end." The pet was turned over to the guide to tan.

An invitation to visit a duck and fishing camp was accepted and the party went twenty miles. Johns and Stockman caught four bass. The next day the party went duck hunting, also for Jack Snipe. A small felt boat was used and is poled through the channels of the swamp. The party saw everything from ducks to a large bald eagle. Some ducks were secured.

The companion of Stockman fell out of their boat and his gun went off, hitting about ten feet in front of Stockman. Stockman had some job keeping the boat from turning over. They saw white cranes, hundreds of snipe, ducks of all kinds, coots, greaser and lesser blue heron, fish hawks, black and red birds, plover of all kinds, plenty of alligators, poisonous snakes.

Saturday, January 12, the party had better luck quail hunting securing thirteen birds in seven coveys. Mr. Johns lost his dog in the woods but two fox hunters found and returned it the next day.

On January 15, the party went twenty miles into the woods to camp. After arriving there, Stockman caught the largest bass he has ever seen, weighing 10½ pounds, 27½ inches long and 17½ inches around. Several days were spent here during which many quails were shot and many fine bass caught.

On his return to Keystone Heights, Stockman discovered an old cemetery in which he found the graves of a number of Spanish American War Veterans. There had been a camp there in 1898.

January 19, being the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Stockman and it was in keeping with the occasion that Mrs. Stockman should have some flowers, which Mr. Stockman secured. It was most too hot for hunting, so little was done along that line.

The following day was spent in automobile riding to Melrose on Lake Sanafie, where the peach trees were in bloom, also many kinds of flowers, strawberries and tomatoes and lettuce, peas and onions in the gardens.

On January 21 the party left for a trip to St. Augustine. Enroute they passed through the J. C. Penny farm of five or six thousand acres in the center of which is the town where the employees live. Henry, who owns many stores, owns everything but the people run the town. They crossed the famous Shand's bridge, one and one-quarter miles long. St. Augustine was a fine place, they found, with many wonderful hotels. Most of the buildings are of a stone formed by petrified sea shells. A visit was paid to an old house erected by the Spaniards in 1562. They also visited an immense alligator farm and saw the chimney and well of the first home erected by the first people to land there. Fort Marion, erected in 1563 or 1568, was of much interest with its walls four feet thick and a water channel all around it. The guide placed the party in the dungeon and turned off the lights. One experience was enough for all. The trip home was by way of Jacksonville, which proved a most interesting place with its works and docks. A few more days at the camp and the party packed up and returned to Keystone Heights. On January 27 the party left Keystone Heights on a sight-seeing trip to Tampa, Miami and other interesting points to the south, returning to Keystone Heights on February 1.

On their return from the southern trip, they found the woods on fire in every direction. The strange thing to them was the fact that no effort was being made to put the fires out. They learned that fires were even being put on purpose to burn out the old grass and get a start of new grass.

Miller and Johns left for home with the car and trailer on February 11. Mr. and Mrs. Stockman did not return, having decided to remain and return by train, when ready. The day after Miller and Johns left for home, Stockman met a man named John Robinson from New Castle and arrangements were made for them to go fishing at a later date.

On February 16, a letter was received from Mr. Johns telling of his and Mr. Miller's trip home in some-thing over two days and of the ice and snow in Pennsylvania, while Mr. and Mrs. Stockman were enjoying sun and warm rain in Florida.

Part of Sunday, February 18, was spent in attending services conducted by a negro preacher, who was delivering a sermon on the visit of the Queen of Sheba to Solomon. The unusual feature of the service was the negro boy who led in prayer and sustained the preacher during the sermon, the pulpit to exhortation when his snare got too thick, and the chanting of the hymns.

On February 19 the Stockmans and Robinsons went to the camp in the woods on Gin House lake. Fishing did not prove so good on this visit, as on the occasion of the former visit, at the start, but Stockman and his negro guide found some good holes and secured quite a number of good bass. On returning to Keystone Heights from the camp, the party got lost in the woods and had quite a time getting out.

On March 4, Mr. and Mrs. Stockman and a Mr. and Mrs. Williams of Williamsport, Pa., went out to the camp on Gin House lake for a week's stay. Fishing proved good this time, a considerable number of bass being caught by the men. While there, the hardest wind ever known in the district was encountered.

On March 14, Stockman caught eight bass, his last season closed, making 75 in all during his stay. His largest being 10½ pounds and a majority being three and four pounds.

It was on Tuesday, March 19, that Mr. and Mrs. Stockman had the most wonderful experience of their stay, when they and some friends by the name of Robinson went to Silver Springs. They got in a glass bottom boat and for one hour were taken over these springs. And on this trip over the springs they saw a version of June Verne's Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea. They first saw the Mammoth spring from which over 500,000 gallons of water flows every 24 hours. This spring and one or two others supply the water for the Silver river. A stream about the size of Slippery Rock creek. The water is so pure and clear that shells on the bottom 80 feet below can be seen distinctly.

Mammoth ledge is a large rock that looks like the backbone of some prehistoric animal and is 25 feet under water. The sides are covered with shells and some kind of a water plant. All kinds of fish and turtles were to be seen feeding on it. Then there is Jacob's well, a large hole 61 feet deep and all kinds of fish are to be seen down where the water is boiling up at the bottom. The reception hall is a large narrow crevice, the bottom of which is covered with shells and the sides with some kind of a plant that looks like pine trees. The sunshine on the trees and shells was a very beautiful sight. The bridal chamber, as it is called, is 60 feet deep and the water tosses the shells and sand up at the bottom. There is a pretty story about this place. The Devil's Kitchen is 47 feet deep back to glorious health by ending such health troubles as stomach, liver, kidney and bowel disorders, rheumatism, neuritis, nervousness, and a general weak, run-down condition. Whence comes the amazing power of Ten Herbs, and the action of its ten wonderful herbal ingredients on the whole inner system, is fully explained by the Ten Herbs Man, who is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, this city, where he is daily demonstrating this popular compound.

"Ten Herbs certainly did wonders for me," was the recent statement of Mr. John Staff, 84 years old, 101 Centre Avenue, Butler, Pa., to the Ten Herbs Man. "I had stomach trouble for years—feared I would never be able to enjoy another meal. I had the worst kind of attacks of indigestion, which would be accompanied with waterbrash and heartburn. There was a burning in my stomach and pains under my heart. Food did not seem to do me much good. I could not sleep well at night on account of my nerves—sometimes I had to get out of bed and walk around awhile. Headaches and backaches came on me. My kidneys caused trouble, and there were severe pains across my back. There were puffs under my eyes, and my complexion was sallow. Constipation also troubled me."

"I was advised to try Ten Herbs, which I did. My stomach is in very good condition now—no more burning sensation, heartburn, or other distress caused by indigestion. The pains are gone from under my heart. I am now sleeping all through the night, as my nerves are quiet. I am rid of dizzy spells, headaches and pains across my back. My liver and kidneys are working properly, and I am free of constipation. I am glad to tell others about the good qualities of Ten Herbs."

The Ten Herbs Man is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, this city, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine.

and the water boils up around the rocks and pebbles, and in one place the shells come up just like popcorn from a popper. There is a view of an old boat at the entrance of the spring. Here they saw several pike or pickerel five and six feet long. Then there were the geysers. This spring boils up near the top and the water can be seen coming up 30 feet. The water brings up the shells and sand in such a manner as to remind you of a snow storm. The plants look like Christmas trees all decorated with colored lights. The Blue Grotto is another hole 60 feet deep and the water is blue and everything in it looks blue. Then there is the Garden of Eden, a spring 73 feet deep with two large caves at the bottom and a large catfish at the entrance of each. They call them Adam and Eve. There is also the Turtle Meadows, where they saw two of the largest turtles in existence, the Cat Fish Hotel and The Fish Inn.

The trip home was made by boat from Jacksonville, going down the St. John river to the ocean. The start of the trip was calm. Coming into the Savannah river enroute home they saw the mysterious woman, who waves at every boat. They saw Savannah on a sight-seeing bus. Sea sickness overcame Mrs. Stockman on the second day of the trip. It was rough off Cape Hatteras.

The boat stopped at Norfolk and they took in the points of interest there. They arrived all safe and sound at Baltimore on March 28 took the Pennsylvania railroad for home, coming by way of Harrisburg.

They arrived in the seventh ward the same evening about 7:30, as (quoting Mr. Stockman) "where we had to get in a bus to ride up to the city. This was the worst ride I had in the three thousand miles we traveled and we had to come home to get it."

Local Resident Returns From Coast

Don't Go Out There Looking For Job, Is Warning By Fullerton

John R. Fullerton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Fullerton of Winter avenue, has returned from the Pacific coast where he has spent the past year.

Mr. Fullerton states that he was well pleased with California, but advises against going there in search of work. Employment there is extremely scarce, he states, there being a half dozen men for every job.

President Hoover has had a telephone call from his desk, but the office secretary who gets his number will be lucky.—The Boston Evening Transcript.

High School Receives Gift Of $300,000

POTTSTOWN, Pa., April 5.—James H. Wendel, headmaster of Hill school, seren in Alaska, Canal zone, Haiti today announced that Mrs. Alexander had made a gift of $300,000 to the school for the purpose of erecting a general science building as a memorial to her son, Harry Purple Clough, who was a graduate of the class of 1903, and lost his life on the Titanic.

In addition to the usual scientific facilities, the building will contain small private laboratories for the use of gifted students, and space and equipment to encourage boys in following out artistic, scientific and mechanical hobbies.

NEW THINGS OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Sparkling Glass

A Social Exactment

Caressing White Hands

Every Woman's Right

Simple, New Way, Now—Use Any Kind of Soap

SPARKLING glass and gleaming china are as much a mark of social knowledge as good manners.

To have them—impeccable and flawless—and, at the same time, for the housewife to have caressing, white hands is a problem that's now been solved an interesting, new way.

Use any kind of soap, soap powder or soap flakes, in washing dishes. But add a teaspoon of CLIMALENE to the water.

This enables you to use ONE-FOURTH the usual quantity of soap. For it softens the water instantly, so that far less soap is needed.

Being a GREASE SOLVENT in itself, it DISSOLVES grease instantly, and eliminates ALL FILM or scum from glassware. Makes it sparkle like rare jewels.

Containing superlative SKIN WHITENING and SKIN SOFTENING ingredients—used by scores of beauty specialists—it leaves the hands soft and lovely beyond words.

Women are flocking to it. It costs only a dime at grocers. Try it. Just ask for CLIMALENE.

Detectives Are Fiction Heroes At San Quentin

By RUSSELL WHITING
International News Service Staff Correspondent

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Cal., April 5.—Prisoners prefer detectives. Yes, sir! They like them better than any other class—that is as fiction heroes.

A survey by prison librarian E. M. Stigers of literature read by convicts revealed that detective and mystery fiction was far more popular than any other type.

Mushy love stories have little appeal for the convicts while scientific literature ranks high, being second only to mystery and detective yarns.

Also highbrow

Evidently many of them puzzled at their plight, have read "Why We Behave Like Human Beings" by Eugene Dorsey.

"It is one of the most popular books we have ever had in the library," Stigers said. "The prisoners wore out every copy we had in a few weeks and we had to call them in and have them rebound before they were fit for use again."

G. Wells' "Outline of History" and "Fraser Horn" are also listed among the most popular books on the shelves of the prison library.

Lots of Reading

According to Librarian Stigers, the literature read by the 4,000 convicts equals in amount that read by an average community of 39,000 persons. Men who did little or no reading when on the outside find a new and valuable pastime when they are brought to San Quentin.

Books are supplied to the prison library through donations and a library fund. There are now 12,000 volumes on the prison library shelves. Prisoners also have access to the state library at Sacramento. Any book is sent to them on request by merely paying the postage.

Newspapers often send the new books after their reviewers are through with them. Stigers explained. On one occasion a paper raised a fund that provided 1,500 new volumes over less than two years.

After Education

The average prisoner is anxious to gain some kind of education. A large percentage of them are studying through university extension divisions, while at least one-fourth of the inmates are attending prison classes or studying through correspondence schools.

Peculiarly, it is the older prisoners who go in for education.

Daring Bathing Costumes Vogue On U. S. Beaches

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PALM BEACH, Fla., April 5.—Daring bathing costumes should be the vogue at America's beaches this summer if the creations that adorn the girl bathers at fashionable Palm Beach and at Miami Beach this late winter season can be taken as a criterion.

Very low cut backs are the rage for all the women bathers in Florida are going in for sun-burned backs. The bathing suits are cut to an extreme V shape in the back and the shoulder straps are tucked in leaving the shoulders bare. The censor, if any, seem to be very broad-minded. Certainly what the girls are now wearing at Palm Beach and Miami never would have gotten by the censors at Wilson Beach, Chicago, or at Coney Island, New York—or hardly any other place—last summer. Maybe after all, it is a matter of education.

It seems all the girls hereabouts are going in for tanned backs and tanned limbs. It isn't fashionable any more not to be tanned. Even the Palm Beach beauty parlors are advertising an artificial tan.

Individuality Noted.

"Individuality" is the dominating note on the gowns that are to be seen along the beach front at Palm Beach, one of the most stimulating places in the world for the fashion eye. That is true, too, one the golf courses and at the dancing parties.

Yellow seems to be the smartest color. Blondes, brunettes and intermediates are featuring yellow, although the cut of their gowns are distinctly individual. And there are many shades of yellow. Some grade naturally into orange and others, if intensified, become almost green. A yellowish green known as chartreuse is getting quite a play. In fact there is a yellow for every complexion and the color harmonizes well with the sun-burned type of femininity one sees on all sides.

Yellow beach pajamas and yellow sport coats are the rage. The pleasing sight of young women parading at Palm Beach or Miami Beach in pajamas is so common as to pass almost unnoticed.

Last season they tell me everybody looked like everybody else, morning, afternoon and evening, but not so this year. Now a smart woman not only never looks like anyone else but she looks different to herself, morning, noon and night. They make almost as many changes as a vaudeville quick change artist.

At Dancing Clubs.

At the dancing clubs one observes that the evening gowns are all long at the back even though from the knee down the material may be more or less transparent. There are many cute little ruffle tricks on the afternoon gowns—tied skirts, panels of decorative value, tiny lace yokes, flaring sleeves and cuffs of exquisite daintiness.

Scarfs play a chic role in Palm Beach fashion. Strutting along the breakers boardwalk one notices this and the eye is entranced by the vividness and the variety of colors although as stated above, yellow is the most popular hue.

Disclaims Child, Then Adopts Him

(International News Service)

DENVER, April 5.—Walter A. Long, captain in the U. S. Army during the Spanish-American war, and a rancher of Monte Vista, Colo., recently proved to the satisfaction of the law that a 2-year-old waif living with his divorced wife was not his son, and then decided to adopt the child.

Investigation revealed that the child was a waif found on the doorstep of a Denver home, and after it was "appropriated" by Mrs. Long before she obtained a divorce.

This legal investigation is only one of four that resulted from Mrs. Long's alleged attempt to convince Long the child was his own off-spring.

The second in importance, at least to the homeless waif, was that Long started adoption proceedings and declared he was going to name the child Walter A. Long, Jr., and make him his sole heir. Long owns several ranches in the vicinity of Monte Vista.

Next, according to Long, will come action to have Mrs. Long's divorce decree set aside. He claims she obtained it on fraudulent grounds. He will then file divorce proceeding himself, he declares.

Street Artist Copies Famous Masterpieces

(International News Service)

LONDON, April 5.—Persons coming out of Burlington House, Piccadilly, where the $15,000,000 exhibition of Dutch paintings is in progress, have been amazed to see beautiful copies of some of the principal exhibits painted in the street pavement nearby.

The street artist, who refused to reveal his name, has surprised experts by his ability, and it has been learned that he at one time exhibited in the Paris salon, and showed signs of becoming an eminently successful artist.

Country Towns To Lose Rule Of City

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, April 5.—Rural dictatorship over the urban communities will come to an end in the United States because of the sweeping trend toward concentration of population in the cities, it was predicted here by Professor Charles A. Merriam, chairman of the department of political science of the University of Chicago.

"For a half a century since the beginning of the modern urban movement, cities have been harshly treated by the states of which they have been parts," he stated. "The tendency toward home rule for cities is steadily advancing and it is very significant

American Reports Chinese Starving

(International News Service)

PEKING, April 5.—Two hundred persons starving together in a cave, the grinding of dry grass into a greenish powder for food, a mob of several thousand ordinarily peaceful village inhabitants driven to desperation by prolonged hunger, these are a few of the phases of famine and destitution witnessed by Ernest H. Oliver, traveling secretary for the China International Famine Relief commission, and reported in a message received from him.

The appalling account was sent via Sanyuan, Shensi, son gives an account of his inspection of the eastern part of Kwan Chung Tao. The journey included Peking, Pucheng, Hong Kong, Tientsin, Chao Tung, Kwan and thence back to Sanyuan, after which the western section of the Kwan Chung Tao will be investigated.

Sanyuan and Chingyang-hsien were visited on the way to Sanyuan and entire villages were found starving or living on poor substitutes such as mulberry leaves, ground cotton seeds with the cotton lint still adhering, yao tsai roots, cotton seed cake and the like. "They have not tasted wheat or other grain, with the exception of a little bran, for five months," he writes. "The stocks of cotton seeds are giving out and the same applies to yao tsai roots, after which there is nothing but starvation."

Weaklings had a better chance in the old days. They could hide a trembling mouth behind whiskers.

Announce Class Night Performers

Students Taking Part In Class Night Selected At Senior High School

CLASS NIGHT TO OCCUR ON JUNE 5

Students of the New Castle senior high school June graduating class who will participate in the class night performance which will be given on the evening of June 5 have been selected according to the announcement made today.

The selection of donor centered on Herbert Smith, popular member of the graduating class. Chauncey Goodchild was named knocker; Walter Michael was chosen orator; Willard Porter will act in the capacity of prophet, and the history of the class will be ably taken care of by Forrest Eakin.

Selections for the speaking and acting roles at the night's performance were made Thursday at a meeting of the class which took place at the school building.

Each of the students selected for the various parts in the class night performance has been selected upon merits of former work and school activity. Every care was used in making the selections, and opinion is that the program which will be staged by these graduates will be more than interesting.

killed and his automobile demolished last night when it was struck by a Pittsburgh & Lake Erie train at the Corapopolis crossing of the railroad. Ivkovich was still alive when the train crew took him from the wreckage of the automobile. Deputy Coroner W. R. Sellers was notified. He died a short time later in the South-side hospital. There were no passengers in the automobile.

Error Admitted In Dean Will Case

New Trial Granted Because Defendant Was Not Permitted To Testify

Admission of error in its rulings during the trial of the Dean will case, was the basis for granting a new trial by Judge James A. Chambers yesterday afternoon, following formal petition by attorneys for the defendant.

During the trial of the case, Jane Ligo, the principal defendant in the action was not permitted to testify, objection having been made as to her competency as a witness in regard to any matter during the lifetime of the decedent. She was excluded as to any of these matters.

In handing down the ruling yesterday, the court states that it is now satisfied that it was in error and believes that Jane Ligo and Jessie W. Hamilton and any other parties in interest would be competent witnesses and the order for a new trial is granted because of this fact.

Vision And Service

"Brass Tacks" on the Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

THEN I SAID, HERE AM I; SEND ME! Isaiah 6:8

By ALVIN E. BELL
In these practical days visions are at a discount, and one who regards them with any seriousness is scoffed at as a visionary or dreamer. And yet there is truth in this practical age in Solomon's proverb, "Where there is no vision the people perish." Back of every great invention, discovery, or reformation there has been some social, industrial or spiritual prophet's vision.

King Uzziah "was marvelously helped until he was strong, but when he was strong, his heart was lifted up to his destruction," and God had to rebuke him by making him a leper the last years of his life. In the year of the death of the leprosy king there was given to Isaiah a vision of Jehovah as the true King, "sitting upon a throne, high and lifted up, and his train filled the temple."

The vision was timely, for the nation's hopes were not in a leper's casket but with Jehovah their true King in the heavens. "Above him stood the seraphim: each one had six wings; with twain he covered his face, and with twain he covered his feet, and with twain he did fly." This lesson of the seraphim would have saved the dead king from becoming a leper. For the first pair of wings spoke of reverence, and the second pair spoke of humility, as the third pair spoke of activity or service. Too many in our day regard the first two pairs as useless, forgetting that no service is acceptable that does not grow out of true reverence and humility.

No man can get a new vision of God without getting a new vision of himself. Isaiah's vision of God and the heavenly hosts singing "Holy, holy, holy, is Jehovah of hosts," made him conscious of the contrast with his own sinful nature, and brought the confession, "Woe is me; because I am a man of unclean lips—for mine eyes have seen the King, Jehovah of hosts." Then followed his cleansing, as one of the heavenly beings touched his lips with a coal from the altar, and the prophet is ready to hear the divine call to service, "Whom shall I send, and who will go for us?" And he gives the response of full surrender and consecration, "Here am I, send me." Thus the spirit of reverence and humility prepares the way for activity.

The fourth of Judah's kings under whose reigns the great statesman-prophet Isaiah exercised his ministry was Hezekiah, one of the best of Judah's kings. It became Isaiah's sad duty to announce to the king that he was to die. The king turned to God in earnest prayer to spare his life for further service, and his prayer was answered and his reign extended from 14 to 29 years, thus doubling the rule of the most godly of the nation's kings. So the king's life was spared for further service to God and nation, and the king sang his appreciation in a psalm of praise to Jehovah. It was the gift of years to one who knew how to use time for God. All time is a loan from God. If he sees fit to extend or renew the loan to us let us not fail to pay him the interest due him upon the loan.

(The International Uniform lesson for April 7 is Isaiah 6:1-13, 7:1-17, 20:1-6, 38:1-20, the subject being "The Ministry of Isaiah," and the Golden Text, Isaiah 6:8. "Then I said, Here am I, send me." This is the first of a six months' course on "The Prophetic Teaching and Leadership of Judah.")

(The home daily Bible readings for next week's lesson are: April 8th, II Chron. 30:1-9; 9th, II Chron. 30:13-22; 10th, II Chron. 30:23-27; 11th, Hosea 11:1-11; 12th, Micah 7:14-20; 13th, I John 4:7-16; 14th, Psalms 145:8-17.)

Announce County Wide Model Air Plane Tournament

Winners Will Be Sent To National Meet In Kentucky; All Boys Eligible

Bradford Model Plane Field Day Announced By Local Scout Executive

Announcement is made from the Lawrence county Boy Scout headquarters by J. Lee Calahan of a county-wide miniature aircraft tournament for all boys and young men in the county who are under 21 years of age. All contestants may start work on their plane models immediately and the all-day outdoor miniature flying meet will be staged on the Bradford flying field on the Youngstown road during the first week in June.

The boy contestants will be divided into two groups according to age limits, and the winners, two boys from the senior and junior classifications of the meet will be sent, expenses paid, to the third national miniature aircraft tournament which is under the direction of Colonel Charles no boy in the entire county as long as he is not over 21 years of age. There will be two classifications. The junior group will include those boys who will not have attained their 16th birthday again September 30, while the senior class will include all those young men past 16 and yet under 21 years of age again September 30.

Events for the two classes will be separate in order that every fairness may be shown. There will be plane models which do not fly, models which fly by means of the rubber band method and planes which will stay in the air a short time by the use of rockets and spring motors.

Competent Judges

There will be competent judges for the outdoor day meet at the Bradford flying field. Boys in each class who receive the greatest number of points in the events will be declared victors and the prize trip to Kentucky will be theirs.

In addition to these first prizes a host of other prizes are being arranged. It is likely probably that various civic organizations will give prizes for displays and a large number of other prizes for other winners are being arranged by the local men in charge and Mr. Bradford.

Announcements will be made in the county and city high schools pertaining to the meet, as well as at various boys' group meetings. All efforts are being made to make it one of the most educational and worthwhile contests ever to occur here.

Titles of books that boys may read to obtain added material may be obtained at Scout headquarters in the Greer building and rules and details pertaining to the contest will be published in The News. The first of a series will begin Monday.

An application blank will be printed and all boys planning to enter the contest must have this blank to Scout headquarters again April 30.

Pays 22-Hour Penance

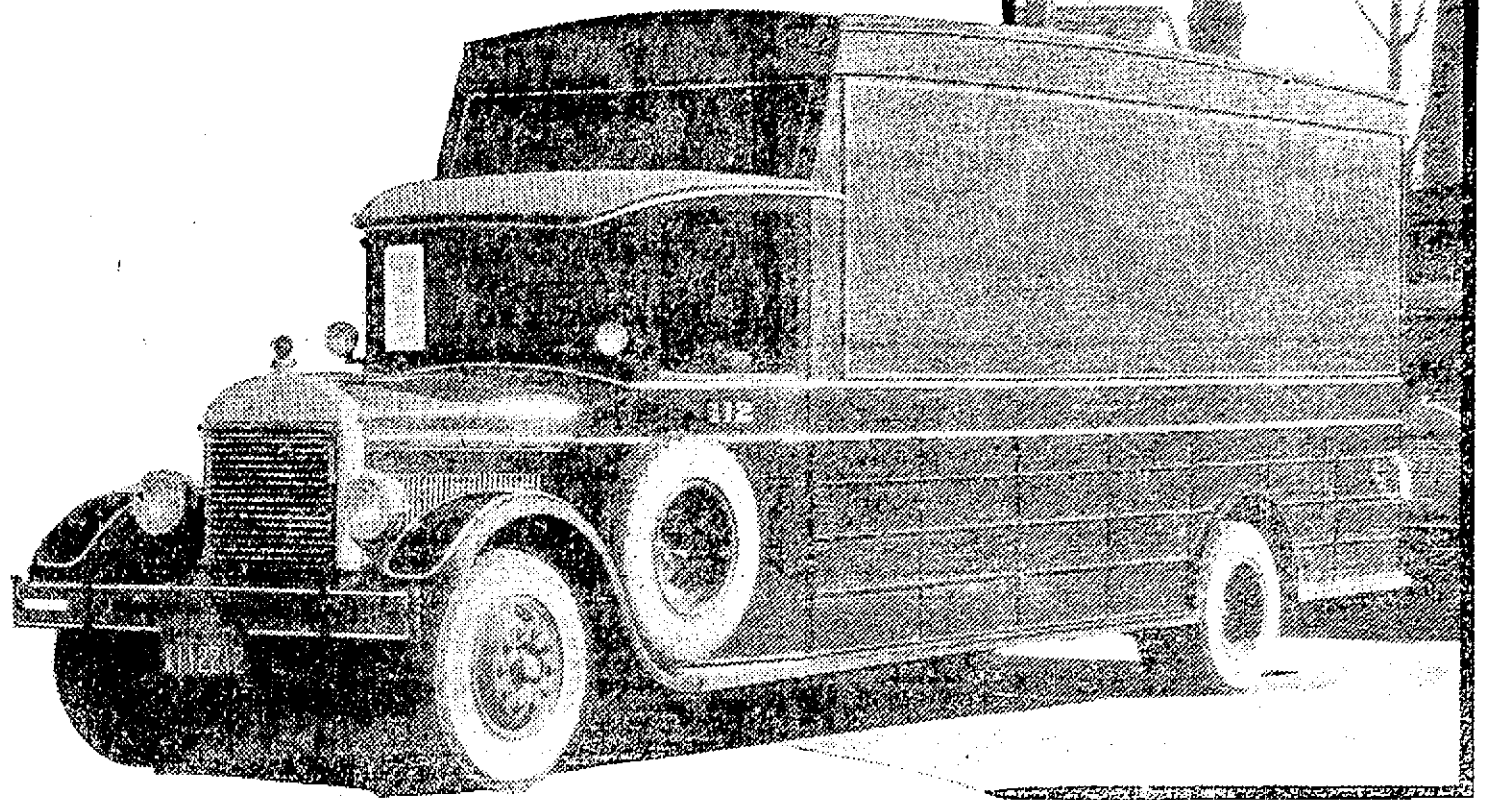

Red Cagle, last year's shining light of West Point's football team, is doing a 22-hour trick in his spare time on the 100-yard stretch where all A. W. O. L. hammer out their penalty. Red missed the Hoboken ferry one night, all due to Mr. Whalen's traffic laws, but the rules at West Point must be obeyed, too.

from the professional buyer when choosing a motor fuel

"ENTER our contract for the year for fifty thousand gallons of gasoline—to be delivered as needed." . . . That's the sort of thing you hear in the offices of large truck-fleet and bus-line operators.

Such orders are never placed at random. But under highly competitive conditions. And only after cold, calculating investigation on the part of the purchasing agent. For it's more than gasoline he's buying. It's wheel-driving power. Time-saving pick-up. High mileage. Unfailing motor performance. Dependable and convenient sources of supply.

Are not these the same things you look for when you need five or ten gallons for your own car? Why not follow the choice of the professional buyers? The largest users among them select Atlantic Gasoline.

Y. W. Athletic Club
Has Dinner Meeting

This Club Is Sponsoring The Annual Indoor Tennis Tournament

The athletic club of the Y. W. C. A. thoroughly enjoyed a most delicious dinner Wednesday evening in the third floor dining room of the Y. W. The dinner table was particularly beautiful with unusual spring decorations, supplied by Mrs. Catherine Schaeff, chairman of the social committee, who also had charge of the original manner in which the girls secured their dinner partners by means of spring flowers.

Pep singing was led by Miss Ruth Jamison. After dinner the business meeting was conducted in the club-room by the president, Miss Mildred Weisbaker. A number of important matters were presented, most important of which probably was the question of a tennis court. With deep gratitude the girls heard of the permission from the Universal Sales Co. to build a court on a lot belonging to them located on Florence avenue. This is so centrally located that it is very desirable. The club plans a tennis finance committee was appointed with Miss Eva Bricker chairman.

The annual spring indoor tennis tournament will start Monday evening. The tourney is being conducted by the sports committee of the athletic club, under the leadership of Miss Lillian Ekblom. After the business meeting the girls

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Once the engineer of this column gets to sleep, it takes something more than an ordinary noise to awaken him. Say a piano dropped on the floor or a safe being tossed out the window. Or a storm such as that of last night. As a demonstration of electrical effects it had some things that even the New Castle Electrical League couldn't touch.

Some of the city council last some sleep last night as a result of the storm.irate citizens called up Clayton Reeves, a councilman and Robert M. White, City Solicitor, and demanded that something be done. The water was in their cellars, their automobiles were stranded out in the alley, and the lightning flashes were scaring the cat.

The pier of the new bridge in the Neshannock went out of sight and the river was within a few inches of doing a leap frog over into the streets. Union Township supervisors lost heavily through washouts and city streets looked like mud lanes.

Every year there is one banquet that has an appeal far beyond that of an ordinary banquet. It is the annual Recognition Banquet of the Washington Junior High school and last night was the night. The lads and lassies who have excelled in Latin or football, mathematics or basketball, music or art were honored and it occurs to me that this custom of the Washington school, started when the school was the North Street Junior High school, is a most commendable one.

The Senior High school folks have an attraction on tonight, it being the Granville Impersonations. The gentleman impersonates famous characters in history, as I get it, and those who know say it is well worth attending.

Would like to go of course, but the American Legion has some impersonations on tonight that need some attention. Hap Welsh is going to impersonate the champion sandwich and pickle eater of the United States, using life sized sandwiches for the demonstration. He will have plenty of competition for it is an Open House tonight, with everything free. Hold everything!

Up under the eaves of the block at the northeast corner of Mill and Washington streets, there is a grating out, leaving an opening back under the eaves of the building. Scores of pigeons have taken advantage of the free lodging and anytime you want to find some of the local pigeons, page the pigeon boarding house. They sleep up there, and eat down in Sycamore Way, with N. A. Smith putting out the free lunch.

Defense Opens In Suit Against Local Officers

Contend That Search Of Ferrante Home In Wampum Was Legally Made

SAY WARRANT FOR SEARCH WAS SHOWN

Attorneys for the defense in the suit of Louis Ferrante of Wampum against County Detective William G. Fleming, Constables John Miller and William Graham and State Police-men William Brush and Harold Muncie, in which damages in the sum of $50,000 are asked by Mr. Ferrante as the result of a raid made upon his home on October 27, 1927, opened their case late yesterday afternoon.

In addressing the jury as the defense opened, Attorney Dickey stated that the defense would prove that a legal warrant was obtained from Squire Howe in Wampum on information which was obtained against the Ferrante home; that an automobile owned by Patsy Nero and kept in the Ferrante garage was purported to contain a cargo of liquor; that a search warrant was shown Mr. Ferrante during the search of his home; and that two state policemen were among the men present during the search and that they were in uniform, plainly showing them to be officers.

Louis Ferrante, the plaintiff; his daughter, Dina Ferrante, and Mrs. Louis Quintano were the concluding witnesses for the plaintiff during the earlier hours of the afternoon.

Mr. Ferrante stated that the officers demanded the right to search his home when they appeared early in the morning of October 27, 1927, and that permission was readily granted. He stated that he was very much frightened by their actions.

He stated that he made a demand for a search warrant during the search of the home, but that it was not produced until the raiding party was ready to leave.

He stated that the men were very rough in their procedure, pushing him into the house as soon as the door was opened. He asserted that they broke three locks to the garage, barn and cellar of his home during their search.

Mrs. Quintano, who lives above the store of Ferrante adjoining his home, testified to seeing the officers there on the morning in question, and stated that they made a great amount of noise. She told of seeing them break the lock of the door of the barn, and to have heard loud voices raised in the Ferrante home after they had gone to the house. She said that she had gone back to bed, fearing that the men were "bums".

Dina Ferrante stated that she was asleep in her room on the second floor during the visit of the officers and that she was so frightened by their actions and an attempt made to force the door of her bedroom that she was made highly nervous, a condition which lasted over a period of six weeks and caused her much suffering.

County Detective William Fleming was the first witness called to the stand by the defense.

He stated that he was called to Wampum by Constable John Miller on the morning of October 27, 1927, asking him to come to Wampum immediately and bring some help with him. He stated that he went to the Colonial hotel and secured State Police-men Muncie and Brush and the three went to Wampum where they met Miller.

Arriving there, he says he was met by Miller and Constable Graham, who told him that Patsy Nero was said to have run an auto load of liquor into Wampum and that it was kept in the garage of Louis Ferrante. He stated that he asked Miller if he had a proper search warrant and that Miller had said he had and showed it to him.

Arriving at the Ferrante place, they went to the garage in the rear of the home and, finding it locked, Fleming stated that he secured a railroad spike and inserted it in the staple which formed a part of the lock, wrenched the entire lock, hasp and staple from the door. He said that he did not break the lock open.

Finding nothing in the garage, they went to the barn, which was not locked, and searched through it. Not finding anything there they continued to the house, where he says they found the outside cellar door open and peered down into the cellar way.

Gas Warfare Chief

Col. Harry L. Gilchrist, of Cleveland, is the new chief of the chemical warfare service of the army, succeeding Maj. Gen. Amos A. Fries. He commanded the Lakeside hospital medical unit, the first U. S. army unit to go overseas during the World war, and was head of the American typhus mission to Poland.

Held for Questioning

Inspector Louis E. Crawford is one of men being questioned by U. S. Attorney Tuttle for information regarding liquor which is alleged to have been found in Congressman Morgan's baggage when he arrived in New York recently from Panama.

(International Newsweek)

The officers then went to the front door of the home and rang the bell. Mr. Ferrante appearing and demanding to know who was there. Fleming states that he told him he was County Detective Fleming and wanted to search the house. Mr. Ferrante admitted them, and the officers separated and began searching the home. Fleming states that when he appeared at the front door that State Troopers Brush and Muncie accompanied him, and that they were in full uniform, plainly showing them to be officers.

After searching the cellar thoroughly and finding three barrels of wine and another partly full, he returned to the first floor where he joined the other officers. None of this liquor was taken, he says, as they were looking for whiskey.

He said that he had heard Ferrante demand a "paper for search" from Constable Graham, who told Ferrante that Constable Miller had it upstairs. When Miller later came down, he states that he saw Miller show the paper to Ferrante, who after examining it in the hands of Constable Miller said "That's not the right man."

He says when the officers started upstairs that Mrs. Ferrante had told them there was a girl sick upstairs, and that he had cautioned the men against entering her room.

On cross examination, Mr. Fleming was asked by Attorney Lockhart for the plaintiff, if he was not aware that the search warrant was made out for a house on Main street, and that Mr. Ferrante's home was actually on Beaver street.

He stated that he was unaware of the fact at the time, but knew where Main street was located.

During the argument which ensued over the search warrant, and which was not in offer as evidence, formal demand was made by attorneys for the plaintiff that the search warrant be produced.

The attorneys for the plaintiff will attempt to show, they stated, that the search warrant was faulty; that it was not made out in the name of "Ferrante" and that it did not specify correctly the street on which Ferrante lived.

State Policeman Harold Muncie was called to the stand just a few minutes before court adjourned for the afternoon, his testimony being very similar to that given by Mr. Fleming.

Morning Session

Constable John Miller was the first witness called this morning. He told about going to the house with the other officers and of making a search of the premises. He denied that in searching the house that the officers had turned bureau drawers out on the floor, or that clothing in presses had been thrown on the floor, also that mattresses on beds had been thrown on the floor.

In company with State Policeman Brush he had searched the third floor of the house, where several trunks were found. He denied that any of these trunks were broken open or that the contents had been thrown on the floor.

When he returned to the first floor he said that Ferrante had asked to see his search warrant and that he had given it to him. Miller's recollection was that Ferrante had the warrant in his possession while he and Brush searched the cellar. Several barrels were found in the cellar.

Questioned as to where the search warrant had been obtained Miller said that it was issued by Justice of Peace Howe of West Pittsburg.

It was based on information sworn to by James Aello. Asked if Aello had not been arrested, Miller said that he had been arrested and taken before Howe to answer a charge of disorderly conduct. His recollection was that he had paid a fine.

Miller was asked if Aello had not at first been held under $1,500 bail, which was later omitted on provision that he make a charge against Ferrante. He denied that there had been any such arrangement. The warrant had been issued in the name

Soviet Russia Is Problem In Hoover Regime

By GEORGE E. HOLMES,
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 5.—The advent of the new Hoover administration has again brought to the front the question of whether there is likely to be any change in the government's policy of non-recognition of Soviet Russia.

Friends of Russian recognition have had hopes that under Mr. Hoover some great forward step might be taken to restore relations now severed for a matter of some eleven years.

They have based these hopes largely upon the new President's keen desire to push America's foreign trade into ever widening channels, and to some extent upon Senator William E. Borah's influence in the new administration. Borah has long been an advocate of recognizing Russia—"the most stable government in Europe" as he calls it, and as, indeed, it is.

Is In Accord
However, Mr. Hoover sat in the Cabinets of two Presidents who could not see their way clear to recognize the government set up by Lenin and Trotsky, and thus far there have been no indications that he disagreed with that policy.

And so far as Russian trade is concerned, it is going along nicely without recognition.

While there is no American Ambassador at Moscow and no Russian Ambassador in Washington, the government has not attempted to put any obstacles in the way of commercial intercourse, and American exports to Russia today are four times what they were before the war. The value of American exports in 1927-28 was just under $100,000,000, a very respectable figure under the circumstances.

American business men, manufacturers and bankers have pushed steadily ahead with trade projects despite the strained relations. Credits have been arranged, and business is good. Consequently, from the purely material side of the question, there exists no compelling reason for a change of policy.

Is Complex Problem
Russia recognition presents an enormous and highly complex problem.

Charles E. Hughes, as Secretary of State, laid down the maxim that before there could even be discussion of recognition it would be necessary for the Soviet Government to restore to the rightful owners the millions of dollars worth of American property which was confiscated during the revolution. Many large American corporations like the International Harvester company, Standard Oil Company and Singer Sewing Machine Company, had their property confiscated in the rise of the Bolshevik state.

There is also the matter of some $300,000,000 which the Czarist and Kerensky governments borrowed from the United States Treasury. The original amount was not paid much, but eleven years of interest has added to the principal. That interest is still attaching, barbed like, to the demand notes which the United States holds. The Soviet Government has announced several times that it did not recognize the debt, but at the same time Moscow has several times put forth "feelers" about it in connection without possible recognition.

It is considered probable that these "feelers" will be renewed before long. But, although the particular trend of the Hoover foreign policy remain to be disclosed, the belief very strongly prevails here that there will be no recognition under the Hoover administration unless the Soviets themselves perform a complete about-face.

Council Refuses To Take Action

Members of council today refused to take any action on the request to cut the assessment on the Laskey property in the vicinity of Long avenue and Moravia street. The property is not rented and the Laskey interests claim the assessment under present conditions is too high. Council took the attitude that to reduce the assessment would pave the way for other requests in similar circumstances.

Begin Mapping Cathedral Drive

Organization Is Being Developed To Present Cause To Masons

Thorough preparations are under way in the Consistory Valley of New Castle for the Cathedral drive, re-funding campaign decreed last Wednesday at a meeting of representatives from all over the valley.

Experienced campaign counsel has been secured by the committee to direct the effort which will be confined entirely to members of the Masonic order in the region, which consists of 268 cities and towns in 19 counties. Organization of this extensive territory will be accomplished by dividing it into zones. Fifty-four zones have been established, of which New Castle is one. Zone committees are being organized at the present rate of two a day.

The membership in New Castle will require a special campaign of considerable proportions which will be waged entirely by members of the local Masonic bodies exclusively among members of the order.

Exchange of non-interest-bearing securities for previous securities of the Cathedral held by the members and repayment of non-members for securities held by them are the objectives of the campaign. Representatives of the Masonic bodies which met last Wednesday formed themselves into a campaign cabinet for this purpose. It is the hope of the cabinet to organize their program that the objectives will be reached by July 1.

V. L. Granville Makes Hit At Morning Chapel Service

A special chapel to introduce V. L. Granville noted English actor who will appear at the senior high school this evening at 8:15 was held at the senior high school this morning.

Mr. Granville first gave a short talk on literature and some educational points concerning dramatics after which he gave a monologue entitled "The Road to Mandalay" by Rudyard Kipling.

Present indications show that there will be one of the largest crowds ever to jam the high school auditorium to greet Mr. Granville who will appear in "Dramatic Interludes."

Husband Seeks Wife And Three Children

Sam Demassa today sought the assistance of the local authorities in getting information concerning his wife, Bessie Demassa, aged 23, and their three children and Miss Helen Decicco, 301 Phillips street, aged 19, a sister of Mrs. Demassa, who have been missing since leaving the Demassa home, April 3.

They left to attend a show and have not been seen since. It is the belief of the husband that the missing people are located some in this city, any information relative to them should be given to the police in order that they may be located.

GIRL STRUCK BY PASSING MOTORIST

A. W. Orr, R. D. No. 7, was enroute east on Washington street at Allen street, according to the report made last night to the police, when a little girl, Pearl Humphrey, aged 8, of 833 Morton street, ran across Washington street from the north side to the south side in front of his car. She was struck and knocked down by the Orr car. Mr. Orr took her to a physician, who reported that she was not seriously injured.

CROTON CELLAR FILLED.
Robert Stitzinger, 822 Croton avenue, complained to council today of a sewer pipe spurring water into his cellar.

The Ace Spring gives a Bed Foundation

It's a true saying that "a bed is as good as its spring."
By all means—get a good one. It may cost a dollar or two more than some other—but it's sleep insurance. And the slightly higher cost is more than equalized through a longer period of service.
Take this Ace Spring for example. Every coil in it (and there are more than in most springs) is made of tested wire. It will give just enough to support as well as rest the body. Small governor springs prevent side-sway. There is no rocking. Angle-iron top binding prevents tearing of sheets.
Such betterments are worth a dollar or two more, aren't they? Yet the Ace Spring is priced only..... $19.75

Enlarge Office Building At Johnson Bronze

Rapidly expanding business of the Johnson Bronze Company, which is fast making it one of the city's major industries, necessitated within the past two weeks the enlargement of the new office building at the northern boundary of the plant's property, a short distance south of the Cudahy Packing Company plant.

When the need became apparent, President Flaherty directed that it be rushed to completion at once and a crew of men started eight days ago on the construction of a second floor over the stock room in the rear of the new office building, formerly occupied by another business.

Yesterday the addition was completed, being 40 by 100 feet. It is finished in stucco on the outside like the rest of the building, has a hardwood floor, is plastered and painted and ready for business. It is in use today by the sales department of the plant.

Housed in this new office, of which the addition is a part, is the private office of President P. J. Flaherty, the

Fisher Signs Fifteen Bills

Fifteen Bills Approved, Five Are Vetoed, By Governor John S. Fisher

GIVES REASONS FOR NON-APPROVALS

By WILLIAM B. BROWN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, April 5.—Governor John S. Fisher today announced approval of 15 new laws and vetoes of five, four of which were repealing bills which went so far as to repeal both houses but were found to be duplications of previous acts.

The governor vetoed the bill sponsored by Representative Way, Clearfield, which would have permitted a secretary of a school board at the same time to serve as superintendent, principal or teacher of the district.

The veto message asserted that the school code originally permitted such a practice but that abuses followed and amendments were necessary to stop them.

"I believe the interests of the school districts are better served by retaining the act in its present form," the governor wrote.

The bills signed included a series designated to further strengthen administration of banks and trust companies and another which amends old acts governing the number and pay of employees in the state treasury.

Schultz Bill Signed.
The governor signed the Schultz bill which raises to $3,500 the annual amount which may be paid to stenographers in the offices of district attorneys in fourth and fifth class counties.

The bill sponsored by Senator Harry J. Bell, Fayette, which will further regulate the practice of midwives and require licensing by the state department of health was approved.

The governor also signed the resolution of Representative Batchelor, Beaver, which authorizes investigation of the University of Pennsylvania, Jefferson Medical College, Women's Medical College of Pennsylvania, Hahnemann Medical College, Temple University, all of Philadelphia, and the University of Pittsburgh, regarding the legal residences of the students now enrolled and refused entrance last fall. Batchelor charged that resident Pennsylvanians have been unable to enter the schools because of the large number illegally admitted.

Schooner Sinks; Reported Rammed By U. S. Destroyer

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Crashing into the U. S. Destroyer Childs, 50 miles southeast of Hampton roads, Va., last night, the Schooner A. Ernest Mills went to the bottom, probably carrying with her the master, Capt. A. C. Chaney, and two members of the crew.

LT. Comdr. John L. Hall, captain of the destroyer, reported to the navy department today that his crew rescued six members of the schooner's crew but no trace was found of the captain and other two seamen, George Barnes, Portsmouth, Va., and Paul Ferguson, Norfolk, Va., the Childs was aided in the search by the destroyer Cochran and Bruce.

Owned by the New England Maritime Co., the schooner's home port was Boston. The seamen dragged from the waters by the Childs sailors are: George Carver, first mate, Calais, Me.; Albert Raymond, Edward Williams and Percival Hendricks, Norfolk, and James Smith and William Franklin, Newport News, Va.

Wisconsin House Member Defends Morgan In Case

Claims Accompanied Representative Morgan And Heard No Abusive Language Used

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Rep. John C. Schafer (R) Wisconsin, one of the party of congressmen-junkies who returned from Panama last week, doesn't believe Rep. William M. Morgan, Ohio's dry congressman, brought in four bottles of liquor as New York customs inspectors charge. Schafer does know, and he said it today, that there was no abusive language directed at the inspectors.

Schafer was standing right next to Morgan on the pier, he said, and if any unpleasantness were said he would have heard it. He continued, "According to the latest figures, the yearly cost of educating a public school pupil in Rochester, N. Y., was $146 and in Nashville, Tenn., $48."

Governor Fights Impeachment

Governor Huey Long, left, of Louisiana, is carrying on a bitter fight against sensational charges which are being brought against him by the state legislature in an effort to impeach him. He has indicated that he will use all means at his command to defeat their efforts. Dr. Paul M. Cyr of Jeanerette, La., from the sugar belt district of the state is considered the most likely successor in the event the legislature impeaches Governor Long.

PRIEST SHOT BY IRATE FATHER

Angered by the prosecution of his son who was arrested for robbing the church poor box, Guatino Menna, according to Chicago police, shot the Rev. Charles A. May Beetles To Appear In State

Department Of Agriculture Announces Three Year Appearance Scheduled

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 5.—May beetles, or "June Bugs" are scheduled to appear in Pennsylvania this year, the United States department of agriculture announces. They will appear in parts of the state in early spring in accordance with their three-year life cycle.

Entomologists of the department make no predictions as to the probable abundance of the beetle this year, but it is reasonably certain they say, that the bugs will continue to be exceptionally abundant in the infested area in which Pennsylvania is included. In addition to the Keystone State, the infested area includes Ohio, New York, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, South Dakota, Iowa and Minnesota.

War Still Takes Toll

Twelve Years After United States Entered Conflict, Thousands Of Veterans Remain In Hospitals
—The Story Of Two, One With 30 Operations

By LESLIE P. EICHEL,
Staff Writer for Central Press and New Castle News.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., April 5.—War continues its ravages. In this aftermath of peace, thousands of United States' veterans—28,792—remain in government hospitals.

Many will remain the rest of their lives. Hundreds, shell-shocked, are retained at various places under lock and key.

Surgeons continue to operate. There are war wounds that never seem to heal.

And it's all of 12 years (April 6, 1917) since the United States entered the war.

Three-fourths War Victims.

Here in Brooklyn in an immaculate kept naval hospital overlooking a large part of New York harbor 802 of the 806 patients are war veterans.

William John Kenny, 30, of Brooklyn is one. He is awaiting his 31st operation. He's cheerful about it. He's alive—and this is the best of all the hospitals he has been in.

His hard luck began before he went to France. In Plattsburgh, N. Y., training camp in 1916 he was accidentally shot in his left leg. Then the United States got into the broil overseas and Kenny's bullet still in his leg was sent to the front line across the water.

Kenny's Recollections.

"It was on July 30, 1918, at 7:30 p. m. at the second battle of the Marne," he begins—and one hears how shrapnel burst around him, striking him in the head and in the left arm he threw up to protect his face. He bears 26 scars. He was taken 40 miles in an ambulance to Paris. He survived a compound fracture of the skull and years later, ether pneumonia in a New York hospital when in three months his weight dropped from 150 to 98 pounds.

Yes, he has had an operation every few months since the war. He can't forget. Yet he laughs. Wonderful hospitals, wonderful surgeons, wonderful treatment.

Then his smile disappears for a moment. He is thinking of war itself.

A Scene in France.

"My first view of France marching up a long steep road to the French front where they served us soup made out of grass—women, hungry French women snatching cakes from our arms and running, cakes given us at home," he relates.

"Then the mother in a hut we came upon—a mother killed by a stray shot, her baby dead, too, her baby starved to death in her arms."

"And in the front trenches, a French soldier who had seen four years of service, saying to me: 'I used to be a Catholic; but I'm nothing any more. No God would let a war like this go on. Two days later he was brought in his head shot clean off.'"

"Then Kenny laughs again. "It's not all horrible. I keep thinking of the English tank driver who asked me for a cigarette and then refused it because it wasn't tailor-made. 'Say' I says, 'this isn't Fifth avenue—and he didn't even know where Fifth avenue was.'"

Another of Many Cases.

There's Matthew Koenig, too. He'll be 34 in May. First he dodged submarines in the merchant marine. Then he enlisted.

He stood in the trenches for 28 days, mud above his knees without taking his shoes off. For eight months he was in those trenches. Then he got "trench foot."

His left leg had to be amputated. He had three cousins on the other side.

He, too is a cheery sort of fellow, but he feels "out of life, for you can't keep in the running with other young people when you have a wooden leg."

Yes, for the 28,000 or more the war has not ended; the casualties still are being recorded; life has given them no armistice.

Forest Is Named For Eli Whitney

(International News Service)
NEW HAVEN, April 5.—Twenty thousand acres of forest area surrounding reservoirs of the New Haven Water Company have been named "The Eli Whitney Forest" in memory of Eli Whitney, Yale 1869, descendant of the inventor of the cotton gin, and banker and public utility operator who died in 1924.

The forest area is used by students of the Yale Forestry School for practice work, and has been developed by students of the school for twenty years.

Murder Plot Charged

Charged with plotting to murder his business associate, R. W. Scott, and to collect $150,000 in corporation insurance, Dr. Gerald Pothoff, above, of Davenport, Ia., president of a psychopathic sanitarium, denies that he planned to kill Scott and that he only desired to remove him from the board of the sanitarium. The alleged plot was revealed by Dr. Carl H. Braun, former sanitarium employee, who said Dr. Pothoff proposed that he aid in the killing.

School Principal Of Ellwood City
Dies At Hospital

Prof. Arthur Kirk Thompson Passes Away This Morning
After Brief Illness

ELLWOOD CITY, April 5.—Prof. A. Kirk Thompson, aged 43 years, principal of the Hartman and North Side schools of Ellwood City, and one of the best known school men of Lawrence county, passed away at the Ellwood City hospital Friday morning at 2 o'clock after a brief illness of about one week.

Prof. Thompson's death is believed to have been the result of an abscess on the brain.

He had been principal of the Ellwood schools for the past five years and was well liked by teachers and pupils. Previous to coming to Ellwood he had been in charge of the Bessemer schools for a number of years.

Mr. Thompson was born in Pulaski township, a son of the late J. H. Thompson and Mrs. Sabra Kirk Thompson, who survives him. He attended the public schools of the township and later entered Westminster college, graduating from that institution some years later. He was a member of the Bell Memorial church of Ellwood City.

Besides his mother he leaves his wife, Mrs. Myrtle Webster Thompson, and seven children, John, Mabel, Arthur, Francis, Chester, Gladys and Ethel at home, and two brothers, Harry of Greenville and Roy of New Wilmington.

Announcement of funeral will be made later.

Rotary Club Hears
Interesting Speech

ELLWOOD CITY, April 5.—Members of the Rotary Club assembled at the First Presbyterian church last evening, where they enjoyed a delicious dinner. An interesting speech was made by H. W. Smith, who recently returned home from Miami, Fla., where he has been for the past 10 weeks. While there Mr. Smith attended the Rotary forum as a delegate from the local club and in his talk he gave reports of the forum. The nomination of officers was held over until Monday evening, as a number of ballots were not in. The tellers will count the ballots and advise the members of the nominations by letter. Election will then take place at the meeting next week.

Basketball Team
Guests At Banquet

Members Of Mechanical Team
Are Honored At Country Club Affair

ELLWOOD CITY, April 5.—Honoring the mechanical team of the Shelby Social Club Inner-Department League, the foremen of the department tendered them a banquet Thursday evening in the Country Club.

An elaborate dinner was served at 7:30. Covers were laid for 53. During the serving the guests were entertained by Sherm Roney in character sketches, piano numbers and songs. The banquet table was beautifully decorated with bouquets of spring flowers. A colorful balloon, filled with gas, was tied at each place and a small musical instrument, consisting of horns, harmonicas, whistles, etc., were the favors. The place cards were exceedingly clever, each one having a funny question which was answered on the back of the card. Considerable fun and merriment ensued as the guests in turn began asking their question and the others trying to guess the answer.

T. R. Snedden acted as toastmaster of the occasion. Invocation was led by C. E. Sankey, S. P. Peck, superintendent of the department; J. W. Offutt, Walter Kuhn and S. Findlater gave short talks. H. E. King, manager of the team, introduced each player, with a short response from each member.

Cards and a social time concluded one of the most delightful and elaborate banquets ever held here.

Special guests present were J. W. Offutt, E. C. Wright, S. Findlater, C. E. Sankey, Fred Loeffler and Walter Kuhn.

BRIDGE CLUB MEET

Ellwood Council
Fixes Tax Millage

Other Important Matters Acted On At Session Last Night

ELLWOOD CITY, April 5.—The regular meeting of the council was held last evening, at which a number of important business projects were transacted.

Council passed an ordinance and ordered same drawn for fixing tax levy, general fund 11 mills, sinking fund three mills and library fund one mill. The finance committee reported that the proposed plan to the rate of collecting taxes was not desirable and advised the borough manager to inform the finance committee of the school board.

Police report was as follows: 22 arrests, 7 discharged, 7 forfeits and $156 collected for fines. Fire chief reported two fires, but no damage. Health officer reported two contagious diseases during the month. Council ordered an ordinance drawn requesting restaurant owners to install grease traps in the sewers. The electric committee and finance committee requested that an electric engineer be employed to work with the department as parts of the plant need re-equipping. Some of the lines are overloaded and the situation is getting serious. A larger and better system of distribution is required and the assistance of a competent engineer will be needed in order that the system may be adequate for future needs. Request granted.

Manager Monroe requested the employment of a consulting engineer to assist in laying out a separate and complete storm sewer system. This system was planned previous to levying a $275,000 bond issue. Plan was approved.

Coke Production Shows Decline

(International News Service)
CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., April 5.—
For the second week this year coke production in this district showed a decline, a summary of the output for the week ending March 30, compiled today by International News Service indicated. The loss was 4,875 tons, the output being 73,765 tons compared with 78,640 the previous week.

The week ending March 23 was the other period in which a decrease was noted.
One hundred and fifty ovens were blown out, of which 100 were at one plant of the H. C. Frick Coke Company. Spot furnace coke was off five cents, the quotations being $2.85 to $2.90 a ton.

Honor Junior High Students

Annual Recognition Banquet
At George Washington
Junior High

ABOUT HUNDRED ATTEND AFFAIR

Cafeteria of the George Washington Junior High School last night was the scene of the sixth students' annual recognition banquet which brought honor to those students of that institution who through their individual athletic or scholastic achievements have distinguished themselves in some particular way this past year.

Approximately one hundred persons, including honor students, faculty members, school authorities and special guests were in attendance and enjoyed the sumptuous dinner and the program which followed.

The banquet hall was elaborately decorated for the occasion in colors of orange and black, official school colors. Favos were also of the orange and black variety.

The program got under way shortly after six o'clock when Miss Elizabeth Owens, music teacher in the school, called for a song or two.
When these had been sung the group paused while Frank Baldwin offered the invocation. Dinner was then served.

Copson Toastmaster
Additional pep singing took place immediately following the dinner, and Donald E. Copson, toastmaster for the evening, arose and opened the program. Mr. Copson first made a few remarks in which he lauded the teams and the honor students for their excellent work. He said that in the group were those Washington students who have excelled both on the field and on the floor and in the classroom too. The toastmaster's brief introduction to the evening's program was exceptionally appropriate and before closing he expressed his own personal appreciation to each and every one who cooperated in an attempt to put the banquet over, which they did.

Nettie Irene Mann, student in 9B2, was next on the program. Miss Nettie presented a piano solo. Following this number Mr. Copson introduced Emmett Gillespie, coach of the boys' football and basketball coach this past year. In response Gillespie expressed his sincere thanks for the way in which the entire school cooperated and stated that he hopes next year's spirit will be just as good.
Gillespie then introduced a number of players on the football team and told Stephen Babovsky to lead cheers.
Babovsky, small but mighty, then led the group in cheers for the different players. In his talk Coach Gillespie mentioned the fact that next year's basketball material will probably be good inasmuch as most of this season's players will still be in the school then.

Chas. Kay, speaker of the 1928
Washington football squad, now a student at the senior high school like some of the other honor students present, spoke next. Kay was also an honor student while at Washington. In a brief and interesting way he compared the senior high school with the junior high, and told the students what they can expect when they reach high school.

Miss Gertrude Gillespie, girls' coach, followed Kay. Miss Gillespie said that no one could have asked for a more willing group of girls to work with than the girls who composed this past season's basketball squad. They were all glad to work and cooperated with each other splendidly, she said.
Two vocal solos one entitled "Heavenly" and the other "Smelling" were given at this time by Mary Johns, also of 9B2. Virginia Calahan followed her with a clever reading. Miss Calahan also is a student in 9B2.
Bart Richards Makes Address
Following Miss Calahan's reading.

Toastmaster Copson introduced the speaker of the evening, Barton E.
Richards, New Castle representative in the Pennsylvania State Legislature, and member of the staff of the New Castle News. Copson stated that Richards was unanimously chosen by the committee to make the address.

Mr. Richards stated at the first of his address that it was a pleasure as well as an honor to attend. He said that it was not the first of the kind he had attended, for he has been in attendance at each banquet for the past several years.

In an interesting way he compared the George Washington school to the one which he is a member of at Harrisburg—the legislature. He compared the workings and pointed out that each were similar in many ways although the one is more complicated than the other. Richards told the boys and girls what the cost of education is in the state of Pennsylvania, stating that every day that they are absent means that so much money is wasted.

In closing he expressed his appreciation for the elaborate menu, the fine entertainment. He especially urged the boys and girls to continue their good work, not only at George Washington, but at the high school and whatever college they might attend.

Letters To Be Awarded
Professor B. E. Thacker, principal of George Washington, was to have presented letters to the students at that time. He regretted the fact that they had not been received, but said that a special recognition program will take place in the assembly period next Thursday. The letters will have arrived in the meantime. Honor students now at the senior high school will be present as guests of the school.

Principal Thacker took this opportunity to make known his personal gratitude to all who had planned the banquet, and highly commended the honor students to their work.
Several more pep songs featured the meeting and then the program stood adjourned.

Students in attendance were as follows:

Tom Hawkins, Heber Baldwin, Anna
Roth, Evelyn Swanson, Dorothy Moore, Elizabeth Gower, Ezra Farrow, Harold Workman, Deel Habib, Nick Uram, James Sotus, Joe Buccia, Frederick Wilkes, Charles Char-lebois, William Bumbaugh, Edward

George Ramsey, George Winter,
Frank Baldwin, Mike Melder, George
Rogers, Jack Ward, Helen Corton, Jane Meyer, Nettie Mann, Ethel Fye, Jean Follen, Agnes Schweikert.

Guests of the evening were Mrs. C.
H. Young, Hon. Bart Richards, Johnathan Brown, David Long, Pauline Manos, Helen Miller, Mrs. B. K.
Thacker, Miss Elizabeth Williams,
Herman Green, Margaret Keely, Beryl Nunn and Mary Johns. It was impossible for Dr. and Mrs. C. O.
Green and Attorney C. H. Young to attend.

Waitresses who served under the direction of Miss Mary E. Shaffer, chief dietician of the school, were as follows: Suzanne Powell, Pauline Nelson, Mary Lou Burkhardt, Mary Moore, Gertrude Graham, Betty
Crane, Eleanor Gibson, Mary Lou McCamie, Lois Mae Curry and Lois Marion Smith.

brutal search. Investigation has shown that the warrant on which the search was made was sworn out on a fabric of lies.

"Where a Child Can Buy as Safely as a Grown-Up"

The actor who couldn't remember his lines

"My profession, that of acting, is a calling that quite readily tends to make one extremely nervous. Caffein for years had been my 'consolation'. I paid dearly for this consolation, with sleepless nights, indigestion and jumpy nerves. Constant worry, ill temper, lack of power to concentrate and a failing memory were part of the penalty. This failing memory was a very serious matter, since my work absolutely depends upon my memorizing the various roles I play.

"A friend suggested Postum for a month. I tried it. Soon something happened... I slept all night! My nerves became more quiet, the cobwebs in my memory began to clear away, my grouch vanished. Today I am absolutely free from all my nervous troubles. Postum has changed me physically, mentally and I also might say, spiritually."

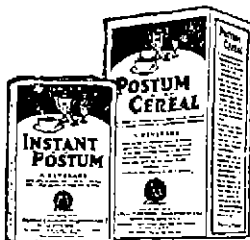

ROBERT WARREN STRAUSS,
629 Boynton Terrace, Chattanooga, Tenn.

POSTUM'S wonderful flavor and wholesome after-effects have made it the favorite mealtime drink in more than 2,000,000 American homes. It is made of roasted whole wheat and bran—no trace of any artificial stimulant in it. Nothing to irritate the nerves, to disturb sleep, or affect digestion. And Postum is so good!

Postum costs much less than other mealtime drinks—only one-half cent a cup. Order from your grocer today—try it for thirty days, in place of caffein beverages! Then, on the basis of results, decide if you will ever go back to caffein!

Congressmen Facing Serious Dual Problem In Revision Of Tariff

By ARTHUR C. WIMER

Special Washington News Correspondent
WASHINGTON, D. C., April 5.—An obliging Congress will gather around the campfire in extraordinary session on Capitol Hill on the fifteenth to pow-wow over the tariff question, and much big talk will result—a party which will probably draw together shoulder to shoulder in amicable union the big chiefs of the North and South and the East and West, but which in the eyes of many veterans of the political arena, may build high barricades between our neighbors on the north and south.

"Good will tours are fine, but if Congress raises the tariff on linseed oil a few pennies, Mr. Hoover's visit to Buenos Aires had better be avoided," one American declares who is familiar with conditions in Argentina. And such is the attitude of a great many persons familiar with foreign affairs who see in a tariff revision, upward a possible strain of our relations with Canada and South America.

Political leaders the country over, no matter how reluctant, are about ready to admit that the coming tariff discussion in Congress may see the breaking down of inter-community and inter-political divisions. The tariff question for many years has been gradually stealing away from party politics and has been materializing into a local issue, and with the coming special session it promises to bridge over the gap between Republicans and Democrats.

Of course, in this extraordinary session there will be in evidence countless disputes between the farmer and the manufacturer, between the manufacturer of the North and South, between the producer and the consumer.

It will be a session in which congressmen will look to the future and work for votes. The Democrat will favor tariff increased because his constituents back home are crying for increased protection, and in the heart of the fray he will lose sight, more or less, of the time-honored Democratic opposition for protective duties. The Republican, in turn, will fight for tariff increases because his people want increases and he wants votes.

And in the end, a tariff bill will be passed. Duties will be increased and Congress, as a whole, will be happy. Of course, there will remain some few disgruntled legislators who didn't get what they wanted.

But the magic wand of increased protection will touch the country here, and there—a manufacturer here, a farmer there—drawing all across a common threshold into a contented circle about a hearthstone warmed by the flames of anticipated domestic prosperity.

But turn away from this cozy domestic group, glance out a window and perhaps we may see scowling neighbors and sullen former-friends, a school of thought, not without many followers in Washington suggests.

The pending tariff discussion marks a clear stage in the development of the United States. It forecasts a test between those who would have this country sponsor friendly and extensive foreign trade relations and those who would have us revert to a narrow policy of domestic concentration, the converts of this school contend.

Today, the United States has, practically speaking, replaced Great Britain as the first nation of commerce and finance in Canada markets. Annually Canada buys nearly a billion dollars of goods from this country and sells us about half as much. We have outdistanced England in the contest for Canadian markets.

But the value of the Canadian market for our goods is dependent to a considerable degree upon the opportunities Canadians possess for selling in America. And there are those who believe that if the coming congress declares a tariff war on Canadian products, Canada will react by displaying a cooling friendship.

And just as certain as Canada will react against any violent tariff attack on her products is the fact that the United States will be made an easy mark for our economic rivals in South America. If congress passes legislation aimed at protecting domestic manufacturers and farmers from commodities brought in from the South, it is argued, whatever Mr. Hoover won for us in South America he is almost certain to see lost in congress through tariff legislation, is the argument advanced by these anti-high tariff crusaders.

If a congress still dominated by the McKinley administration and limited by the outlook of the United States of 1899 passes tariff relief best calculated to win votes at home, our foreign trade friends are going to be offended.

On the other hand, if congress is dominated by the instinct to continue to play big brother to our neighbor nations and disregards home votes to pass legislation calculated to perpetuate political and trade friendships abroad, many new faces will appear in the personnel of the 72nd Congress.

Something is to be done—it appears to be up to the legislators in special session to determine how best to do it.

Legion Post To Meet Tonight

New Members Taken In During Recent Membership Drive To Be Received

One of the biggest meetings of Perry S. Gaston post, American Legion, held in some time will take place this evening when a fine program of entertainment will be rendered in honor of the new members recently taken in during the big membership campaign.

A visit will be paid to the post during the evening by the members of the Rochester post, who will bring several films of actual war scenes with them. These will be shown on Dr. H. H. Rosenthal's machine.

A program of entertainment will be furnished under the chairmanship of Phil Greer, and in conclusion, lunch will be served by John Wilson and Nick Sped.

All new members are urged to be present, a most cordial reception having been arranged for them.

Young People To Have Rally

Young People From The District To Meet In Pearson Street Tabernacle April 12

A local Young People's Rally will be held in the Gospel Tabernacle, Pearson street on Friday evening, April 12 at 7:30. The Rally will include the young people's organizations of Hoover Heights, People's Mission, Moravia Stop and the Gospel Tabernacle.

Young people from the Sharon and Ellwood City churches will be present and take part in the program. Mrs. J. L. Milburn of Pittsburgh, president of the Pittsburgh district young people's work will be present and give the principal address of the evening. Mr. Milburn has been associated with young people's work for a number of years and is keenly interested in young people. He will have a message especially of interest to them.

A program has been arranged consisting of a song and praise service, five minute talks by representatives of the different societies and special vocal numbers. It is planned to hold these local rallies at the different Alliance churches in their vicinity between the time of the district rallies which are held quarterly in the Pittsburgh district.

Salvador de Madariaga, the Spanish writer, says the trouble with foreign affairs is that they have to be adjusted with foreigners, which we should say is a rather palpable bit.—The St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Repeal Of Law To Save $10,000

New Locality Index At Prothonotary's Office May Not Be Required

If the governor signs House Bill 1441 which has been sent to his desk for signature, the commissioners of Lawrence county will be saved an expenditure of something between $8,000.00 and $10,000.00 for a new Locality Index in the Prothonotary's office in the court house.

The bill repeals the act of 1901 calling for the keeping of such an index. The index is for the purpose of filing municipal liens according to the locality of the property, and in many years has been used but little by lawyers. However, the law specified that it should be kept up and about the time the present session of the Legislature convened, it became apparent that a new index was necessary.

Representative Bart Richards was asked to present a bill calling for the repeal of the act, and thus saving the county the useless expense and this bill has passed both the House and the Senate. It is now for the governor to say whether or not this county will save the $10,000.00.

Even if Mr. Hoover succeeds in thinking up a few further economies, here and there, we do not believe Mr. Coolidge will actually go down to posterity as a wastrel.—The Detroit News.

Asking Bids For P. O. Remodeling At Sharon Office

(Special To The News)
WASHINGTON, D. C., April 5.—The United States treasury department today advertised for bids for the enlarging and remodeling of the Sharon postoffice.

Bids will be opened here on May 2, and the contract for the work will be awarded to the lowest bidder.

At the treasury department it is explained that the work at the Sharon office will consist of remodeling the interior of the building and of adding an addition to the structure in order to permit the more efficient handling of mail.

The work will be done under a special expenditure authorized by congress last session, and no more than $25,000 will be expended on the project. It is stated by the treasury department officials.

Electric Rates For Big Power Users Decreased

Saving in electric current bill by big power users of New Castle and surrounding territory served by the Pennsylvania Power Co. and the Ellwood City Hydro-Electric company will result from the decreased rate and changes effective April 1, it was stated today at the local Pennsylvania Power company offices.

The decreases and changes affect only factories and plants using the Pennsylvania Power current, it was explained, and does not apply to domestic users.

The new tariff filed effective April 1 with the Public Service commission and the schedule being in effect the customers are being billed under the new tariff.

Cars Get Through From Youngstown Just Before Noon

Interurban operation of street cars on the New Castle-Youngstown P. O. line were resumed at 11:15 a. m. today after operations had been forced to a suspension by the rain of this morning. The line was closed at points between New Castle and Edinburg and Edinburg and Youngstown.

Operations on the Youngstown-Sharon line are at a standstill as the track is blocked at Masury.

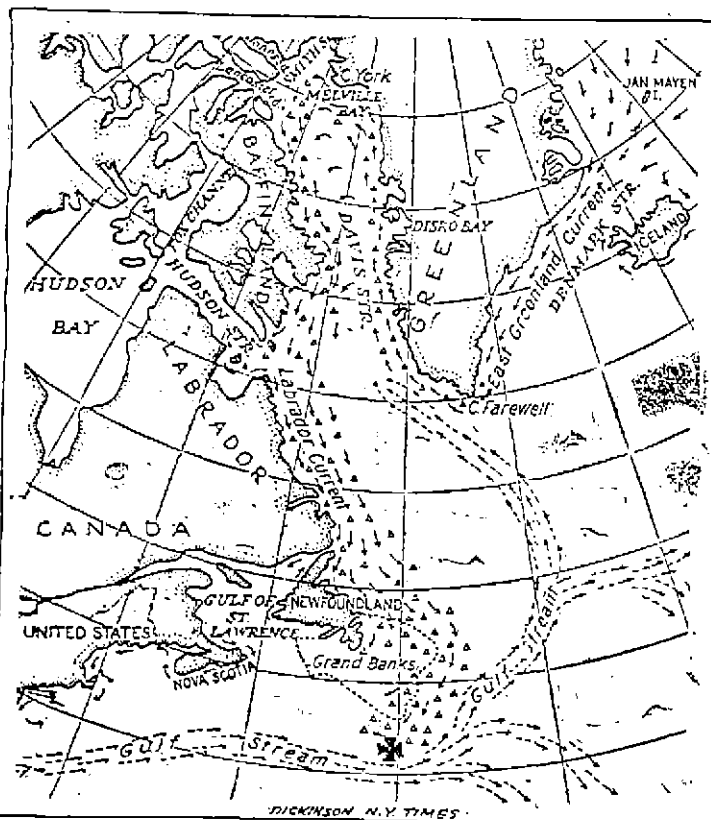

ORDINANCE RAPS AT GARAGE MEN

Will Be Fined For Putting Grease
And Oils In Sanitary

ICEBERGS IN SHIP LANES AGAIN

This is the iceberg season and Uncle Sam has sent cutters to patrol steamship lanes. The icebergs are breaking from the glacier along the west coast of Greenland and are following the course of the arrows to the steamship lanes. The cross near the lower point of the Grand Banks marks the spot where the Titanic struck an iceberg and sank on its maiden voyage from England.

Would Close Part Of Alley At Creek

Attorney Roy Jameson today appeared before city council and asked councilmen if it would be deemed advisable following an investigation, for the city to close Apple Alley where it dead-ends at Nesannock creek.

He said he represented the Lawrence Auto Company which intends to build on the spot where the lumber yard formerly set.

The property owners aligning that portion of the alley are in agreement if the city will close the alley, he stated.

He was asked to submit a proposal in writing which will be presented to council soon.

Lengthy Pension Opinion Submitted

Solicitor Robert White today presented a lengthy opinion to council relative to the constitutionality of the state pension act and city ordinance dealing with pensions for police, firemen and other city employees. The opinion was not read. One of the points, however, brought up by Councilman Tyler resulted in White stating the city ordinance providing for pensions is valid.

PREPARE PLANS TO
Councilman Burns today presented a motion which passed council by which the city engineer will prepare plans and specifications for the repairing and painting of Gardner avenue viaduct.

TO CHANGE ASSESSMENT
Paul Jarvis, student, assessed at $500 appeared before council today, explaining the error and the city assessor was notified to report on the complaint.

There are almost 200,000,000 acres of vacant public land in the United States.

Punxsutawney Woman Is Seriously Burned

Body Of Woman Found In Hay-mow Terribly Burned; Suffered Sinking Spell

(International News Service)

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., April 5.—Ruth Sprankle, 38, one of the featured witnesses in the recent murder trial of Mrs. Bertha McCauley Halpin at Brookville, was probably fatally burned in a fire in the haymow of a barn here today.

Miss Sprankle was found, her clothing buried from her body, in the haymow of the barn when Eugene Geist, 20, saw smoke shooting from the structure.

Rushed to the Punxsutawney hospital, it was discovered Miss Sprankle had suffered second degree burns and it was thought her death is only a matter of hours.

The woman had gone to the haymow in search of a bedspring, and it was thought that shortly after she lighted a match to aid in her search, she was suddenly seized with a sinking spell to which she was subject, and that the match ignited straw in the haymow.

Refer Proposition To City Engineer

H. S. Erhwil today told council he would like to borrow a cut of the city map, he said, for the use of the city, by advertising would be sold. He would pay the city five cents on each map, he said, for the use of the city. Councilman Burns recalled that Metzler Company is one of the firms which bought maps from the city for sale. He said the city also sells maps. He advised colleagues not to act until it was ascertained if the local merchants would be hurt financially.

Photo shows (1) Hugh Gibson, ambassador to Belgium, mentioned as Herrick's successor; (2) Alvan Fuller, former governor of Massachusetts, another candidate for the French post; (3) Dr. Jacob Gould Schurman will probably be retained as ambassador to Germany; (4) Dwight Davis, former secretary of war, who may be the next ambassador to France; (5) John Garrett, former minister to Holland and Argentina, and (6) William J. Donovan, former assistant attorney general, are other possible successors to Herrick; (7) John MacMurray, minister to China, may be named ambassador to Japan; (8) Henry P. Fletcher, ambassador to Italy, and (9) Charles Dawes, former vice president, likely candidates for ambassador to Great Britain; (10) Eugene Gilmore, vice governor of the Philippines, who is expected to be made governor general.

USE DYNAMITE TO BLAST ICE GORGE FROM MISSOURI

The Missouri river, near Bismarck, N. D., snapped at flood stage and showing, in the bend of the dam, the top of a 25-mile ice gorge that formed below the state's capital city. The jam of ice caused an overflow that inundated millions of acres of cultivated land, making it necessary to resort to heavy dynamite charges to break up the gorge and start it on its way down the river. This photo was taken from the site of old Fort McKean.

Forty million marks sounds like a lot of jack to lose. As a matter of fact, it is because, which ever way you figure it, it's still about 10,000,000 berries in U. S. money. Big Telescope Now May Prove Mars Inhabited

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, April 5.—The long-standing question of the habitation of Mars may be definitely settled with the erection in California or northern Arizona of a telescope so powerful that it could bring to view a candle 41,000 miles away, and so large it will dwarf the great 100-inch Mt. Wilson telescope.

The funds for this remarkable instrument have been provided by the International Education Board as a gift to the California Institute of Technology. A suitable site is now being sought.

The telescope, a reflector type, will be 17 feet in diameter and will take several years to construct. The mirror will be a great disk of fused quartz, a material new to such use. It was chosen because of its indifference to changing temperatures, to which the Mt. Wilson telescope is highly sensitive.

Built On Site
Because of the great difficulties incident to getting the completed disk to the top of a mountain and the laboratories will be built on the site chosen and the disk cast there. Prominent physicists, chemists, engineers and meteorologists will be called in to help in the manufacture.

Completed and set up, it will bring into range of the human eye stars of the twenty-fifth magnitude, three magnitudes beyond the greatest magnitude of even the Mt. Wilson instrument, according to Dr. W. S. Adams, director of the Mt. Wilson Observatory.

It will quadruple the visible limits of the universe, extending them to the range of 400,000,000 light years, and will have 1,000,000 times the light-gathering power of the human eye.

May Discover Stars
Through it meteorologists will be able to see countless stars and constellations as yet undiscovered, and to add inestimably to their store of knowledge about the design of the universe. Entirely new fields of astronomy may be revealed and new astronomical theories evolved.

The great glass will bring the surface of Mars much closer and perhaps will be the means of penetrating the mystery which surrounds the "canals" which are visible on that planet through lesser telescopes. It is also expected to add to the knowledge of weather conditions there. The secrets of other worlds, including Jupiter and the moon, also will be wrested from them.

Study Of Twins Raised Apart Show Marked Differences

CHICAGO, April 5.—Twins may look alike and dress alike but unless they are brought up in the same environment they do not think alike.

Dr. H. H. Newman of the University of Chicago has been making an extensive study of twins, devoting his attention especially to twins who were separated at birth and lived in different environments. He is studying five pairs that were separated at birth and have been living under different conditions for 17 years.

His case study which will be the subject of a brochure concerns twin girls born 20 years ago in London. When they were 13 months old their mother died.

One was adopted by relatives who moved to Canada. The other was reared in London. Seventeen years later her foster parents died and she rejoined her sister in Canada. The contrast shows sharply the difference between the wide spaces of Canada and the congested district of London.

The Canadian twin is nine pounds heavier, of superior color and health and in several points ahead of the London twin in intellect.

New Helium Gas Found In Kansas

(International News Service)
WICHITA, Kan., April 5.—It is believed a new helium gas field has been discovered in Kansas.

Two Wichita men, C. M. Coleman and Dr. Sol Edgerton, have drilled in a test near Alma, in Wabaunsee County, which is making one half million cubic feet of gas daily for a depth of 276 feet. The gas is said to carry a rich helium content.

Chemists from the Kansas State Agricultural College at Manhattan, Kan., are preparing to analyze samples of the gas.

Helium is non-flammable and is used in balloons and airships. It is found only in three or four places in the world.

Your Broadway AND Mine

WALTER WINCHELL

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News

NEW YORK, April 5.—He is one of New York's better detectives. The other week-end he was given a description of a wanted man, and he set out to get him. He searched for his prey along the waterfront all day, and had to imbibe freely with the longshoremen he queried. At sundown he was pretty tight, but he staggered to the station house ready to admit he had failed.

But the fear of being prodded by his comrades kept him from entering the place. Instead he proceeded across the street to a speakeasy, where, while waiting for a drink, he looked in the bar mirror and saw the man he had been looking for! It was himself! The boys had given him his own description!

PEOPLE I COULD CHOKE

Those salted almond peddlers in the night clubs, who, no matter how you snub them, keep hovering over your table, and chirp: "Salted almonds?" Persons who say "I bet you don't remember me," when it would be less embarrassing for both if they said "We met at Soandso's you know." Strollers who select crowded thoroughfares like Broadway at the rush hour to walk three or four abreast. And vaudeville actors who force the second bow and then tell the audience: "Thanks. You have made me so happy."

OBSERVATION

A show christened "Young Alexander" was re-written 17 times in the last four years the author waited for its production. It recently opened and contained this line: "Ridiculous! The gasp of a dying critic!" But the local reviewers heckled it and its last gasp came after five performances.

To Introduce Pillsbury's Cake Flour

—a large 9-inch colored glass mixing bowl free with the purchase of two packages! You can have the bowl in either rose, green or crystal—you'll find it most attractive, and handy in a thousand ways around the kitchen. And we believe you'll like Pillsbury's more than any cake flour you have ever used!

Here is a new product with an old and famous name—a new Cake Flour, made by Pillsbury. Try it with your favorite recipes—we believe you will notice a distinct improvement, especially in your angel food and other delicate cakes.

The Pillsbury laboratories have been at work on this new flour for a long time. They believed that if they could properly combine certain grades of wheat they could produce a real improvement in cake flour. Finally they discovered the secret—the correct blend of special types of wheat, unusually soft, milled to a silky fineness. You will like Pillsbury's Cake Flour. You will find that it is easier to handle—that it has taken the last bit of uncertainty out of your flour ingredient. Try it—your cakes will have an unusually smooth, even texture, a delicate tenderness, a richness of flavor that will surprise the most expert, practiced cake-maker.

Make a note now on your shopping list—get your colored glass mixing bowl immediately—they won't last long!

Hungarian Forger Pleads Patriotism

BERLIN, April 5.—Prince Ludwig Windischgratz, of Budapest, who was sentenced to jail for his connection with the forgery of French 1000-franc notes in 1926, is seeking social and political rehabilitation.

He has started an action in the Hungarian parliament for the appointment of a jury of persons prominent in public life to pass on his personal role in the forgery affair. Prince Windischgratz and his fellow-conspirators had always maintained that they had committed the forgeries from political and patriotic motives—only to revenge Hungary on France for the mutilation of the peace treaties.

Oil Flurry At Kansas City Is Big Attraction

(International News Service)
KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 5.—Oil scouts from Oklahoma, Colorado, Montana and Wyoming have been attracted by the newest discoveries in the Lees Summit gas field, near here, and lease prices, in some instances, have more than doubled over night.

The oil flurry began with the announcement of the discovery by Nathan Corder, who owns a five-acre tract within the city limits of Lees Summit. He was drilling for gas to supply his home, when at 319 feet his drill bit into two feet of oil sand.

Before the unexcavated hole caved in, he had penetrated 25 feet of oil sand. A test revealed the oil from this well to be of 26 gravity, but experienced drillers asserted the gravity undoubtedly will be much higher when tests are conducted under better conditions.

A lease of 400 acres was obtained in the vicinity of South Lee by H. B. Dougherty of Denver, representing Colorado interests.

Other acreages a mile or more from Lees Summit have been leased for a Casper, Wyo., oil syndicate by a scout giving his name as Seidler.

Like Ardmore Pool
According to Milton Thompson, who owns 11,000 acres in southeastern Jackson county, part of which is in the Lees Summit gas field, there has been no way to determine just what field this district is a continuation of. The information they have obtained by the tests indicate the formations correspond to the Ardmore, Okla., pool, he said.

Lees Summit, Lone Jack and vicinity experienced a mild boom two years ago when shale gas wells were brought in by representatives of the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line company.

P. H. C. Members Meet In New Hall

First Session Is Held In Malta
Hall By Circle
No. 5

Nicely located in their new circle chamber, New Castle Circle No. 5 Protected Home Circle held their first session in Malta Hall, East Washington Street, on Wednesday night.

A meeting both interesting and instructive throughout was followed with a splendid program and later lunch was served in the dining room of the new home.

The class initiation was most impressive, with the degree staff of the circle in charge and the famous prize drill of the team was rewarded with hearty applause.

Special guests of the circle were Supreme Auditor Dr. R. C. Baird, Captain Sam Haywood of Sharon degree staff, Miss Becky Haywood and Edna Thompson. Let it be recorded that Dr. Baird was never in a more humorous frame of mind than at this time and his contribution to the program kept everyone in a merry mood.

The vocal numbers of Captain Haywood and his accomplished daughter, Miss Becky, were delightful to the ear made more so by their splendid accompaniment. Past President Leota Langsdale of No. 5 Edna Thompson's remarks though brief were to the point and the humorous readings of James Smith and David Tucker scored a big hit. The session closed with a sort of house warming in the new home of the circle and on Wednesday evening, April 10th the degree staff will hold one of their popular card parties in the circle chamber. Friends who have enjoyed the efforts of the team to entertain will undoubtedly be out in large numbers at this time.

A brief business session has been called for the ballot at 7:30 but no other business will be transacted at this time.

On Monday, April 15th, the circle will be the guests of the parent circle No. 1 at Sharon to witness one of the finest ceremonies of the organization in the full degree of protection conferred by the famous degree staff of No. 1. Sharon Circle is noted for its hospitality and no doubt this district gathering will meet with a record breaking attendance.

It is important that all members of No. 5 who intend going notify past president A. L. Conn at his office no later than April 12th so that their transportation may be properly cared for.

Berlin's Auto Pilots Are In Great Demand

(International News Service)
BERLIN, April 5.—The "auto pilots" system inaugurated for Berlin last summer by the General Automobile Club proved so successful that it is to be greatly improved for the coming season. In the seven months in which the system was in operation, the pilots were called on some 1,200 times.

One South American, on his way from Berlin to Paris, took one with him as far as Aachen, and other motorists wanted pilots for trips of several weeks in Germany.

How John Met Florence Being Told In Capital

(Special To The News)
WASHINGTON, D. C., April 5.—A story is being told in Washington these days about how Major John Coolidge met his fiancée—in fact the Washington Star has accepted the narrative to the extent that the paper has printed it as a feature on its editorial page.

From somebody who knows there comes a diverting yarn about how John Coolidge met his fiancée, Florence Trumbull, daughter of the governor of Connecticut, the Star asserts.

"John was coming back from Amherst on a certain occasion and every once in a while made his way to the rear platform of the train to smoke a cigarette. The second or third time he started off, he found that somebody's private car had been hitched on, and when young Coolidge tried the door, a husky who turned out to be a member of the Connecticut state constabulary not only blocked the way but became tolerably rough.

"John related his experience good-naturedly to the secret-service man who then looked after him. Thereupon the operative made his way to the private car and explained to the flabbergasted state policeman that he'd jostled the son of the president of the United States.

"The dutiful bluecoat reported the incident in more or less terror to Governor Trumbull—whose car it was John Coolidge was sent for asked to make the rest of the journey with the gubernatorial family, and met the daughter of the household."

Cooks Go On Diet To Do Their Work Better

(International News Service)
LONDON, April 5.—In the belief that the only successful chefs are slim ones the management of one of the largest hotels in London has put all its cooks on a rigid diet. Economy in the kitchen they say has nothing to do with the edict.

M. Latty the famous French chef who is now Maître de Cuisine at the Savoy hotel is responsible for the order which has caused little short of a sensation around the kitchen stoves of London's hoteliers.

The bill presented to the legislature provides that parents of fraternity members must be notified within 60 days to order their children to quit or be punished, probably by expulsion.

Cooks Go On Diet To Do Their Work Better

(International News Service)
LONDON, April 5.—In the belief that the only successful chefs are slim ones the management of one of the largest hotels in London has put all its cooks on a rigid diet. Economy in the kitchen they say has nothing to do with the edict.

M. Latty the famous French chef who is now Maître de Cuisine at the Savoy hotel is responsible for the order which has caused little short of a sensation around the kitchen stoves of London's hoteliers.

The bill presented to the legislature provides that parents of fraternity members must be notified within 60 days to order their children to quit or be punished, probably by expulsion.

Uniontown Youth
Kills His Father

Youth Kills His Father During Argument; Surrenders Self
To Police

(International News Service)
UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 5.—"I just killed my father. I did it," was the startling information imparted to a police sergeant Thursday by Orville Dooms, 23, of Uniontown.

The police rushed to Dooms' home and on the floor of the parlor found Joseph H. Dooms, 48, a chauffeur, who had been shot six times.

The son said that he and his father had quarreled over the failure of the youth to secure employment and over the chastisement last night of a younger son.

When the father came home for lunch the quarrel was renewed and it was then that Orville said he went up stairs, secured a revolver and at a close range sent six shots into the body of his parent. Then he walked to the police station and surrendered.

Two Escape Booze Charges When The Evidence Blows Up

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 5.—John Kowalsky and George Martins will not face court here on charges of Volstead law violation.

Lack of evidence is the reason. Botched liquid purporting to be gin and whisky, seized in a raid in which the two men were implicated, was held as material evidence in the vaults at police headquarters.

One morning there was a dull boom. Shivers of glass, a penetrating odor and stains of liquid over floor and walls, were all officers found when they entered the storage room.

The evidence had exploded.

Iowa Calls Experts
To Make Coke Of Coal

(International News Service)
DES MOINES, April 5.—Experiments to determine whether Iowa coal can be coked have been started by the state geology department in cooperation with state chemists at Iowa City, in an effort to increase the production of the state's mines.

If the experiments prove successful a market can be found for three times the amount of Iowa coal now sold, James H. Lees, assistant state geologist, said.

Office Force Has Celebration

Johnson Bronze Company Officials Celebrate Plant Expansion

HUNDRED FIFTY
GUESTS AT EVENT

Members of the office force of the Johnson Bronze company, their families and special guests, gathered for the number of 150 celebrated the completion of a large addition to the main office of the plant, by holding a get-together social affair, which proved most enjoyable to all.

The affair was held in the new addition, on the second floor at the rear of the former office building at the north end of the company property, which is finished with a hardwood floor, making it ideal for dancing. The place, forty by one hundred and ten feet in size, was decorated for the occasion in orange and black, the colors used by the company on its catalogue and literature for its customers.

Divisions of the occasion were dancing, bridge and five hundred, which were enjoyed to the utmost by those in attendance, music being furnished by a victrola donated by the Maier company. There were flowers in profusion for the ladies as the result of the courtesy of Burt Brothers.

Handsome prizes were awarded the winners at bridge and five hundred consisting of fine hand turned electric candle lamps made in the plant. Honor guests of the occasion were Mrs. P. J. L. Terry and family, Mr. Fishery, bring out of town on business at Flint, Michigan, and their house guests, Mrs. George Kirby and daughter Mary Jane of Cleveland, O., whose husband and father are associated with the White Motor company.

Prize winners at bridge were: Ladies—Mrs. J. A. Ross, for high and Mrs. D. Leonardson, for low; Gentlemen—James Stone, for high, and Walter O. Everling, for low.

The prize winners for five hundred were: Ladies—Mrs. Fred Brandert for high, and Mrs. Ed Lynch for low; Gentlemen—A. H. Casey for high, and John Bergman for low.

At the close of the evening's festivities, daily refreshments were served by the refreshment committee consisting of Sue Horvath, chairlady; Elizabeth Robinson, Edward Davenport, Donzella Herman, John A. McGrath, Mary McMullen, Rose Fedorsak and James Barrett.

Other committees responsible for the success of the occasion were as follows: General chairlady, Edna Teuberger; reception committee, Gail Thomas, chairman, Madeline Stanton, James Ross, Paul Marceau, Isabelle Thomas, Florence Shaffer, Louis Sandler.

Dance committee: Preston Fishery, chairman, Gayle Egan, Margaret McGowan, May Williams, Martha Bell and Harry Clearfield.

Card committee: Genevieve Stirling, chairlady, Carl Leis, Phil Essinger, Florence Williams and Ethel Pollard.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

By J. Carroll Mansfield

America In The 20th Century
The Great Coal Strike Of 1902

IN 1902 CAME THE GREAT COAL STRIKE IN THE ANTHRACITE FIELDS OF PENNSYLVANIA. THE MINERS STRUCK WHEN THE MINE OWNERS REFUSED THEIR DEMAND FOR HIGHER WAGES. NEITHER SIDE WOULD GIVE IN. AN APPARENTLY HOPELESS DEADLOCK ENSUED AND THE STRIKE DRAGGED ON FROM MAY UNTIL OCTOBER.

THE PRICE OF HARD COAL SOARED HIGHER AND HIGHER, AND THE PEOPLE WERE TERRIFIED AT THE PROSPECT OF A COAL FAMINE DURING THE WINTER. PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT FELT OBLIGED TO INTERVENE ON BEHALF OF THE PUBLIC, AND CALLED UPON THE MINERS AND OWNERS TO SUBMIT THEIR DISPUTE TO ARBITRATION.

THE MINE OWNERS OBJECTED TO PRESIDENTIAL INTERFERENCE AND HELD OUT. THE MINERS WERE DESPERATE, AND VIOLENCE WAS FEARED. PENNSYLVANIA TROOPS WERE CALLED OUT TO GUARD THE MINES. THEN PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT APPEALED TO THE BANKS FINANCING THE MINES TO USE THEIR INFLUENCE TO COMPEL THE MINE OWNERS TO CONSENT TO ARBITRATION.

FINALLY, THE MINE OWNERS YIELDED, AND A COMMITTEE OF ARBITRATION CHOSEN BY THE PRESIDENT EFFECTED A COMPROMISE. THE MINERS WENT BACK TO WORK, AND THE DANGER OF A COAL FAMINE PASSED. ROOSEVELT'S HANDLING OF THIS GRAVE SITUATION ADDED GREATLY TO HIS POPULARITY.

PAUL WANER SIGNS PIRATE CONTRACT

Famous Slugger Accepts Offer From Dreyfuss

Paul Waner "Big Poison" Capitulates And Signs Contract For One Year

WILL JOIN CLUB SATURDAY MORNING

(International News Service) PT. WORTH, Tex., April 5.—Paul Waner, erstwhile holdout Pirate star outfielder and batsman, will report to Manager Donie Bush tomorrow at Dallas it was learned here today following the announcement yesterday of his signing a Pirate contract for one year. The salary was not disclosed, but both Paul and Barney Dreyfuss, club president, made it plain both were satisfied.

Paul was here when the team arrived from Houston yesterday and following a two hour conference with Dreyfuss, shortly after noon, the announcement was made of the agreement just before game time.

The big member of the Pirates' famous "Poison Act" spent the greater part of the day greeting teammates and friends. He came here from his home in Oklahoma City by motor with a party of friends. Immediately after the conference, he left for home again, planning to return to Dallas Saturday to join the team. Paul declared he was ready to start playing "immediately." He is only five pounds over weight and in fine physical shape.

Paul and Lloyd held out for a combined salary of $30,000 it was reported. Lloyd signed up several weeks ago for a season with a $10,000 contract. The amount of Paul's salary check is not known, although he was known to have been holding out for $18,000.

Upsets Feature Floor Tourney

(International News Service) CHICAGO, April 5.—Quarter in the University of Chicago National Prep Basketball tournament were to be staged today, following a session of upsets in which the defending champions, together with several highly rated contenders were swept from the competition.

The biggest upset of the tourney came last night when Classen High of Oklahoma City defeated the rugged youngsters from Ashville, Ky. 1928 title holders. The score was 10 to 14.

Athens, Tex., Warren, Ark., Jena, La., College Grove, Tennessee, who defeated the highly touted Wheeling, W. Va., team, 34 to 20. Wheeler, Miss., Jackson, Mich., and Joes, Colo., were yesterday winners.

Baseball Puzzlers

By CHARLEY BARRETT, Big League Scout Writing for Central Press and New Castle News.

One of the prettiest diving catches I ever saw led to an interesting discussion and brought about a freak situation.

I was watching a game in the Three-I circuit. The score was not close so the play in question made no difference one way or the other. It merely brought out an unusual possibility in baseball.

The batter lifted a short Texas leaguer in back of second base. It was one of those short hits that had the second baseman, the first baseman and the right fielder in full chase.

The outfielder yelled to make way—that he had the ball. He misjudged the distance however and had to take a flying dive. Leaping through the air his glove slid under the ball just as he lost his balance.

Curiously enough his hand came out of the glove but the ball nestled there as pretty as a picture. There was the ball resting in the glove and there was the outfielder sprawled on his knees a dozen feet away.

The defensive team claimed the ball had been momentarily held while of course the other fellows pointed out that it had been fumbled. Perhaps they should have claimed that the glove had been fumbled.

That is the only time I remember ever seeing a ball caught in a glove and then the glove dropped without losing the ball.

TRAINING CAMP 'BUNTS'

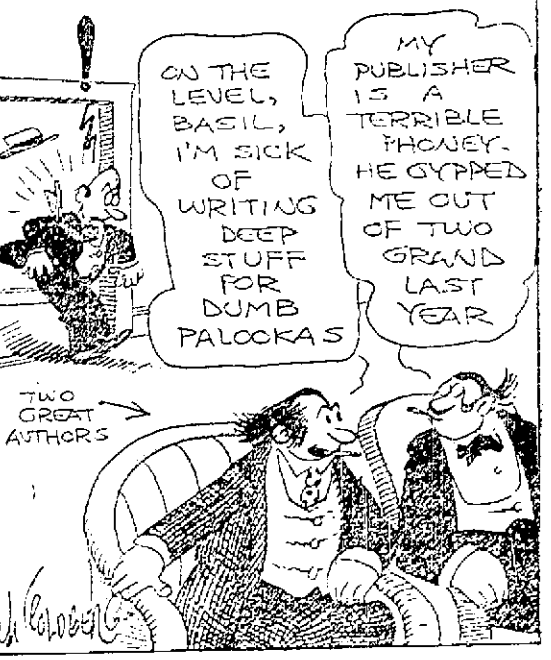

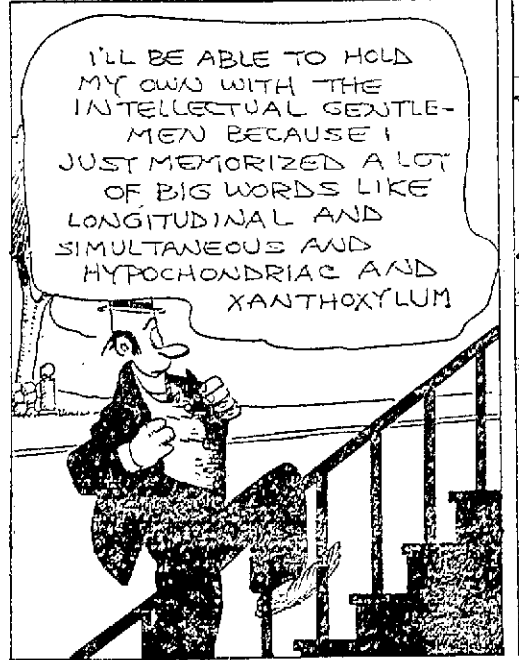

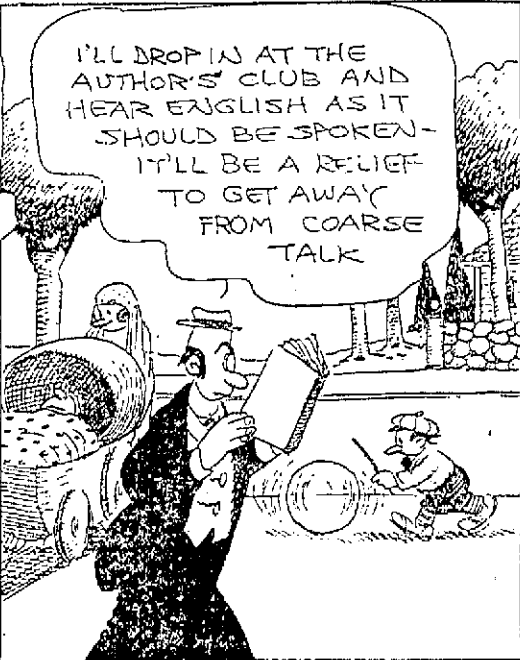

Baseball Teams In 'Big Show' Prepare For Season

LAKELAND, Fla., April 5.—It was still problematical today whether Tommy Threanow, Philadelphia National's shortstop, will be back in the game this year. Tommy was seriously injured in an automobile accident Tuesday. Dr. H. M. Richards, who attended the player, declared it would be six weeks after his broken jaw knitted before he could eat solid food. The Phillies, enroute north, did not play Wednesday.

GREENSBORO, N. C., April 5.—The Athletics continued to pound the ball hard in their game yesterday with the Greensboro team of the Piedmont league, here and won 10 to 3. Cochran, Fox, Haas, Hasser and Simmons of the A's and Cox of the home team clouted home runs.

PT. WORTH, Tex., April 5.—The Pirates and Tigers were to conclude their series here today, with the Pirates striving to make it two straight, having downed the American leaguers yesterday 3 to 1. Airright pitching by Kreiner and Dawson caused the Tigers' famous batsmen to pop out in most cases. The Pirates acquired 9 safeties to five for the Tigers.

Hedeman Leads Derby Runners

Australian Marathon Runner Leads Pyle Derby Runners In Fifth Day

BALTIMORE IS NEXT CONTROL

(International News Service) HAYES DE GRACE, Md., April 5.—Herbert Hedeman, veteran Australian marathoner, was in the lead today as C. C. Pyle's trans-continental foot racers got away at 7 a. m. today on the sixth lap of the jaunt. Baltimore 44 miles distant is the next stop.

Hedeman held the lead by about six minutes in the elapsed time since they left New York last Sunday. He also claims 40 minutes additional for loss of time on the Trenton-Philadelphia leg due to being mis-directed by one of Pyle's route men. To date this claim has not been allowed.

Rain last night curtailed the performances of the Pyle showcase that accompanied the runners. Rainy weather still prevailed today.

Salo, Passaic, N. J., policeman was in second place and Ed Gardner, Seattle negro, in third place with Paul Simpson, the Burlington, N. C., star, who lead the pack for three days, in fourth place.

Fifty Still In Race There were fifty-odd men still in the race today. John Stone, the Marion, Ind., entrant dropped out of the race yesterday due to foot trouble.

Martin Johansen, Rockford, Ill., entrant jumped to 14th place among the early finishers today but is in 19th place in elapsed time with 31 hours, 30 minutes and 55 seconds for the distance from New York to Hayes De Grace.

The first fifteen in elapsed time follows: Herbert Hedeman, New York, 22:49:43; John Salo, Passaic, N. J., 22:55:25; Edward Gardner, Seattle, Wash., 23:09:36; Paul Simpson, Burlington, N. C., 24:06:50; Vol'nt Hougstater, Manatee, Mich., 24:27:15; Arthur Newton, South Africa, 24:41:09; Peter Gavuzzi, England, 25:01:47; Troy Trimble, Bakersfield, Cal., 25:16:42; M. B. McNamara, Australia, 25:22:27; Giusto Umek, Italy, 25:28:14; Sam Richman, New York, 25:49:03; Thomas Ellis, Hamilton, Ont., 26:28:09; Phillip Granville, Hamilton, 26:39:09; Mike Joyce, Cleveland, 26:04:35; Seth Gonzales, Raton, N. M., 29:07:46.

Morgan Defeats Zorilla In Slow Battle On Coast

(International News Service) LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 5.—Tod Morgan today retained the world's junior lightweight championship after winning a decision over Santiago Zorilla in the tame main event of the Olympic card here last night.

Zorilla was accorded at least two rounds, the second and tenth. All the rest went to Morgan without discussion. He boxed continually but didn't have enough wallop to warrant his western title of "Bearcat."

Prepare Annual At High School

The second and final Annual of the year at the senior high school, which is published at the end of every semester is now being made up by the students and several faculty members of the high school.

The Annual which was printed last semester was very successful in every way and according to reports the practice of publishing such a booklet by all graduating classes will be continued.

The following teachers are in charge of the Annual for this semester: Miss Frances McClaren, Miss Pauline Young, Miss Bess Galley, Miss Helen McConaghy and Norman Nelson.

They may talk about putting business principles in agriculture, but the farmer will never be a real business man until he knocks off work at noon and goes out to play golf.

Friedman-Lockley Working Out With Geneva Track Team

Friedman's Arm In Good Shape, Hopes To Set New Record In Javelin Event

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., April 5.—Coach Park has his Geneva College tracksters working daily in order to get ready for the dual meet with West Virginia University at Morgantown on April 20th.

During the past three years the Mountaineers have swamped Geneva in dual engagements so the Covenanters are working hard to give the West Virginians a stiffer run this year. Whether the Gold and White team will be as strong as last season or not is still undetermined, but the Geneva team has added considerable strength in the sprints and middle distance events.

Len Friedman's arm is in good shape, and his chances of winning the javelin event are bright. "Red" Lathum, holder of the district hurdle record in the 220 low hurdles, feels ready to go and he should be able to give the Mountaineers hurdlers a busy afternoon. Thomas, the colored sprinter continues to improve and he should be counted on for some points. Walter Smith, New Castle boy, showed well in the sprints at Morgantown.

On April 27th the Penn Relays will attract the attention of the country, and Geneva is expecting to send a mile relay team to the annual track carnival that will bring home the bacon. Coach Park has a flock of good quarter milers in Capt. Piper, Nave, E. Lockley, Thomas, Wilson, Louthan and Brooks.

Geneva is defending the Conference track crown for the fourth consecutive year and should be successful.

Tightening up enforcement and clearing court dockets at the same time will be a nice feat in engineering, alright.

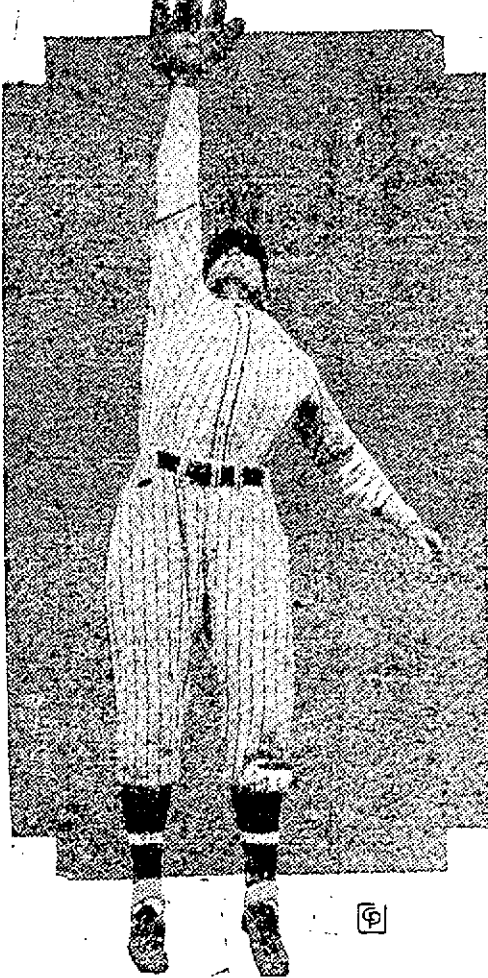

Howling must be a habit. The concerns that howl most about the tax on profits also howl dismally when urged to pay decent wages.

Sets Medley Record

Walter Spence swam the 300-yd. medley just 3 and 2-5 seconds faster than anyone else ever did to win the event in the National championships being held in New York. His time was 3 minutes and 40 seconds flat.

SHINING LIGHT OF DODGER TEAM

Baseball dopsters hold out little hope for the Brooklyn Dodgers this season, even with Dazzy Vance hurling $25,000 worth of baseball. The one cheerful bit for Manager Wilbert Robinson is the showing of Johnny Frederick, rookie outfielder, who is not only playing a brilliant game ahead, but hitting the ball the way it should be plastered.

Golfers Prepare For Journey To Great Britain

British Open Championship Tourney Will Be Held By Muirfield

VERY EXCLUSIVE GOLFING COURSE

By DAVIS J. WALSH, Sports Editor International News Service. NEW YORK, April 5.—With less than a week they will be sending a team of American professional golfers out to the British open championship and because this will be held this year at Muirfield the elevated Federa or high ball will be on for everybody and, if they can have their way, Hagen will be eating with the scullery help. There is no place like Muirfield for giving an American a case of permanent distemper.

It is a place that divides the human race into only two classes. One is a professional and the other a gentleman. And in case you are an American of either classification, all the worse for you.

It was at Muirfield that Eddie Van Vleck of the Park Avenue Van Vlecks was given the back of someone's neck when he attempted to play as an amateur in one of the British championships. Edward didn't bring a letter from his cotillion leader, or something. Anyhow they wouldn't let him in the place in spite of the fact that he was vouched for by a then prominent British amateur. It must have been like the Morris plan and required three endorsements so that when you stole the piano there would be a man at each leg to help you carry it back.

The funny thing about it all is that official American golf admits this typically British attitude most of tensely and even goes so far as to ape it in some respects.

Glenna And Virginia Vie For Title Today

Glenna Collett, national women's champion yesterday at Pinehurst eliminated Marion Turpie one up and today will meet Virginia Van Wie in the finals for the North and South Women's golf championship. Miss Van Wie defeated Edith Quiler five and three.

It is said that within a few years the automobiles will have the front wheel drive, and a lot of henpecked husbands we know hope that the front wheel drive will come in before Midget boxes Willie Davies here one week from Monday.

East Brook High Has Fine Season, Kwiat High Scorer

Kwiat Scores Total Of 212 Points In Successful Basketball Season At East Brook

East Brook high basketball team has ended a most successful season. The East Brook boys won 9 and lost 8. The leading scorer of the team was Mitch Kwiat who had 91 field goals and 30 fouls to give him a grand total of 212 points for the season. Kwiat is believed to be the leading scorer in the class B high schools this year.

Next to Kwiat was John Rung with a total of 102 points via 41 field goals and 20 fouls. Third highest was Edward Bilger with 85 points via 33 field goals and 15 fouls.

East Brook high as a team scored 182 field goals and 76 fouls out of 189 tries for an average of 47 per cent. The opponents scored 175 field goals and 77 fouls out of 183 tries for an average of 42 per cent. Kwiat had the best foul shooting average with 54 per cent. Carnegie Tech Gridders Await Spring Training

Monday April 8, Will See Tech Gridders Working In Spring Practice

OUTLOOK GOOD FOR GREAT 1929 TEAM

PITTSBURGH, Pa. April 5—Spring football practice, of two weeks' duration, is scheduled to begin at Carnegie Institute of Technology next Monday, April 8, when Assistant Coach Bob Waddell assembles about forty candidates for a preliminary "once over."

Waddell faces no small task. His first concern will be to fill the shoes of Howard Harpster, All-American quarterback, who conducted his third year of varsity eligibility last fall. Other worries will be to find candidates to fill the places vacated through graduation, by Cy Letzelter and Glen Moorhead, halfbacks; Saul Mickelizer, center; Don Lovewell, guard; John Marshall, tackle; Tony Sweet and Bill Kousman, ends.

Prospects are that the backfield troubles will give the Carnegie mentors plenty of mental anguish. Of last year's first string ball toters only John Karcis, 225 pound fullback, remains. Thayer Flanagan and Howard Eyth, who gave promise last year of future development, represent the cream of the new crop of candidates to succeed Letzelter and Moorhead. The only candidate who shapes up to step into Harpster's place is Harry McCurdy, quarterback of last season's plebe eleven.

Coaches Pessimistic
While the squad will have several capable backfield candidates in Carlson, Kennedy, Kerr, Morbito and Traa of the varsity hold-overs and Pouncey, Ziegler, and Ewing of the freshmen, the coaches are frankly pessimistic in their attitude toward the backfield situation.

Replacements in the line will be comparatively easy but here, also, the prospects point to a lack of reserve strength. Shaughency, Latham, Flanagan and Ted Rosenzweig, all lettermen, will take care of the terminals; Captain John Dreshear, Leonard J. Schnupp, and Andy Yerina are likely players for the

Big Leagues Want Him

Generally acknowledged as the best shortstop in intercollegiate circles this year, Paul Shenlenberger of Norristown, Pa., is receiving many offers from the big time for his services, but Paul seems to favor a post with the Philadelphia Athletics.

First-string guard borers, Bob Schmidt and John R. Hightberger are almost certain to retain their positions as tackles. The lad who is probably slated to succeed Mickelizer as center is Ducas, a freshman, Armentrout, an end, and Kozicki, Stauffer, and Fletcher, linemen, are promising members of the 1929 plebes who will receive lots of attention from the coaches.

Varsity substitutes for the line from last year's squad who will be available include George Booth, John Helmbold, and Clarence Krack.

Paul Allison and Al Irwin, freshman coaches, will help Waddell in conducting the spring workouts while Advisory Coach Walter P. Steffen will leave his superior court judgeship in Chicago during the second week-end to oversee the final stages of the training period.

Yanks Coming, Of Course

By QUIN HALL

Miller Huggins, mite manager of the New York Yankees, is going to the wars this year just about the same gang that won him the pennant and the world series last year. Like Connie Mack of the A's, Miller is almost standing pat—but not quite.

During the workouts and the exhibition games at St. Petersburg, Lyn Lary, expensive shortstop from the Pacific coast, has shown enough to catch him a place on what has come to be known as "the third league," or the best club in baseball—statistics seem to prove it. And to fill the hole left by the passing of Joe Dugan, Huggins has shoved Mark Koenig over from short to the hot corner.

While Lary's fielding is some of the early exhibition truffles has not been so hot, he is sure to steady up plenty before the season opens. Between two seasoned performers like Tony Lazzeri and Koenig, he's a safe bet to strike his stride once the season gets under way.

Huggins has brought his gang along slowly so far. Instead of circling his performers, which was the rule rather than the exception down in Florida, the vest pocket sized pilot was content to do most of the team's exercising in St. Petersburg. While other clubs were doing much of their spring training in buses which carried them from camp to camp, Huggins let his other fellows bring their coal to New-castle.

The Braves also did their conditioning in the Sunshine (and Windy) city. The two clubs put on quite a series right at home. Most of the other clubs who desired to cross bats with the Yanks came to St. Pete to do their crossing. As a result the world champs should be much fresher when the barrier lifts than some of the other Florida-trained athletes who were worn out even two or three weeks ago with incessant bus travel. There were other reasons why Huggins brought his tribe along slowly. He wasn't sure of some of his stars.

Herb Pennock, his ace southpaw, was out of the clinic of last season with neuritis, but now the fox-raiser looks as good as ever and is sure to be just as efficient on the mound.

Tony Lazzeri was also suffering from the same ailment when the Yanks folded up last fall and it was feared for a time that the pitcher might be called on to rush over between first and second and relay Tony's toss to Gehrig this year if Push-Em-Up remained in the line-up. However, it has been discovered that Tony can still rattle 'em around the infield as of old and that's another weight off Miller's shoulders.

Then there was the question about Ruth's legs. After a few weeks in St. Pete it was discovered that the Babe's underpinning was still sufficiently strong to get him out to right field and up to the plate without the aid of crutches. In some of the exhibition games the Babe's heaves to the plate were as wild as the waves out on the gulf, but the fans need have no fear that this will be permanent.

Wilcy Moore, who proved such a great bet as a relief pitcher in 1927 only to go bad in 1928, looks ready to again take his place as a finisher this year, and Hug has a few new pitchers, the best seeming to be a fellow named "Dusty" Rhodes from Hollywood. "Dusty" is a handsome youngster, and the camp mystery at St. Pete was centered about how he ever kept out of the pictures. He used to pitch for the University of Utah.

In addition to all of these cheery items, Jake Ruppert was still sporting that trick fender of his at the Water front park and around the lobbies of St. Pete's leading hostilities, which indicates that he thinks the Babe is going to have another great season and is saving up for the added money Ruth will want in 1930!!!

And, with all these things, Huggins is very happy.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

By ED. FRITZ

Fistic fans who witnessed the elusive Midget Wolgast dance and prance around the Jolly Bowl ring recently obtained a fair idea of his speed and stamina and at the same time had an opportunity to discover what James Buchanan, manager of Willie Davies, meant when he refused at first to let Davies box Wolgast "unless the Midget changed his style."

According to Buchanan the Midget, famed for terpsichorean showmanship, should not be credited for jumping like a grasshopper, and since Wolgast's appearance Buchanan has gained some support to his contention. In fact in explanation of why he gave a draw decision, one of the Wolgast-Grande judges pointed out that "showmanship" does not constitute fighting.

But the Midget employs that style and will never change it. To attempt it now would be his ruin as a fistic performer. Dancing to and fro, leaping and sidestepping like a little boy from Philadelphia pleased the fans, and no doubt when Willie steps with him the Welsh-American will also do some fancy stepping, bobbing, weaving and ducking, as everyone hereabouts who knows his style realizes he marvels in this.

generally accredited with having discovered and also with having aided to develop Haid and McCullough. He also deserves the credit for having sent Joe Hartman to the International League, and if anyone knows how to help develop a pitcher it is Hartman. Personally we believe he is about the wisest head in baseball hereabouts. If Bill Jolly should find that he wants to sponsor a baseball team here, the writer is in a position to say that Hart will be included as one of the men considered as a managerial prospect. There have been other managers here, but none better than "Hub".

Walter is famed locally also as a tennis racket fiend. He can take a racket and wind it up to perfection. Throughout the tennis season he is in demand, and when he turns out a job the player who goes on the court can rest assured he has a racket that will stand up. Hart believes in the motto, "What is worth doing is worth doing well."

THEM WERE THE DAYS!

Harkening back to the old days, remember when Bill Fortier covered first base? He could field either side of the bat and was good for a hit. Recall the long distance game, or 16-inning clash, between Hartman and McCullough on the P. R. R. grounds? That was a heartbreaker, but it was a tussle.

Who recalls the game between the Homestead Grays and the Castle Cords that hot July Fourth when the Castle Cords won their "Independence" through Carts? Slammed and panned, the pitching manager went through the morning game and won and came back in the afternoon, staged an "Iron man" stunt and won the second game for the Cords.

Where have all the Cords gone? Few know. There were Bill James, pitcher; Harry O'Donnell and Mickle Lalonde, catchers; Gene Layden, outfielder; Otis Al. Mickle and Layden are still in baseball. Harry went back to Philadelphia. There was a lot of color to the team, but it disappeared when the rubber works "blew up" and the team disbanded.

BRACE UP, ROMEO

The knockout of Romeo Pacelli,

local featherweight, was something of a shock to the fight fans of this city, and when it became known that Alvie Miller had turned the trick the shock was greater, as "on paper" Alvie does not make with the clever lad from the southern end of the city.

Some time ago Romeo boxed Young Kaiser, and though the judges termed the bout a draw, the popular decision went to Kaiser. Romeo was asked to reight Kaiser, but complained of a sore arm and was billed by the Youngstown club to box Sandy Safadi. When Romeo got on the scene Alvie was sent in as a substitute.

Romeo had Alvie licked to a frazzle when the knockout was delivered. It was a sort of Al McCoy-George Chip proposition. If Romeo is the boy we believe him he will not let one knockout deter him from the goal he seeks. He is a careful, cautious fighter and young. Romeo may profit by the defeat.

U. S. MOTORCYCLES AS TAXIS

Motorcycles from the United States have caused a reduction in taxi fares in Prague, Czechoslovakia. When passengers complained about the taxi rates, which were among the highest in Europe, an importer of American motorcycles put into service 30 machines equipped with two-passenger side cars as taxicabs at lower rates. The idea took, and now 30 motorcycle taxis are operating. Alarmed, local motorcycle manufacturers prevailed upon city authorities to bar any more foreign motorcycles from operating, which has stopped the increase of cars from this country.

Brother Receives High Appointment

W. A. Johns Gets News; Some Notes Of Interest To Welsh Folks

(By W. A. JOHNS, Brython.)
Cathryn Daily Leader, printed at Swansea, South Wales, was received this week and in it was found an excellent picture of Llewellyn Johns, brother of William A. Johns, Brython, who resides on South Market street.
There was also an interesting account of his appointment to the high office of a headmaster of the Municipal Secondary school of the city of Swansea. He was selected from a group of 400 applicants by the members of the school board of Swansea.

The Welsh people of this city were very glad to welcome Mr. and Mrs. John Evans of Morgantown, W. Va., to the city over Easter Sunday. They attended the services at Emmanuel Baptist church, both morning and evening and they enjoyed the preaching of Rev. Childs and the Easter cantata by the little children of the congregation in the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Evans have a warm spot in their hearts for New Castle, as a result of having made their home here for some years.

Richard Jones of Baltimore, Md., is visiting in our city at the present time and he is making his home with his daughter on Croton avenue. He is a former well known resident of this city, before he moved to Baltimore, and friends here were glad to meet him once more and extend the hand of fellowship to him.

Miss Nana Jenkins, organist of the Emmanuel Baptist church and a teacher at the junior high school, has just returned home after spending ten days with friends at the city of New York, and while in New York she met a good many former New Castle people who are making their homes in New York at the present time.

The members of Star of Wales lodge, No. 66, True Iovites of America, will meet Saturday evening, April 6, in the Emmanuel Baptist church to receive the report of the sick committee and also to give the degrees of the order to new members. Griffith Phillips and Thomas Grey will be the team to give these degrees to the new members.
The officers are expecting a large number of the members to be present on Saturday evening.

Arthur Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Williams of Hillcrest avenue, who is filling a responsible position with a large corporation, is doing fine. His work keeps him away from home but on Sunday, Easter, he did remember his Sunday, the Emmanuel Baptist Sunday school, by contributing five dollars to help the school meet its expenses while he is away.

All the Welsh and the American people will remember the sacred concert that will be held in the First Congregational church Sunday evening, April 7, for the benefit of the poor miners of South Wales, who with their families have been suffering greatly for the past two years because of the lack of employment. It is expected that the church will be filled to overflowing.

Letters have been received from the city of Pittsburgh stating that great preparation is being made for the coming concert in that city under the auspices of the Women's Welsh club of that city, when the Castleton Singers of this city, consisting of Prof. Richard E. Johns, Joseph Strumwater, George Anthony and Harry Evans, will be the leading singers at the concert, with Prof. Edwin Lewis at the piano. The concert will be held in the Welsh Presbyterian church at McDowell Place and the Boulevard of the Allies. More than 500 tickets at $1 each have already been sold and many more will be sold.

A letter received this week from Thomas Edward of Pico, Cal., states that everything is all right in his family, but failed to contain any word concerning his proposed visit to this city this summer.

Two Mine Motormen Seriously Injured

(International News Service)
ALTOONA, April 5.—Two motormen in the cresson No. 9 mine of the Pennsylvania Coal and Coke company, were badly injured early today, by a premature dynamite blast.
Charles Marnechak, 40, suffered the probably loss of both eyes. John E. Sellers suffered burns and lacerations of both eyes. They were within three feet of the charge when someone in the mine turned on the power to set off the dynamite.

Wounds Wife And Daughter, Tries To Take Own Life

(International News Service)
WILKES-BARRE, Pa., April 5.—After shooting and seriously wounding his wife, Martin Korch, 47, of Nanticoke, near here, turned the gun on his daughter, wounding her slightly, and then attempted to take his own life. Korch will probably die. Nanticoke hospital attaches said. The shooting occurred at the Korch home in Nanticoke at about noon today, following what police said was an extended family quarrel lasting over a period of several weeks. Nelly Korch, the man's wife, received one bullet in the neck and two others in her body. Hospital physicians said that her condition was critical, but she had a chance for recovery. The daughter, Anna Korch, 17, received a flesh wound in the arm. Korch fired one bullet into his chest in his attempt to end his life. Nanticoke police said Mrs. Korch had had her husband arrested some time ago following domestic difficulties and that a hearing was to have been held last night, but was postponed until tonight. How times change. Once a boy lied about smoking cigarettes to escape a lugging and now he lies about it to get $500 for a testimonial. The world will be well on the way to disarmament when no cruiser gun can exceed the diplomats in caliber. "The most wretched fortune is safe; for there is no fear of anything worse."—Ovid.

Protest Movement Of Mexican Troops On American Soil

(International News Service)
PHOENIX, Ariz., April 5.—Vigorous protest against the contemplated movement of Mexican Federal troops across Arizona from El Paso, Texas, to Naco, was contained in a telegram sent by Governor John C. Phillips to

Secretary of State Stimson. It was disclosed at the state capital today. Governor Phillips objected to the passage of Mexican soldiers over American soil on the stated grounds that it was contrary to military code and the constitution of this state. Adjutant General Joseph F. Pomeroy, here today from Naco, Ariz., reported that three aerial bombs were dropped on the Arizona side of the international line by a Rebel plane, injuring an American citizen. Correct this sentence: "If I should inherit a million" said he, "I'd use it to help all the poor people I know."

Well we will have to admit that some good can come out of most everything. Our office boy says he is going to quit smoking cigarettes because it is getting too effeminate. Some people seem to think that the way to exercise thrift is to buy a lot of things a dollar down and a dollar a week. Among the things which have gone entirely out of fashion are red flannel petticoats, dog carts and chaperones. The Chinese have been killing each other for ten years, yet according to the theory of the pacifists, they must be peaceful because they haven't any anything. A California scientist says that the moon is porous. Maybe after all there is something to that story about its being made of cheese. The popular idea with a lot of folks is not the minimum wage law but the maximum wage with the minimum amount of work. One kind of jam that is not popular with the housewife especially about 6 o'clock in the evening is the traffic jam.
